It was learned this morning that a McHenry truck driver was the victim of a murder yesterday in Charlotte, N.C.

Robert Delano Wagner, 55, an employee of Bowman Trucking Company, was found at about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday slumped over the steering wheel of his rig that was parked along the roadway. He had apparently been robbed and then shot with a handgun. There are evidently no suspects in the case, and Charlotte-Mecklenburg police are appealing to the public for any information related to the crime.

Among Wagner's survivors are his wife, Bonnie (Bittinger) Wagner. The Newman Funeral Home is in charge of funeral arrangements, which were incomplete at presstime.

Further details of the incident were unavailable this morning.

TAKING RISKS, CLIMBING MOUNTAINS - Jessica Teets, a young woman from Sanders Lane in Oakland, is pictured above shortly after she reached a high spot on The Great Wall of China. The climb to the point was no less than treacherous, and an expedition she waited to tell her parents about until after she was safely back home. The trailing wall, completed in the third century B.C., can be seen far in the distance. Jessica, a 20-year-old college student at the University of Maryland, spent five months in China as part of a special collegiate program. She earned 20 hours of schooling as well as a wealth of education through experiences and events. See feature story on page C-8.

Airline Crash Claims Lives Of Lake Residents

Two well-known parttime residents of Garrett County were among the 230 persons killed in last week's crash of TWA Flight #800 off the coast of New York.

Dr. Nanik Ersoz and his wife, Dr. Clara Jean Ersoz, who own a home along Rock Lodge Road at Deep Creek Lake, were on board the ill-fated flight from New York City to Paris. With them was a nephew, 13-year-old David Babb, who was on his first plane ride.

The Ersozes' primary residence was Upper St. Clair near Pittsburgh, and both were prominent citizens in their professional lives and in their community. Clara, believed to be in her late 50s, retired in 1993 from her position as vice president of medical affairs at St. Clair Hospital and in recent years has been a consultant in the field of health care quality management. She co-authored the book The Healthcare Manager's Guide to Continuous Quality Improvement, which was published by the American Hospital Association.

After completing her internship at Shadyside Hospital in Pittsburgh and doing residences at hospitals in Toronto and at Mercy Hospital, she became one of the early fellows and the first female fellow in the University of Pittsburgh's critical care program at Presbyterian University Hospital in 1965. She was an assistant professor in Pitt's anesthesiology department for several years before practicing again at Mercy and later at St. Clair's. After serving as director of St. Clair's intensive care unit and as medical director, she assumed her vice president post in 1985.

"She was a super doctor, extremely conscientious and

Pagenhardt, Martin Reply To Local Realtors' Tax Concerns

Garrett County Clerk Lamont Pagenhardt and Garrett County Circuit Court Clerk David Martin this week replied to tax concerns recently voiced by members of the Garrett County Board of Realtors.

In a letter to Karen Spiker, proprietor of A & A Realty - Better Homes and Gardens, McHenry, Pagenhardt commented that "there was no direct intention by the county to ostracize or purposely evade this issue with the board of realtors."

Spiker was among 40 local realtors, all members of the board of realtors, who met with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners last week to discuss the recent hike in recordation and transfer taxes. Realtors shared their concern that the increased taxes would hurt the local real estate trade, but also expressed their dismay that the real estate community was not consulted prior to the tax hike.

Also at issue was the way in which realtors were notified of the tax hikes. According to Spiker, Garrett realtors learned of the tax increases from local bankers and attorneys.

As a result, realtors faced a "tremendous struggle" in explaining the added taxes to their clients, and law offices stayed busy late into the night to close real estate deals before July 1, the effective date of the tax hikes, Spiker said.

Circuit Court Clerk Dave Martin stated this week that he sent memorandums announcing the tax increase to real estate and title companies as well as to attorneys and bankers on or around June 1. Separate mailings were not sent to each individual real estate agent, however.

In Martin's letter, dated May 29, the clerk said, "If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me."

Following last week's commissioners' meeting,

DNR: We Are Not Stocking Rattlesnakes

A local representative of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources stated this week that the department is not stocking rattlesnakes in Garrett County.

The statement came in response to a flood of hearsay about the DNR releasing the venomous serpents in the local area.

The rumors have caused the McHenry Barrack of the Maryland State Police to receive "tons of calls," stated Patty Manown, local DNR spokesperson. Currently circulating rumors have accused the DNR of dropping rattlesnakes by the thousands from helicopters into Potomac-Garrett State Forest in an attempt to reduce the wild turkey population, Manown said.

Manown insisted that the DNR is not releasing rattlesnakes. She added that the department has no intention to reduce the turkey population, which has been increased, at least in part, through the continued efforts of the DNR. Furthermore, rattlesnakes are not known to eat turkey eggs, she said.

Fears associated with the rumors apparently caused three parents of Head Start students to prevent their children from taking part in a field trip to Potomac-Garrett State Forest this spring.

After attempting to trace the source of the rumors, Manown believes that the tall tales might have begun with children in the Accident area.

Mettiki Parent Co. Reports Sale Of Coal Segment

MAPCO, Inc., parent company of Mettiki Coal Corporation, recently announced that it has executed a final agreement for the sale of 100% of its coal segment to The Beacon Group Energy Investment Fund, LP. The transaction is anticipated to close by August 12.

Under the agreement, MAPCO retains the opportunity to participate in coal-related projects currently under consideration in Indonesia.

The company also reported that second quarter results will reflect a non-cash charge relative to the coal divestiture of approximately $47 million after taxes, or $1.63 per share. This charge will be partially offset by coal segment earnings through the closing date, which will be retained by MAPCO under the sales agreement.

"We are excited that this transaction is finally completed," remarked Charlie Wesley, vice president of operations at Mettiki. "The management at Mettiki appreciates the patience of our employees and their families, our vendors, and our customers. We are looking forward to the financial closing that is

Alleged Arsonist Charged With Two Counts Of Attempted Murder

A Swanton man was arrested on two counts of attempted murder and first and second degree arson after allegedly setting fire to a mobile home along Rt. 135 on Backbone Mountain while two women were inside on Monday evening. The mobile home, as well as a storage building, were destroyed; however, the women, Jacqueline Barnard, 48, and Dorothy Carol Agnew, 47, escaped unharmed.

Charged in the 6:14 p.m. incident was Ronald Paul Barnard Sr., 49, Swanton, according to a report received from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office. Besides the murder and arson charges, he was also charged with interfering with a fire fighter.

Volunteer fire fighters from Bloomington, Kitzmiller, Deer Park, Westernport, Bittinger, Lonaconing, Barton, and Piedmont were involved in the alarm, as was the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad. First to arrive on the scene were personnel from the Bloomington and Deer Park Community VFDs, who saw flames coming through the roof of the mobile home upon their arrival. Damages to the mobile home, shed, and a 1980 Lincoln Continental automobile, all reportedly owned by Barnard, were estimated by the investigators to be a total of $76,000. It was unknown if Barnard had insurance on the property.

Deputy state fire marshals Bruce Shafer and Frank Rauschenbert with the fire marshal's K-9 unit responded to the scene and said there were several points of origin of the fire, which was reported by a passing motorist. It took fire fighters about two hours to extinguish the blaze.

Barnard was transported to the Garrett County jail where he posted $10,000 bond and was released.

Quarry Request Approved, With Some Conditions

After reading numerous letters and petitions and listening to hours of testimony in a meeting which ran past midnight last Thursday, the Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals voted unanimously to approve a special exception for Maryland Minerals, Inc., to permit the firm to open two new portals in the Thayerville Quarry for deep mining of limestone.

However, the board's approval includes several stipulations for the company, some naming tasks the mining firm must complete and others limiting future activities of the company.

The board had approved the request for a special exception when it was originally presented by the company last spring, and the Maryland Department of the Environment followed suit in the fall by recommending that the company be granted a surface mining permit to start the project. However, the decision was challenged by Brownings Deep Creek Quarry, Inc., an adjoining mine company, and Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred Thayer returned the issue to the board of zoning appeals.

After some delay and rescheduling, the new hearing drew a standing-room-only crowd to the board's meeting room in the Garrett County courthouse, and testimony did not conclude until 12:20 a.m.

At issue was whether Maryland Minerals should be allowed to expand its mining operation at the quarry by opening two portals to the underground reserve of limestone. The quarry is located in an area zoned lake residential, but the mine was in operation

Man To Serve Five Years For Robbing Church

A local man indicted by the March Term Grand Jury was sentenced on July 11 to five years in prison by Judge Fred A. Thayer. Clyde S. Wilkins Jr., 27, pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court to the charges of second degree burglary and misdemeanor theft after being accused of robbing St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, in December 1995.

For the burglary charge, Thayer handed down a sentence of 10 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections and suspended five years. For misdemeanor theft, the judge sentenced him to 18 months, to run concurrently. He also ordered Wilkins to make restitution to the church in the amount of $1,051.88 and to be on three years of supervised probation following his release.

The defendant allegedly broke into the church in December and took approximately $100 in cash. He is also accused of taking various supplies and tools.

An Oakland man pleaded guilty to three charges brought against him in September of last year following a traffic incident. Larry G. Wilson, 33, pleaded guilty to resisting NATIONAL CHAMPS - AGAIN! The VICA (Vocational, Industrial Clubs of America) Club of Southern High School has for the second time taken first place in the Multiple Section of the Occupational Health and Safety Contest, a national contest held last month in Kansas. Pictured shortly after accepting the award are, left to right, Jeremy Rohrbaugh, Jamie Bernard, and Missy Smith. The team participated in four safety projects throughout the year at Southern, including a safety inspection of the shops at the school, industrial tours of the area, a noise study of the Broad Ford Middle School gymnasium, and a material safety data sheet project. The finalists at the national contests participated in an interview. Local club member Missy Smith completed this portion of the event. Southern's team has been in the top three in the nation in this event for the past eight years. In the Missouri contest, approximately 3,500 vocational students engaged in competition in 57 different trade, technical, and leadership fields. The local team also participated in the VICA Quiz Bowl. See team photo elsewhere in today's issue. Steve Cosner, a teacher at Southern, is the team's advisor.

"ALL ABOARD!" - Persons who have always wanted to own their own railroad, take note. Clayton Reckart, who resides along Creilin Mine Road, started building this engine and tender car from scratch 10 years ago, and has now decided to sell them, along with about 700 feet of rails. Reckart used 18-pound steel and copper rivets to construct the engine, which weighs somewhere in the neighborhood of five tons. He said the project is not quite complete, but has made the decision to sell it in its present state. Persons desiring more information about the train, and/or wanting to see it, may contact Reckart at 334-4573.

Charlie Byrd Enroute From Olympics To GCC Auditorium

CHARLIE BYRD

PAULA HATCHER JAZZ QUARTET

by Kristina Carr Smith,

Musicians participating in the Olympics? The answer is yes; Charlie Byrd is the gentleman who will be returning from Atlanta to McHenry to perform with long-time friend and performing artist Paula Hatcher/The Paula Hatcher Jazz Quartet, in a concert this weekend at Garrett Community College, where melodies and phrasing will embrace the audience in old and new ways. Their music has not easily been classified to fall into one particular category, and each performance is fresh because of the mix of classical and jazz idioms combined by these well seasoned performing artists.

Byrd and Hatcher have been performing together for the last 20 years part-time in various collaborations. "I feel where he's coming from, a classical adaptation of jazz, what he's doing and how to complement it," shared Hatcher of their work together. "Flute and guitar is one of the most beautiful combinations of music there is, and with its own set of challenges and balances that must intricately be matched.

Both artists have traveled most of the Continental United States as well as internationally, and both had a hard time naming a specific performance date that really stood out. In essence, for both Hatcher and Byrd, they all have been special in their own unique ways. "There have been so many," said Byrd. "I seldom think in those kind of terms."

"I guess recently the concert this spring at the Brazilian Embassy in London in the Royal Festival Hall was the most memorable recent concert. It was a prestigious kind of concert, the hall was jam-packed, and they loved us so, that was kind of nice," concluded Byrd, a soft spoken, low-key gentleman. "I've found travel exciting in a lot of different ways. Musically, South America, Brazil, in particular; my visits there have been memorable because they are very musical people and I've had a lot of fun playing and being with their musicians."

Byrd has studied with the best of the best, artists that include the likes of Andres Segovia, in Italy, and gypsy guitarist Django Reinhardt, in Paris. These people inspired Byrd to study jazz at the Harnett National School of Music in New York. By the late 40's, Byrd had become established in the East Coast jazz circles; but was drawn to study in a new direction and pursued a career as a concert artist, and he's recognized as one of the top performing artists internationally today.

"When you put it like that, you make me sound like a scholar," said Byrd, with his Virginian accent caught by a careful ear, "But I'm not a scholar. I've had the opportunity to spend some time with Segovia who has been a great inspiration and teacher both in a broad and narrow sense. I've had a chance to play with and hear many great musicians, but this is sort of from afar.

"When you get right down to it, one of the most important influences on my playing has been my father, an amateur musician, but his enthusiasm for playing rubbed off on me, as well as the people I've had the opportunity to meet and work with. Some of them are not very well known at all, and some of them are not very good, but you don't only learn from the geniuses of the world; you learn from everyone you come in contact with," said Byrd. "Sometimes someone who plays very simply has a lot to teach you."

Byrd's father was concerned with Byrd decided to take music up a fulltime career. "There's a lot of competition in the world, more people are considering music as a career than ever before. They need to get as much knowledge and technique as they can, and keep their head on straight. There's no other way to put it. The most important thing to me is that if you can figure out how to make a living by making music, that's the reward. Not very many musicians get rich -- the music business is very lucrative, but not much of it trickles down to musicians, so one really has to have a devotion for music and hope for the best."

Byrd grew up in southwestern Virginia. His father never played professionally, and was supportive when Byrd first started playing, "But he was suspect when I chose it as a career... he was right, it is a suspect career! He didn't think it was such a good idea and his advice to be careful about going into such a funny business was absolutely correct. I didn't think so at that time... but it worked out. He was pleased about that, he got to see me become a success."

Hatcher's background is an unusual mix of classical and jazz music. She received her training from the Peabody Conservatory, and her talents have taken her all over the world, as have Byrd's. She has performed in Kennedy Center in Washington, and Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall among others as she's traveled 42 of the 50 United States of this country. Inspired by vocalists, the stylings, phrasing, breath marks, and even the words to songs, Hatcher studies when approaching a new piece of music. "It's important to know these things, not so much intellectually, but improvisationally. It effects the bottom line, which is making good music; music that is also fun and entertaining," she said.

Hatcher's experiences on the road have been memorable in lots of ways. Her most memorable performance was one she did in South Carolina on a tour. "Sometimes you play where you don't expect to," shared Hatcher. The trip to South Carolina took her to a place she didn't expect to be -- the vortex of a total lunar eclipse. "I was surprised to see so much top of the line camera equipment when we boarded the plane," said Hatcher. "The night of the eclipse I was outside playing. All of the creatures became quiet, the peepers, crickets, toads... there was such a sense of wonder. That performance was for nature. When you loose your sense of wonder, that's when it's time to stop playing.

"Musically there have been so many highs in my career, teaching and per-

State Represented Many Ways At 1996 Olympics

by Bernice Kepple

Throughout the whole country, television sets are being tuned in to the Olympic games in Atlanta, Georgia. Here in Maryland, viewers will have much to look for while watching the competition. There are 16 Maryland Olympians in the 1996 competition; products and services have been provided by several Maryland companies; and other individuals from Maryland have or will be taking part in the Olympic Games.

Maryland's better-known 1996 Olympians include gymnast Dominique Dawes and swimmers Beth Botsford and Brad Schumacher, all of whom have already won gold medals this week, plus kayakers David Hearn, his sister Cathy Hearn, and Dana Chladek, who are no strangers to Garrett County and the Savage River. Other Marylanders in the games are: Carin Gabarra, women's soccer; Steve Jennings, field hockey; Clint Peay and A.J. Wood, men's soccer; Michelle Zaloom, rowing, Mark Henderson and Whitney Metzler, swimming; Todd Sweeris and Amy Feng, table tennis; and Libby Callahan, shooting.

Central Maryland is well represented. Deborah Thompson Brown, of Frederick, was one of the former Olympians who were chosen to bear the Olympic torch on its run to Atlanta. Brown ran the 200-meter dash in the 1964 Olympics. Also of Frederick is Bill Kelley, who will announce pistol and rifle shooting events in both English and French for the Olympic Games.

Covering the event in more ways than one, is Remsberg Tents. The Frederick-based company is responsible for 350 tents covering 400,000 square feet, enough tents to cover more than eight football fields. From the 210,000-square-foot accreditation center at Atlanta's Hartfield International Airport to the 30,000-square-foot media center, the company is providing coverage for an array of public sites and vending areas. About 50 percent of the tents are air-conditioned, and most of them have sides, doors and floors. "This is the largest single event we've ever been involved in and probably a once in a lifetime opportunity for us," says Doug Remsberg, the company's president.

Remsberg added 10 people to his 125-person staff in Frederick to complete the more than $5 million contract, which was awarded in February 1995. The bid process started in October 1994 and was completed in February 1995. Two other companies were also awarded contracts, one from California, the other from Holland. Remsberg says the tent work has been equally divided among the three companies. "We've had so much time to prepare that it really hasn't been all that hectic," Remsberg said.

After the Olympics are over, Remsberg said he will sell a few of the newly constructed tents, but he plans to add most to his current stock. He believes the exposure from the Olympics will boost business. "This is going to elevate us to new levels," he said. "It's a very good resume builder."

Youth Injured In Hunting Mishap

An 11-year-old boy was injured Sunday afternoon during a hunting accident on his family's property on the Stever Mine Road, near Oakland.

According to a spokesperson for the Natural Resources Police, the unidentified youth had been hunting groundhogs from a tree stand, and was attempting to climb down from the stand when his shotgun accidently fired, striking the boy in the right knee and again in the lower part of his left leg.

According to the spokesperson, the boy's father administered first aid at the scene, and then took him to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment. The youth was later transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where he underwent surgery on Tuesday. He is reportedly in "good" condition, according to the spokesperson.

No charges were filed in the 5:38 p.m. mishap.

GCMH Patient Registration To Change Aug. 1

Garrett County Memorial Hospital's procedure for patient registration will change effective August 1, according to Rita Durst, director of patient account services at Garrett Memorial, who said the new process required to register patients is designed to improve customer service to those individuals requiring immediate emergency care.

"It is very uncomfortable for patients who are ill to have to wait for long periods of time to register. This new system will be much more efficient for patients, eliminating long lines at the emergency room registration desk, " said Durst.

Beginning Thursday, August 1, only those patients requiring emergency care or outpatient surgery will register at the desk located outside of the emergency room. Patients requiring any other services -- including outpatient testing or a direct admit order from a physician -- are to register at the front desk located in Garrett Memorial's main lobby.

"We're very excited about the new changes that are about to occur," commented Durst. "In addition, because of the generosity of the Loar Auxiliary, our newly renovated front desk in the main lobby area provides a pleasant environment for our patient registration services."

During the transitional phase of the new registration process, informational signs will be located in the hospital and greeters will be available to assist patients.

Durst recommends the following tips to make the registration process easier and more convenient for patients:

*Bring your insurance card with you each time you come to the hospital.

*Give accurate information (i.e. proper names).

*If you have been referred to the hospital to receive a service ordered by a doctor, bring the doctor's order with you or make certain that the order has been called in.

Bear Reportedly Struck By Car; Details Sketchy

A spokesperson for the Department of Natural Resources confirmed this week that a black bear was struck by a car on Rt. 38, near Kitzmiller on Saturday, Aug. 13.

A report by a resident of that area prompted a call to the DNR office for further information, but because the incident happened on a weekend, and late in the evening (9:42 p.m.), complete details were unavailable. The DNR spokesperson told The Republican that a call was made to the 9-1-1 office after the incident occurred, and personnel from the Garrett County Office of Emergency Services routed the call to the state DNR office in Annapolis, reporting to them that a black bear had been struck by a car, and had left the area. No other information was available from the DNR.

Car Overturns, Driver Injured

The driver of a 1992 Geo was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Thursday after his vehicle overturned on Sand Flat Road, according to a report from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. A passenger in the car, Melvin Howell, Mtn. Lake Park, was also transported to the hospital where he was treated and released.

Kevin R. King, Swanton, was operating the car northbound on Sand Flat when he traveled off the roadway and the vehicle rolled over. The accident occurred at about 12:15 a.m., according to the report.

The injured were transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Also responding to the scene was the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department.

Chamber Seeking Edge For Garrett Govt. Contractors

In an effort to help county contractors and vendors win contracts with Garrett County government, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has proposed that the county establishing a percentage differential in favor of Garrett County companies. The differential would make bids from county firms appear lower, thus giving the local firms a possible leg up in competitive bidding.

David Moe, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, met with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week to discuss the proposal and suggested that the differential be set at between 2-5%. This percentage would be figured into county firms' bids in an attempt to give them a competitive edge over out-of-county bidders.

Allegany County currently operates under a 2% percentage differential, Moe commented. Washington County maintains a similar differential, he added.

Moe said that Gary Mullich, director of general services for Garrett County government, has informed him that the commissioners may have the power to enact a policy establishing such a differential for contracts under $15,000.

The commissioners stated that they will discuss the issue with County Attorney Gorman "Mike" Getty.

Moe also remarked that he has discussed the issue with District 1A Delegate George Edwards, adding that the chamber plans to pursue the introduction of percentage differential legislation for Garrett County in the Maryland General Assembly.

Battery, Assault Incidents Result In GCSO Arrests

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office logged various arrests this week, at least two of which involved alleged domestic violence. Several bench warrants were also served to persons for failing to appear in court.

A Cresaptown man was arrested Saturday after he allegedly attempted to run over his wife with his car. Kenneth G. Wiley, 27, is accused of driving through the lawn of the Meadow View Apartments in Grantsville after having engaged in a fight with his wife, Rebecca M. Wiley, 26. According to the complainant's statement, he nearly hit her with the car, and then damaged the lawn of the complex and ran over a tree, according to the report.

He apparently later returned to the home and broke down the front door of Mrs. Wiley's apartment and again argued with her. He was charged with fourth degree burglary, two counts of property destruction, and DWI (driving while intoxi-

"For a few of the women, this will be their first experience on stage," Brosnihan said. "And for others, it will take them back to the memories and excitement they once knew as performers in their school days." More information about the show will be published, or can be obtained by contacting the GLAF office at 387-3082. Pictured are several of the women to appear in the event. The Best System?...

Mounting evidence from last week's crash of TWA Flight 800 is strongly indicating that the catastrophe was no accident, but the work of a lunatic or, more likely, a group of terrorists who don't like the United States. If and when it is determined beyond any doubt that this was a criminal act, an intensive investigation will go into full swing. There evidently are already some leads being pursued by the FBI and other agencies.

The technical investigative methods and the expertise of our law enforcement officials are nothing short of incredible. The search for the culprits will be intensive and will more than likely, eventually, lead to some arrests. It may take months or years, and it will be expensive; but if arrests are made, it will be worth it. Or will it?

If one or more persons are arrested in this incident, they will be incarcerated. They will most likely wait for months before their trial, during which time they will be housed and fed. They will be able to watch television, read books, write letters, exercise, and have time to get outside and enjoy the fresh air each day. If they become ill, they will be taken care of, no matter what the cost and at no expense to them whatsoever. If they are unable to afford an attorney, one will be provided for them. When their trial finally begins, they will undoubtedly be staunchly defended, which is what that appointed attorney is supposed to do. Perhaps they had a rough childhood that led to their deviant behavior. Perhaps they are addicted to drugs and/or alcohol, and thus shouldn't be held accountable. If they are found guilty and sentenced to death, they will spend years on death row, and be given seemingly endless appeal options.

Meanwhile, the relatives and friends of those innocent persons who were on board that flight will be crying, hurting, struggling, and trying for months or years to put their lives back together. Many will need intense counseling. They will never really get over it. Their losses are permanent.

Ours is the best system of justice in the world, they say. Is it really? We would hate to see the worst. Maybe we will all get lucky and the perpetrators of this crime, once found, will resist arrest.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Sun paper in Baltimore recently ran a story on Hoye Crest (6/23/96, Section C, page C-1). Having visited this site in October of 1994, I was shocked to learn that the site, Maryland's highest elevation, is privately owned, and that easy access is denied by Vista Properties.

Are there any suggestions as to what actions can be taken to have this site, with access for visitors, revert to ownership by the State of Maryland or Garrett County government so that Maryland's highest point will forever be accessible to the citizens of the state? I would have thought that when the original dedication took place in 1952, that the state would have used some form of condemnation procedures to obtain ownership with access for the citizens of Maryland.

To say the least, I think that some action should be taken as quickly as possible in order to guarantee that this site will not be geographically destroyed in the land development process. I would be willing to assist in lobbying this effort if I can be of use.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey H. Fowler

To the Editor:

This letter is late since the tax rate has been set. We the people must do in this case as all other big goverment impositions, nuckle down, tighten our belts and do the best we can.

I would like to throw out some personal figures fron the farm. The farmer is the only business that buys on a retail market and sells on a wholesale market. He also don't have the privelage of seting the price on his commodities. He is at the mercy of the weather, varmits, and government regulations, and inflation. This year I paid six cents more pr. gal. for farm gasolene.

In 1996 catte prices are down twenty cents pr. lb. At the same time taxes go up every year for every one. My taxes have increased at the rate of aprox two hundred dollars pr. year. Mchinery and parts prices continue to climb. The question is how long can this go and survive, then where do we go. Probably a job with dept. of education would be a good move. That is where the money is goeing. County government seems to think they can squeze the working man more and more.

Each year the tax base increases, the assessments go up so this notes an increase. There is never any mention of that. A good idea would be to cut the bigest account first.

Mr. Editor I am sorry you favor tax increases. You should at least care about the people who buy your papers. They that carry the big club should be considerate of the populse for a better balanced economy. Why should some get a raise while the working man takes a loss.

Yours truly,
Homer Meliott

Editor's note: The above letter appears word-for-word as it was received.

To the Editor:

A bomb placed aboard by a terrorist or terrorists is under consideration as a possible cause of the tragic explosion and loss of 230 lives in the Atlantic Ocean of TWA's Paris-bound Flight 800 last week. The activities of individuals and militia groups against the laws they renounce have been around' for a long time. In 1773 a group of citizens threw a shipment of tea into Boston Harbor to protest a tax on imports imposed by the English upon its colony. As many of us learned in school the event is called the Boston Tea Party.

More recently, federal agents stormed the Branch Davidian Compound in Waco, Texas, last year with a loss of more than 80 sect members in the ensuing fire. Earlier this year, government officials were able to successfully end a stand-off between the Freemen and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Jordan, Montana.

A growing trend, that has been noted by law-enforcement officials and human rights organizations as the fastest-growing sector of the far right Patriot movement, is the development of common-law courts that operate outside the conventional legal system. Robert Crawford of the Coalition for Human Dignity, a human-rights organization in Seattle, noted, "Since the middle of last year, the trend we have seen the most is common-law courts using militias as their enforcement arm," through threats and intimidation that attack the very basis of democratic society--the rule of law. Mike Reynolds of the Southern Poverty Law Center, said that on June 3, last year, 600 Patriots showed up for a seminar on the marriage of paramilitary groups and common-law courts in Wichita, Kansas, titled National Common Law Courts Grand Jury.

Consider the Vipers. On July 3, 1996 federal agents raided a private house in Phoenix, Arizona, and found a small armory of grenades, fuses, blasting caps, pistols, machine guns, rides and 56 boxes crammed with 11,463 rounds of ammunition. Calling himself Captain of the Viper Militia, Randy L. Nelson, a house painter, Dean C. Pleasant, his roommate, and 10 others were jailed facing charges which included illegal possession of a machine gun and conspiracy to teach bombing techniques to provoke civil disorder. Scott Grainger, a longtime friend of Mr. Pleasant and county chairman of the Libertarian Party, said he suspected political motives behind the crackdown, noting that federal agents had been monitoring the group for several months and the arrests came barely a week after the deadly truck bombing of an American military base in Saudi Arabia.

Commenting on the daily cat and mouse confrontations that go on between members of the Patriot movement and government officials, Sgt. Michael Dailey of the Columbus, Ohio, Police Department, an expert on paramilitary groups, said there are an estimated 441 paramilitary groups and they can be found in all 50 states. "There are 35 to 40 militias in Ohio with more than 1000 active members," he said.

Quarry Request

prior to the 1975 adoption of the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Zoning Ordinance.

This spring, claims circulated that the Maryland Minerals project would cause increased truck traffic in the Thayerville area.

A newspaper advertisement objecting to the special exception for Maryland Minerals warned, "A convoy of monster trucks is coming . . . Stop the strip mine and monster truck convoy."

Before hearing testimony, the board read numerous letters opposing Maryland Minerals' application, and counted over 100 coupons, clipped from advertisements opposing Maryland Minerals' application, which had been signed by citizens and mailed to the county government.

As at hearings last year, concerns were also expressed that Maryland Minerals' operation creates a dangerous situation for an adjoining mine owned by Brownings Deep Creek Quarry, Inc. The two mines are connected by underground passages, and for some time the Brownings company has not operated its facility citing concerns about dangers caused by blasting and other activities on the Maryland Minerals property.

However, in taking the floor to defend the quarry's proposal, Henry Moomau of Maryland Minerals presented a petition in favor of his company's application which he said had been signed by over 200 persons.

He also said that the project will not be a strip mine, but will be rather a deep mine.

The appeals board approved the application with the following conditions: 1) That Maryland Minerals will not mine under the Mountainside residential development on Roman Nose, 2) That the company will not produce more than 300,000 tons of stone per year; 3) Within 12 months, a five foot row of trees must block the view of the mine operation from Route 219; 4) The portal entrances must be concrete; 5) The site must be seeded and mulched upon completion; 6) All abandoned portals must be sealed and backfilled, except for the placement of air vents; and 7) The company must provide the board with an architectural rendering of how the completed project will look from Route 219.

More testimony from the appeals board meeting will be printed next week.

Mettiki Sale

scheduled in August.

"The Beacon Group is committed to growing our coal business and is excited about the tremendous opportunities that the future holds for our coal company and our talented and dedicated employees," Wesley added. "Mettiki Coal Corporation is looking forward to remaining a vital part of the economic future of Garrett County and the nearby West Virginia region."

Also commenting on the sale, MAPCO chairman, president, and chief executive officer James E. Barnes said, "Completion of the coal divestiture is a major step in our strategic plan to focus MAPCO's financial resources on initiatives within our core natural gas liquids and petroleum businesses, MAPCO is aggressively pursuing opportunities to become the leading markets of products and services in targeted energy markets.

"The recently announced joint venture with Rexene Corporation, which will promote our ability to market gas liquids in the southwestern U.S., northern Mexico, and on the Gulf Coast, reflects this strategy," Barnes said.

The company indicated that an announcement concerning use of proceeds from the coal sale will be made in the near future.

MAPCO is a diverse energy company which operates two subsidiaries, MAPCO Natural Gas Liquids and MAPCO Petroleum.

arrest, driving with a revoked license, and attempting to elude a police officer by fleeing on foot. Thayer accepted the pleas and ordered a pre-sentence investigation, according to the court report.

Wilson was reportedly signaled to stop by a sheriff's deputy for an automobile eqnipment violation but the defendant attempted to elude the officer. According to the report, Wilson left his car and attempted to run away, but was apprehended.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a Mtn. Lake Park couple who both pleaded guilty to marijuana possession. Philip R. Coddington, 29, and Tania Y. Martinez, 31, were arrested this March after the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search and seizure warrant at their Mtn. Lake Park home. Officers reportedly discovered marijuana plants and various drug paraphernalia in the house.

Thayer found a Mtn. Lake Park man to be in violation of his probation, according to records at the courthouse. William E. Bovee, 31, had originally been convicted on controlled dangerous substance and DWI (driving while intoxicated) charges. He apparently violated his probation by failing to pay various fees.

compassionate," said Dr. Peter Safar, former chair of anesthesiology at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center. "She would stay with critically ill patients without leaving their bedsides."

Dr. William McMillan, current vice president of medical affairs at St. Clair, credited Dr. Ersoz with implementing that hospitals entire quality improvement system. "Everyone who came in touch with her was the better for it," he said.

"She was an extraordinary woman," added Dr. Joel Schwartz, a staff physician at St. Clair.

In the community, Dr. Ersoz was known as "the mother of emergency medical services in the South Hills area," according to Ray Carlin, CEO of the Medical Rescue Team South. In the early 1970s, Dr. Ersoz became one of the physicians who developed the Freedom House Ambulance service in Pittsburgh, which later evolved into the city's Emergency Medical Services.

Dr. Namik Ersoz, who was a native of Turkey and in his early 60s, worked on the staffs of Magee Women's and the Veterans Administration hospitals. He spent a number of years on the staff at Montefiore Hospital before returning to Magee in 1991 and working until his retirement in 1993.

"He was an excellent anesthesiologist who certainly cared about his patients very much," stated Dr. Stephen C. Finestone, former anesthesiologist-in-chief for Montefiore.

According to Noreen Sommer, Dr. Clara Ersoz's assistant at St. Clair, the Ersozes had spent far more time at their Deep Creek Lake home than in Pittsburgh since their retirements. "They absolutely loved Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County," she said, adding that both were outdoor enthusiasts who enjoyed skiing, biking, boating, and tennis.

Clara was involved with last year's Patchwork Project at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"They were just great people," stated local friend Peg Janney, of Friendsville. "When I heard that they were on that jet, I felt like I had just been hit in the stomach with a medicine ball. They will really be missed."

The Ersozes are survived by two children, Nathaniel, Brownsburg, Ind., and Meryem, of Boulder, Colo. A funeral service was held Monday afternoon at Westminister Presbyterian Church in Upper St. Clair. The family suggests that memorials take the form of contributions to Chatham College, Office of Alumni Affairs, Woodland Road, Pittsburgh, PA 15232, or the Pittsburgh Turkish American Association Educational Foundation, P.O. Box 7545, Pittsburgh, PA 15213-0545.

David Babb, the Ersozes' nephew, was the son of Alfred and Sherri Babb, also of the Pittsburgh area. He was enroute to Paris to join his mother and his two sisters, Michelle, 17, and Katie, 15, who were on a travel tour. He is also survived by a 6-year-old brother, Brandon, who was at home with Mr. Babb at the time of the crash.

View From My Window

Garden Pests

I was asked recently what I use in the garden to hold insects at bay. It was a question I answered, albeit inadequately. My purpose in putting that answer in the newspaper is to evoke far better answers from our readers.

My standard garden remedy for pests is hydrated lime. I don't know if it actually kills any insects or if it only knocks them down. They have an aversion to it anyway. It makes them realize there must be some better spot for them to find their suppers than my garden.

The other benefit of hydrated lime is that it inhibits mold, mildew, and blight. Again I don't say hydrated lime stops them, but it surely slows them down. While I would never use hydrated lime as a soil amendment (I use ground limestone or wood ash for that) it does also help to balance the garden's ph needs. And nothing I use in the garden costs so little: four to five dollars for a 40 pound bag.

The strictest organic gardeners take exception to the use even of such a pesticide with as little toxicity as hydrated lime. They assert that it kills the micro organisms which are essential to soil-building. When push comes to shove, however, some of them will admit that while they would never recommend hydrated lime, it may in some cases prove to be the least among many evils.

Now I make my great public confession: I use sevin dust. Yes, it is an indiscriminate killer, meaning it kills the good insects (like honeybees) as well as the pests. Sevin is, on the positive side, comparatively safe -- nothing, not even hydrated lime is completely safe -- and it is cheap. I found it on sale recently for $2.25 for a four pound bag, which made it much cheaper than buying it in a 25 pound bag.

My major use of sevin is during the early growth stages (pre-bloom) which often prevents the need for more labor intensive intervention at later stages.

Last year I tried growing summer squash without using sevin. The plants developed beautifully, blossomed, formed small fruit, and then began to die. Some of them did die. They had borer. I got out my books, bought some rotenone (usually two to four times the price of sevin and I used a lot more of it than I would have had I used sevin early), and nursed a few plants through a light to moderate yield. When I have used sevin early I have not as much problem with borer. Maybe there is a better solution, if there is I want to hear it.

I do not like to use sevin on anything at bloom or later, and I do not use it on root crops at all. So my use of sevin is a limited one. My use of rotenone has been limited to instances when, due to the presence of blossom or fruit, I no longer felt comfortable using sevin.

Some of our Amish neighbors swear by tobacco dust which is almost as cheap as hydrated lime. I have tried tobacco dust but without discernable results. I blame that on myself. If such admirable gardeners as the Amish believe tobacco dust is key to there success, then I take their word for it.

One thing to note about the gardens of the Amish, at least the ones I drive by. There seems always to be someone out in the garden, cultivating or doing something. Any horticulture or agriculture which is low-input with respect to chemicals will necessarily be high-input with respect to labor.

Let me emphasize that this is a report of what I do and not a recommendation for anyone else. The county cooperative extension office is a resource for anyone with questions about using pesticides. In any case, it is imperative always, always to read and follow the instructions on the label of any pesticide.

There are surely better ways to deal with pests than those which I employ which are cost-effective as well. I hope to hear from the folks who know what they are.

JULY 25, 1996

GARRETT COUNTY, THE NEW VENICE? Flooding which has plagued Garrett County since the beginning of the year has given local residents a taste of Venice - Italy's famous city of canals - as drivers attempted to navigate along flooded roads, and homes became islands in lakes of murky water. Last week brought more rain and more flooding. Pictured above, during last week's heavy rainstorm, a truck on Route 495 just south of Grantsville creates waves as it passes an Accident Garage wrecker, right, apparently on its way to rescue a stranded motorist. Pictured below, Toliver Creek near the entrance of Swallow Falls State Park, which usually snakes along as a small stream, soaked up last week's rain until it burst from its banks like a wild river.

Fog, Rain Blamed For Friday Mishap

Foggy and rainy conditions were apparently the cause of a two-vehicle accident that occurred near the ramp connecting Interstate 68 with Rt. 219 last Friday morning.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, a tractor-trailer operated by James D. Hartson, 37, Missouri City, Texas, had been traveling east on I-68, and had taken the ramp at Exit 14. After stopping at the stop sign at the intersection with Rt. 219, Hartson reportedly continued to the left, and headed towards Rt. 40.

At the same time, according to the police report, a Potomac Edison truck, operated by Charles A. Muir, 48, Barton, was traveling south on Rt. 219, and the operator was apparently unable to see Hartson's rig as it pulled onto the highway, and his truck struck the side of the trailer.

Police said the tractor-trailer sustained only minor damage, but the Potomac Edison truck had to be towed from the scene. There were no apparent injuries in the 9:55 a.m. mishap.

RIG OVERTURNS

A Fredericksburg man escaped serious injury last Friday morning when the tractor-trailer he was operating on I-68 traveled off the road and overturned.

State police said Andrew L. Borreson, 55, was operating his 1994 Kenworth east on I-68, near Rt. 495, when the rig traveled off the right side of the road, flipped onto its side, and slid for approximately 75 feet.

Borreson was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where he was treated for minor injuries.

FALLS ASLEEP

A Meyersdale, Pa., man was injured in a single-vehicle accident Monday afternoon on Rt. 40, when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Larry Bittinger, 19, was traveling east on Rt. 40, near Piney Run Road, when he apparently fell asleep, causing his 1985 Dodge pickup to cross the center line and westbound lane, and then over an embankment, causing the truck to overturn in a field, police said.

Bittinger was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he was treated and released. State police charged Bittinger in the 5:10 p.m. accident.

DWI ARREST

One DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Gary L. Bunnell Jr., 22, Grantsville, was arrested and charged with DWI on July 18, by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

Car Wreck Leads To DWI Arrest; Others Noted

A woman was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following a routine investigation into a minor car accident Tuesday. Two other individuals were cited for the violation in unrelated traffic stops.

Sherri R. Hetz, 23, Grantsville, was operating a 1990 Chevrolet Corsica when a 1989 Ford Mustang in front of her, operated by Jason P. Holliday, 22, Grantsville, signaled to turn left. However, Holliday then decided to turn right into a parking lot. Hetz was in the process of passing him on the right and the two vehicles collided on the berm.

Holliday was deemed at fault in the mishap and was charged accordingly, but later in the investigation officers noticed that Hetz appeared to be under the influence of alcohol. Field testing was completed and she was charged with DWI.

Gerald K. Kelley, 46, Terra Alta, W.Va., was charged with DUI (driving under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol) on July 19 when an officer witnessed him driving erratically on Rt. 219 near King's Run Road. The arrest took place at about 1 a.m., according to the report.

Also cited by the sheriff's office for DWI this week was Philip A. Hebb, 35, Bayard, W.Va. He was apparently cited on July 24 although no other details were available.

Spiker stated that when the transfer tax was created, the commissioners assured local realtors that they would be consulted if the tax were to be altered in the future. However, the realtors were not included in the decision making process when the county transfer tax was increased from $5 per $1,000 of property value to $10 per $1,000 of value effective July 1.

"As far as notification to the board of realtors prior to the adoption of any taxation increases, I apologize on behalf of this office," Pagenhardt said in his letter to Spiker this week. "I was personally unaware that there was any previous agreement.

"The county is presently looking at revenue enhancement alternatives and options and the board of county commissioners is considering a committee comprised of specific business, community involvement, and public sector groups and I will request that the board of realtors be included," Pagenhardt added. "I will also communicate with you pertaining to budget planning for fiscal year 1998."

Pagenhardt stated this week that he assumes Spiker will share the contents of his letter with members of the board of realtors.

In addition to the transfer tax hike, the commissioners also boosted the recordation tax from $2.50 to $3.50 per each $500 of property value.

The transfer tax, which was doubled, exempts the first $50,000 of property value.

New Friendsville Initiative Aims To Create Local Jobs For Youth

Members of the Friendsville Rotary Club, business community, and citizenry have joined forces in an attempt to create summer employment in the town for community youth, even if they have to do it one job at a time.

In its first sunnner, the project has already met with some success. Northern High School junior Darla Bittinger, Friendsville, received a job at Precision Rafting through the program, and Rotary Club President Mary Louise Walcek is already working to place another youth in a steady job next summer.

Walcek devised the project, in which community and business donations are provided to an employer in exchange for hiring a local youth, after an experience at a funeral in Friendsville. The memorial service was attended by many young adults who, Walcek realized, were likely Friendsville natives who had moved away to find work.

"Why do we let our brightest and best leave?" Walcek commented in an interview at Precision Rafting's downtown Friendsville headquarters. "These are the people that can be role models. They can bring businesses to the community."

Precision Rafting proprietor Roger Zbel is the first employer to accept a young employee through the program. The $800 that he will pay Bittinger throughout the summer will come completely from donations raised by the Rotary Club. However, Zbel matches Social Security, Workman's Compensation, and Medicare deductions at payroll time, and takes time to train his new recruit in the ways of the raft trade.

Bittinger has run many raft trips since signing on with Zbel earlier this summer, and has been encouraged to complete tasks in the office without constant supervision.

"The biggest part of the job is building one's self confidence," Zbel said.

All of the money raised through donations will go to Bittinger through regular paychecks.

"Nobody takes a cut of Darla's money," Walcek remarked.

So far in her employment, Bittinger has cleaned the Precision Rafting bus and office, stuffed brochures, inflated boats, handled mailings, and toted equipmem. She is also receiving valuable training in the commercial rafting field.

However, Bittinger said her favorite part of her new job is meeting new people from "all over the world."

She added that her job teaches responsibility, as she works on her own to complete muhiple tasks.

According to Bittinger, many Friendsville teens seeking summer employment are forced to find a way to commute to Deep Creek Lake or Grantsville. Working in her home town elinminates this obstacle.

Walcek hopes the program will create a new partnership between Friendsville's river industry and the town's youth.

Walcek commented that in Friendsville, business associated with the Youghiogheny River is the main employer, whether in the form of rafting, raft construction, or related services, or in the form of support services, such as the restaurants, motels, gas stations, and shops that serve visiting rafters. Walcek hopes to encourage local youth to become part of the river industry rather than drifting out of the area in search of employment.

"We're talking about a big industry here," Walcek said.

Precision Rafting alone serves between 1,200 and 1,500 rafters per year.

Walcek also had high praise for Zbel, who agreed to test out the new program as its first employer.

"He hires skills, he is not in the market of training," Walcek commented, drawing attention to the fact that the donated funds do not cover the time Zbel takes to instruct his new apprentice.

Contributing funds to the project, in addition to the Friendsville Rotary Club, were the Friendsville Lions Club, Mountain Surf, S&S Market, First United National Bank and Trust, Twila's Old Mill Restaurant, and private citizens.

"That Roger created a job is wonderful, and that those organizations chose to fund it is amazing," Walcek said, adding that no government funds were used in the projeet.

"Precision has given a gift to the community with this and I personally am very, very thankful to Roger, and I'm thankful Darla has done a good job."

At mid-summer and at the end of the season, Bittinger will report to the Rotary Club on how the program might be improved. Zbel will also offer his comments, as the Rotarians fine tune the project for its second year.

Walcek noted that another "white-water related" business is already considering hiring a youth through the program next summer.

"The person who can offer a job is a hero," Walcek remarked.

HAPPY TO BE WORKING - Friendsville resident Darla Bittinger is gainfully, and happily, employed at Precision Rafting, Friendsville, thanks to a new program created by the town's Rotary Club and funded by local groups, businesses, and citizens. The project is an attempt to provide local youth with opportunities to live and work in their home town. See story.

A TEAM EFFORT of clubs, businesses, and citizens has created a summer job for a local youth in Friendsville, and planners hope to have similar success next summer. The Friendsville Rotary Club initiated the project, and Precision Rafting, Friendsville, agreed to test out the job-creating program. Pictured left to right, are Friendsville Rotary Club President Mary Walcek, Precision Rafting proprietor Roger Zbel, and new employee Darla Bittinger. See story.

An Oakland woman was arrested this morning, according to a press release, after she allegedly assaulted two men. Patricia A. Ohler, 31, was apparently engaged in an argument with Jerald Swearengen and Bobby Moose at her Lemoyne King Road house when she poinied an unloaded rifle at the two and threatened them. She is also accused of destroying a bedroom suite in the house.

According to the report, the defendant ran out of the house while being formally arrested by the sheriff's office deputy. She was apprehended in the yard by other deputies as well as Maryland State Police officers.

Ohler was charged with resisting arrest, destruction of property, endangering (while intoxicated) the safety of the two men, two counts of assault, and reckless endangerment. As of this morning, she was being held at the jail pending a hearing.

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged last Wednesday after a neighbor contacted the police after reportedly seeing him assault his wife. Carl E. Cooper, 22, is accused of overpowering his wife, Kimberly A. Cooper, 26, pushing her to the ground and kicking her. When she fell, she also apparently cut her hand. Cooper was apparently intoxicated at the time of the 3 p.m. incident.

The defendant was charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct, according to the report.

An Oakland man has been arrested by the sheriff's office for allegedly sexually molesting three young girls. Charles L. Sills, 38, is facing three charges of third degree sexual offense and three charges of battery, according to the report.

An investigation was initiated when one of the girls' mothers came to the sheriff's office upset over an incident her daughter had told her about. Apparently the three girls were spending a night together on the floor of a Crellin home in early June and Sills was in the home as well. He allegedly left his bedroom in the night and came down to where the girls were sleeping. He is accused of sexually fondling them.

Sills remains in the Garrett County Jail, with bond originally set at $3,000 but raised by Judge Ralph Burnett to $10,000 cash, according to the report.

Bradley L. Alexander, 20, Oakland, was arrested on July 16 on the strength of a warrant. He has been charged with disturbing the peace and harassment. No other details were available.

Two arrest warrants and five bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Robert M. Teter, 30, Terra Alta, W.Va. Teter is accused of five counts of failing to appear in court, and also allegedly obtained equipment and services from U.S. Cellular in West Virginia by means of false representation. After obtaining the service, Teter reportedly ran up a $9,000 bill. He is also accused of similarly scamming Western Maryland Communications, having run up a bill of over $2,000, according to the report.

Teter has been formally charged with two counts of forgery, two counts of felony theft, and once count of misdemeanor theft.

Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of several individuals for either failure to appear in court, failure to pay deferred payments, or violation of probation. They are as follows:

Mark L. Paugh, 25, Rockville, probation violation; Kenneth W. Hawkins, 29, failure to pay; Michael L. McCaffrey, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, failure to pay; Michael P. Sliger, 23, Oakland, failure to pay; Everett B. Weimer, 34, Oakland, failure to pay; Jerry W. Gank Jr., 20, Oakland, failure to pay; and Joseph F. Snell, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, 18, failure to pay (two bench warrants).

Ken Bauer To Display Art In GCC's Gallery

An exhibit of drawings and prints by local artist Ken Bauer will be on display in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College from August 2-30, according to gallery coordinator Ron Skidmore.

A reception is planned for August 2 at 8 p.m. during which time Bauer will present a talk titled, "The Language of Nature." "Through the use of paintings and pictures from past and present, natural images, and personal experiences, we will explore the imagination and the heart to see how they relate to our insight into the hidden meanings of the natural world. The evening will be excitingly thought provoking," the artist said. The public is invited to attend.

Bauer, who holds a B.A. degree from the University of North Carolina, has been drawing and creating art works for over 20 years. Many of his drawings and prints are included in public and private collections throughout the United States and have been shown at various galleries including the Perry House Gallery in Alexandria, Va.; the Montserrat Gallery in New York, N.Y.; and the Carnegie Museum of Art in Pittsburgh.

ARTWORK BY KEN BAUER

On September 21 and 22 he will be showing his work at the Wildlife Festival at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., where works of other nationally known artists will also be displayed.

The artist works from his Lake Ford studio in Garrett County, finding subjects and inspiration for his work in the Cranesville Swap area and surrounding mountains. "The connection between myself and the life around me is growing stronger and more tangible. I am led by what is here," he said.

Gallery hours for the Bauer exhibit are week days from 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. and evenings during scheduled events. The exhibit is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Mtn. Lake Park Teenager Convicted In District Court Of Malicious DOP

A Mountain Lake Park teenager pleaded guilty in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings of one count of malicious destruction of property, and was sentenced by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Casey E. Patton, 18, was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail, make $50 restitution to the State Highway Administration, and was placed on two years of supervised probation upon his release from incarceration. Conditions of his probation state he must attend and complete an alcohol treatment program with the health department, obtain his General Education Development (GED) certificate within six months after his release, and stay employed. An additional charge of resisting arrest was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Patton had been charged with the offenses on May 2, after he punched out a window at the SHA garage in Oakland during an attempt to elude sheriff's deputies. Court records indicate he was observed by a police officer as he stood on Oak Street, drinking a beer. The officer knew a warrant had been issued earlier for Patton's arrest on another matter, and stopped to investigate. As the officer approached the defendant, he ran to the SHA garage, and punched his fist through a window in an attempt to escape.

In another case against Patton, he pleaded guilty to one count of battery. For this conviction, he was sentenced to serve one year in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except for 60 days (to be served consecutively with the other sentence). The charges in this case stemmed from an April 28 incident at a playground in Mtn. Lake Park, involving an attack on a juvenile complainant who stated he had the defendant's basketball, and in an attempt to return it, placed the ball at Patton's feet. Patton then reportedly struck the juvenile twice in the face.

A third case, involving charges of being disorderly on private property and trespassing, filed against Patton, were not prosecuted. These charges stemmed from a Dec. 25, 1995, investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after it received a complaint from Linda Boulding. She told the police that Patton was acting in a disorderly manner on her property by cursing and using obscene language, and would not leave when she asked him to.

In other district court news, James Ptomey, 27, Oakland, was sentenced to serve six months in jail after being found guilty in April of four worthless check charges. Each conviction initially earned him an 18-month sentence, but all was suspended except for six months (to be served concurrently). He was given 99 days' credit for time already served. The defendant was also ordered to make a total of $357.10 restitution to the victims, attend addictions counseling, and obtain his GED. The charges against Ptomey were filed after he reportedly wrote several bad checks, over a several month period, to local establishments.

A Friendsville man was sentenced in last week's district court proceedings to serve 60 days in jail, after being found guilty in March of a fourth degree sexual offense. Gary E. Cain, 31, found guilty of that offense, was initially handed a six-month jail term, but all of that was suspended except for the 60-day stay. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation. Cain has appealed his case.

The charge against the defendant was filed by Maryland State Police on March 2, after he sexually assaulted a 17-year-old female in an apartment in Accident.

A Pasadena man, who pleaded guilty in February to one count of assault, was also sentenced in last week's district court proceedings. John E. Lawyer, 46, received a 60-day jail term, but all of that sentence was suspended except for 48 hours. He was also placed on two years of probation, and ordered to continue counseling with Alcoholics Anonymous. Lawyer has also appealed his case.

According to district court records, the defendant was arrested on July 12, 1995, after Maryland State Police were called to a vacation cabin near McHenry and learned he had threatened two other occupants there with a handgun.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Burnett for a Kitzmiller man who pleaded guilty in last week's district court proceedings of one count of battery.

Arthur R. Ravenscroft, 45, who will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation, was also not prosecuted on one additional count of battery, and one count of child abuse. The charges stemmed from a June 22 investigation by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who had responded to the Ravenscroft home in response to a domestic dispute between the defendant, his wife, and daughter.

According to court records, during an argument, Ravenscroft pushed his wife, Brenda J. Ravenscroft, and then slapped his daughter when she became involved. The argument reportedly began because the women had "gone to Oakland to get some hot dogs to eat." The argument apparently continued outside, and the defendant threw his wife against the side of the house.

Christine L. Vicerski, 21, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). She was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except for 48 hours. She was also fined $160 and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Vicerski was charged with the offense by officers from the Oakland/Garrett County Narcotics Task Force who had responded to the Wisp Resort to search a room for possible marijuana. The officers recovered a wooden pipe with marijuana residue, rolling papers, and a small amount of marijuana. The defendant reportedly admitted to smoking marijuana prior to the officers' arrival.

Michael S. Allen, 25, Clarksburg, W.Va., pleaded guilty to one count CDS possession and one count of DWI (driving while intoxicated). He was sentenced to 30 days in jail (all suspended except for 48 hours), fined a total of $260, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia, and failure to drive right of center were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges against Allen were incurred on Jan. 30, after he was stopped by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on the Mayhew Inn Road for a traffic violation. Allen reportedly failed field sobriety tests at that time, and a search of his vehicle revealed the suspected marijuana.

A co-defendant in the case, Wade L. Highland, 26, was not prosecuted on CDS and CDS paraphernalia charges, because of Allen's plea of guilt.

Duane A. Garlitz, 27, Friendsville, was found guilty of violating his probation, stemming from an earlier obstructing/hindering conviction. Judge Burnett reimposed a 97-day jail term for the defendant. The original six-month sentence, set on Jan. 23, 1995, was revised in April of that year to "all suspended except for time already served." Garlitz's arrest on Oct. 27, 1994, was incurred after he was involved in a domestic dispute at the Guardian Apartments in Friendsville, and caused a disturbance during the investigation.

Timothy R. Dumire, 32, Oakland, was also found guilty of violating his probation, stemming from an earlier CDS possession conviction. A nine-month sentence was reimposed, but all of that was suspended except for 90 days. Dumire was initially convicted of the charge in April, 1995, and sentenced to six months in jail. In July of that year, the sentence was "suspended except for time already served." Dumire had been arrested on March 27, 1995, by officers from the Maryland State Police, Drug Enforcement Division, who found him to be in possession of a large amount of CDS.

David L. Kitzmiller, 34, Swanton, was not prosecuted in last week's district court proceedings of one count of battery. The charge was filed on Dec. 5, 1995, by Maryland State Police who arrested Kitzmiller after he reportedly kicked a female juvenile in the back during a domestic dispute.

David L. Sweitzer, 46, and Eva C. Sweitzer, 40, both of Oakland, were each handed 30-day suspended sentences, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation during last week's district court proceedings. Each was ordered to attend counseling through the Social Services office.

A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered for the pair in March, after each was found guilty of battery. The charges stemmed from a Feb. 22 domestic dispute at their home when Mrs. Sweitzer struck a 17-year-old female with a stick, and Mr. Sweitzer grabbed a 13-year-old boy by the arm and then choked him.

Linda L. Warnick, 41, and Stacy L. Sweitzer, 23, both of Grantsville, were not prosecuted on one count each of harassment. Conditions of the decision state that they must have no contact with the complainant, Diana McKenzie, also of Grantsville. The charges were filed in March by McKenzie after the defendants reportedly harassed her during a domestic dispute.

Thomas J. Feehan Jr., no age given, University Park, was not prosecuted on one count each of malicious destruction of property and animal cruelty. The charges were filed on April 6 by Karen Lantz, Pittsburgh and Paradise Ridge Road, who claimed the defendant struck and injured her 11-year-old German Shepherd.

One count of battery, filed against Marlin Savage, 58, Accident; charges of telephone abuse, intimidating/influencing a juror, filed against Pearl A. Frazee, 32, Friendsville; charges of trespassing, harassment, and telephone misuse, filed against Sandra Garlitz, no age given, Frostburg; and charges of battery, assault, telephone misuse, reckless

West End Ends '96 Season For Local All-Stars

The Oakland Little League All-Stars (ages 11-12) advanced to the finals of the District 1 tournament this past week before falling 14-7 to a powerful West End team of Hagerstown on Sunday, which ended their season. The local team had defeated Conococheague, the Cumberland Dans, Potomac Valley, and Halfway before being eliminated by West End.

In the 12-2 thrashing of Halfway, Joe Helbig led the Oakland offense with two home runs and a double to account for half of his team's runs. Ricky Reams also hit a homer and Bryson Meyers aided his own cause on the mound with a pair of singles. The run was called after four innings because of the 10-run rule.

Oakland took a 2-0 lead back-to-back solo shots by Reams and Helbig. They added three more runs in the second on runs by Bryan Schwalm, Meyers, and Chris Remley.

A six-run third inning put the game away for Oakland.

Meyers finished with a no-hitter that featured only one Halfway base runner.

Oakland entered Sunday's game having already lost an earlier contest to West End, and was in trouble quickly, as the West Enders scored four runs in the first inning behind a home run by Chad Purdham and added five more runs in the second, behind another homer by Purdham, to take a commanding 9-1 lead.

Chad Panther led the Oakland offense with two home runs of his own, plus a single, while Meyers added a double and a single. The Oakland defense was led by Tobi Stoner, who made a spectacular diving catch in the fifth.

"We had a great run and an excellent chance to win the district title," stated Tracy Rinard, head coach. "We just ran into a powerful team with an outstanding pitcher (Derek Haines). I'm very proud of this team. They represented the Oakland Little League exceptionally well."

Leading the Oakland team offensively throughout the playoffs were Dennis Tressler, Bryson Meyers, Steve Eiswert, Joel Helbig, Chad Panther, Ricky Reams, and Ryan Ewing. Meyers and Bryan Hauser were the pitching leaders.

Garrett County Legion Squad Tops Post 13

Behind a strong pitching effort by Seth Tressler and good hitting by Jason Sweitzer, the Garrett County American Legion team recorded a 6-2 victory over Fort Cumberland on Saturday at Garrett Community College.

Tressler fired a four-hitter after taking a no-hitter into the eighth inning, and Sweitzer finished with a double and a single that brought three runs home.

Tressler struck out seven batters and walked four in earning the win over Post 13 starter Brian Powell. Aaron Blocher added a double in Garrett's eight-hit effort.

Tressler's bid for a no-hitter was spoiled by Marty Watts, who hit a lead-off single in the eighth. Brian Powell and Angelo Bascelli each finished with RBI singles to account for Post 13's two runs, both scored in the eighth.

Oakland Junior All-Stars Fall In Sectionals

The season finally came to an end for the Oakland Little League Junior Division All-Stars, as the local team lost two of three games to Taneytown in the state sectional championships this past week. Oakland was the District 1 champion and Taneytown won the District 2 title.

The Oakland team, coached by Al Rohrbaugh and Joey DiSimone and managed by Kenny Tressler, lost its first sectional game on Saturday, 7-3, won the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, 16-13, and then lost the second contest, 11-5.

Oakland held a 3-1 lead in Saturday's game by scoring two runs in the third inning on a walk to Jason Rohrbaugh, a double by Jeremy Hayhurst, and fielder's choices by Jared Fike and Lantz Tressler, and a third run in the fourth on walks to Mike DeWitt, Justin DiSimone, and Hayhurst, and an error by Taneytown. The home team took the lead for good with five runs in the fifth.

In Sunday's win, Oakland wasted no time taking the lead, jumping out to a 4-0 advantage in the first inning on hits by Rohrbaugh, John Lucas, Lantz, Fike, and Justin Stephens. They added seven more runs in the fourth on singles by Rohrbaugh, Lucas, Lantz, and Fike, and walks by Hayhurst and DiSimone. Doubles by Fike and Lantz in the sixth yielded two more runs.

Meanwhile, Taneytown responded with one run in the first, and four each in the third, fifth, and sixth innings to tie the score at 13-13 and send the game into extra innings.

Jared Fike pitched five and two-thirds innings for Oakland and was relieved by Justin Stephens, who got the third out in the sixth, and then DiSimone pitched the rest of the way.

Oakland won the game in the ninth inning by scoring three runs on a single by DiSimone, walks by Tressler and Hayhurst, a single by Rusty Strubin, and two passed balls. DiSimone held Taneytown scoreless for three innings to preserve the win.

Oakland held only a brief 1-0 lead in the second game with a run in the first inning on a walk to Stephens and singles by Fike and John Hayhurst. Taneytown knotted the score with a run in the bottom of the first and took the lead for good with a run in the second.

Oakland added two runs in the fifth on another walk by Stephens and singles by Fike and John Hayhurst, and scored their final two runs of the season in the seventh on singles by Jeremy and John Hayhurst and a double by Stephens.

The District 2 administration praised the Oakland team, describing it as "one of the finest representatives in the entire state, not only in their quality of play, but also in their attitude and sportsmanship."

BIG BUCKS for the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library were raised on Friday in the annual American Trust Bank Charity Golf Tournament, held at the Oakland Golf Club course. Despite multiple inches of rain that afternoon which literally flooded the golf course and shortened the play format, the event raised over $14,500 for the library Friends. Sisler Lumber Easily Captures Division Title

Sisler Lumber coasted to the Hot Stove League National Division championship this past week by topping Ellerslie on Saturday, 9-5, to win a best-of-three series and then blanking Kiwanis twice by the same score, 10-0, to win that series and a spot in the league championships.

In Saturday's win over Ellerslie, which was played at Northern High School, Sisler jumped out to a 4-1 lead in the first inning on singles by Levi Schmuck, Jeff Carr, Ryan Butler, and Paul Beitzel and never trailed.

After Ellerslie narrowed the lead to 4-3 in the top of the second, Taylor Glotfelty provided a bases-loaded double in the third to add three more runs for Sisler's.

Matt Settle recorded the win on the mound, as he went the distance, struck out seven, and worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the top of the seventh. Carr and Butler each finished with two singles, while Adam Moulden hit a double and a single to pace Ellerslie. Brian DeHaven added a two-run double for the visitors.

The first game of another best-of-three series against Kiwanis on Tuesday did not last long, as the game was called after four and a half-innings because of the 10-run rule.

Carr, who pitched the first three innings for Sisler, and reliever Corey Sisler combined for a one-hitter, a single to Randy Welsh in the fourth inning.

Meanwhile, the Sisler Lumber offense pounded the Kiwanis defense with 14 hits, including a double and a single by Schmuck, two RBI singles by Butler, two singles by Settle, one of which plated a run in the first inning, a three-run double by Adam Brenneman in the third, and a two-run single by Chris Herman in the second.

Wednesday's second clash with Kiwanis went all seven innings, but the outcome was exactly the same, as Matt Settle earned the complete-game victory on the mound with a three-hitter. He struck out five and walked none.

Settle aided his own cause at the plate with three hits, while Chris Herman had two hits and three RBI, Taylor Glotfelty finished with two hits, and Adam Brenneman and Corey Sisler each had run-producing singles. Sisler recorded a total of 14 hits.

Sisler's opponent in the league championship series will be either Frostburg First United or Frankfort. That best-of-three event will get underway Monday at a site yet to be determined.

Oakland Sits Atop Pen-Mar With 19-5 Mark

The Oakland Oaks jumped to the top of the Pen-Mar Baseball League standings this week without even setting foot on a baseball diamond, as they picked up three forfeit wins from Frostburg, a team that dropped out of the league several weeks ago. The Oaks are now 19-5 and will, along with the other seven teams in the league, conclude their regular season with games this weekend. The Pen-Mar playoffs, featuring the top six teams in the standings, will be staged Aug. 3-4 at Hyndman, Pa., and Garrett Community College.

Bridgeport, which lost two of three games to Romney this past weekend, is in second place with an 18-5 mark; Romney is third at 18-6; Cumberland, which won two of three against Hyndman plus a make-up game with South Cumberland over the weekend, is fourth at 17-7; Fairmont, which won two of three over Morgantown, is fifth with a 15-9 mark; Hyndman and Morgantown are tied for sixth at 8-16; and South Cumberland is out of the running for a playoff spot with a 5-18 record.

DNR Official Clarifies Deer Season Article

Tom Matthews, game program manager for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, contacted The Republican this week to clarify information about Maryland deer season included in an article by Mark Powell, managing editor of The Delmarva Farmer, which was printed in last week's issue of The Republican.

According to Matthews, the last two paragraphs of the article contained unclear information.

Matthews stated in a telephone interview that bow hunting season for deer does run from Sept. 14 through Jan. 31 this year, but noted that there are intermissions in the bow season for firearms and muzzleloader seasons. The bow may be used for hunting deer during the deer firearms and muzzleloader seasons in accordance with regulations for these seasons.

In Garrett County, the bag limit for deer in bow season is one deer of either sex. However, a bow hunter may purchase a bonus deer stamp to kill a second deer of either sex.

In muzzleloader deer season, slated for Oct. 17-19 and Dec. 21-Jan. 4, the bag limit is one deer. A hunter may take a second deer with the purchase of a bonus muzzleloader deer stamp. In the October segment of muzzleloader season, only bucks may be killed. In the December-January segment, only bucks may be taken, unless the hunter has been issued an antlerless deer permit.

In firearms (rifle) deer season, which runs from Nov. 30 through Dec. 14 following a one-day hunt for persons under age 16 on Nov. 16, the bag limit is one deer. Only bucks may be killed, except for the last two days of firearms season for hunters who have been issued antlerless deer permits.

Bonus deer stamps are also available for the firearms season.

Swan Meadow Ball Field To Be Improved

After years of playing on a rutted ball diamond, students at Swan Meadow School will soon enjoy a smooth playing field, thanks in part to the county commissioners, who agreed this week to lend a grader for use in the project, and a county roads employee who has volunteered to operate the machine.

Paul Yoder, president of the Swan Meadow Parent-Teacher Organization, came before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week to request the use of a road grader for the ball field project.

He said that the PTO decided five years ago that improvements were needed at the field, which was also in poor condition when the PTO members were students at the school.

The Grantsville firm of Miller and Miller is doing the preliminary work, Yoder said, but a piece of equipment is needed to do the final grading. He added that George Beckman, an employee with the county roads department, has volunteered to operated the grader at no charge.

The commissioners agreed to lend a grader for use at the school, perhaps as soon as this weekend. Commissioner John Braskey stated that the county has lent heavy equipment for use in similar projects at both county high schools.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

Sun And Wind Smile On Racers

by Dan Muss

After a week of rain, the sun and wind did indeed smile on our sailboat racers. Saturday was crisp, sunny and windy. The race course had the start off Poland Run and then up through the slot with the first windward mark off Boy Scout Point, then a reach to the second mark off Thousand Acres and a second windward mark off Boy Scout Point. (A reach for sailboats is any point of sail off the wind; that is not sailing as close to the wind as possible, or "close-hauled".)

After rounding the second windward mark, spinnakers blossomed on the Flying Scots like colorful flowers. Sailing down-wind, the boats had to jibe to enter the slot and approach the leeward mark. (A jibe is when a sailboat changes the side of the boat that the boom is on with the wind behind it. In heavy air, it is a tricky maneuver because, as the wind catches the sail on its back side, the boom swings across with great force. Anyone or thing in its way will get bashed. When a sailboat changes the side of the boom going up-wind it's called a tack. In heavy air this can also be a problem because the sailboat must pass "head-to-wind" to get the boom over and, if the boat does not have enough momentum it can get stuck head-to-wind and lose steerage-way. This is called "irons" and I'll tell how one gets out of it in a later article.)

The races last weekend had an international flavor. Ted Kemp turned the helm of his Flying Scot over to a young Australian, Matt Von Bibra, who had just won third place in the Laser worlds at Newport, R.I. His step-father Bill Canfield and Ted Kemp were crew. In the first race they sailed in the B fleet since young Matt had never sailed a Scot before. They were first by a wide margin, so in the second race they sailed in the A fleet. They were first at the weather mark, but fell back down wind.

Karl Rath of Deep Creek Lake had a young German, Dominik Bayartz, as crew. They finished second in both races on Saturday.

Area Speedway Review

Cumberland Raceway

Rodney Youmans took the checkered flag in the pure stock division, joining Doug Timmons and Tony Ranceri as first-time winners at Cumberland Raceway Sunday night during the fair appreciation races.

Youmans, from Grantsville, led all 12 laps of his feature race to become the eighth different winner in the pure stock division at the Raceway.

Finishing second was Mike Duck, followed by Bill Buchanon, Troy Harrison, Jim Frost, Bill VanMeter, Gene Moats, Rick Wright, Rob Merobie and John Whitfield.

Heat winners in the pure stocks were Johnny Harr and Troy Harrison.

In the opening feature of the night, Doug Timmons scored his first late model win as he held off the challenge of Bob Salathe.

Chris Harr, Wayne Johnson, Chuck Clise, Scott Brode, Dave Troutman, Tom Clise, Robbie Gariock and Jim Daversa rounded out the top ten.

The late model heats went to Salathe and Daversa.

The semi-late feature saw Tony Ranceri lead flag-to-flag for the win. Ranceri was followed by Kevin Smith, Eric Zembower, Bob Gordon, Jim Deneen, Allen Buckley, George Dixon, Denny Sponaugle, Donnie Witt and Barry Weyandt.

Semi-late heats went to Sponaugle and Smith.

There were 23 late models, 22 semi-lates and 21 pure stocks in the pits.

Cumberland will be back in action on Saturday, July 27.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Racing action at the Interstate 79 Speedway on Friday, July 19, was canceled after two straight days of heavy rains.

The 1996 points race is close in all divisions with just five Friday night racing programs left this season.

Racing action will continue this Friday, July 26, with all five divisions plus the dwarf cars. A candy rush will be held for the children.

Coming on Sunday, August 4, will be the third leg of the West Virginia State Championship Series when the N.E.W.S. late models return for their second visit. The race will pay $2500 and will be sponsored by Don's Disposal. This race was rescheduled from May 12.

Elkins Motor Speedway

Touring with the North East Winners Series (N.E.W.S.) in 1996 has placed a varied array of on-track obstacles before drivers in pursuit of feature victories. There have been tires, walls, guard rails, and, of course, other drivers. Saturday night at Elkins Motor Speedway in the $3,000 fourth leg of the Thunder in the Mountains Tour II, drivers were offered a different, and quite unexpected obstacle: an infield lake.

Torrential rains which flooded the Elkins area Thursday and Friday left a large body of water in the infield of the Elkins track. A full day of pumping by track personnel, local drivers, and firefighters could not remove all of the water and, after a two-hour delay, the first late model heats rolled out onto the speedway with a few hundred gallons of West Virginia rain between turns three and four. Fans immediately starting betting on the driver who would first take a dive. But as the night wore on, no one took a bath; not the late models, U.M.P. modifieds, pnre or four cylinder stocks.

Elkins Motor Speedway will be closed this weekend. Racing will resume August 3, with another N.E.W.S. sanctioned event: the 8th Annual R.H. Armstrong Classic, paying $2,500 to win.

Services in Burtonsville donated all 20,000 flowering plants seen at the games. This is the first time in Olympic history that flowers festoon the games--everywhere from the medalist platforms to the sports venues.

The man who dreamed up the idea, Gary Mangum, is on loan as director of the Rentokil Olympics project. His own Bell Nursery adjacent to Rentokil in Burtonsville is donating 12,000 of the plants.

Mangum got his idea for decorating the Olympics with flowers a few years back while watching the Barcelona games. "There were lots of cinder block walls and hard edges," he said. Mangum thought flowers would really make a visual impact on viewers of the Olympics.

Rentokil, with headquarters in the United Kingdom, is the world's largest provider of interior landscaping and the second largest provider of security services. Burtonsville, with $17 million annually in revenue, is the company's largest branch.

At the same time, Mangum was working with NASA's Dr. Bill Wolverton on research that uses plants to clean polluted indoor air, something he thought could apply to the Olympics sports venues and housing.

The research started as a way for the space station to clean its air over the long term with plants instead of using traditional carbon scrubbers. At some time, the carbon scrubbers will get saturated, while plants will continue to take in toxins. The toxins are literally broken down, and they do not accumulate in the roots.

"For the Olympics, we thought we could clean the air in the sports venues, soften spaces and provide additional 'warmth,'" Mangum said.

The biggest problem Mangum has encountered is tightened security in Atlanta, which will cause logistical problems when Rentokil employees water the plants at night. "When plants need water, they need water," Mangum said.

"The flowers will look good on camera, look good for people there, and be good for business in the long term," Mangum concluded.

Solarex, a business unit of Amoco/Enron Solar, is the nation's largest U.S. owned manufacturer of photovoltaic cells and modules and is headquartered in Frederick. The company was chosen to supply a total of 349 kW of its photovoltaic (solar electric) modules for two installations located at the athletic center on the campus of Georgia Tech University. Solarex has installed the bulk of the modules on the rooftop of the Aquatic Center, where the swimming events are taking place.

The other project, consisting of nine kW and featuring Solarex' new 240-watt AC architectural modules, was installed on the roof covering the walkway to the main entrance of the athletic center.

One of the most prestigious Olympic contracts went to Maryland Ribbon of Hagerstown, which made the award ribbon that will hold all the gold, silver and bronze Olympic medals around the athletes' necks. The company has made the ribbons for all Olympic Games held in North America since the 1980 Winter Olympics.

Another Frederick company is demonstrating a new way for pilots to get radar and weather information before a flight. Prutzman and Associates is providing software to help helicopter pilots access radar and weather information on a high-speed data transmission line. The time it takes for a pilot to file a flight plan will be cut from about 15 minutes to four minutes, according to program director Steve Goldner. Time is of the essence as helicopters fly people and cargo in and out of the busy Atlanta airport.

Providing some essentials for the city of Atlanta is Victor Stanley, Inc. of Dunkirk. A company spokesman said they had nothing in the Olympic Village itself only in the city surrounding the Olympic venue, but visitors to the Olympics will be glad to have the company's park benches and waste receptacles available.

The state of Maryland is also taking part in the Olympics with the loan of 50 busses from the Maryland Transit Authority to the city of Atlanta. Liz Barns, of the Maryland Office of Tourism, says the busses are painted to stimulate interest in visiting Maryland, either right after the Olympics or some other time. "We've got our busses down there and are promoting the heck out of Maryland," she said.

The Olympic Games is an exciting time for the United States, and from the July 19 opening celebration to the closing ceremonies on August 3, the residents of Maryland will be watching--watching their athletes (some already medal winners)--and knowing their state and the people in it have contributed their time and skill to help make this world event one to be remembered with pride.

forming. Sometimes I think, "I've done it and I've survived!, the ambiance of doing it and doing a good job -- making people happy. Music is entertainment, but it must be representative of the people an artist is performing for. Programming is difficult, and pulling old programs for the present doesn't work. It is exciting, but sometimes, it can be agony. Program design is truly the hardest part of concert preparation," said Hatcher.

Hatcher has a fascination with the people she's met on the road, learning about how differently people live across and through the United States. She prefers mini-residencies in the commnnities where she performs. "Three or four nights allows a lot of time for making new friends, meeting a lot of people. It also gives me the opportunity to find out what people thought, and work with that as I continue my performances," said Hatcher, who could be the Kuralt version of 'music on the road...'.

"It's the people we've met, the things that have happened have been astonishing at times." said Hatcher. Once on a tour in Nebraska, Hatcher, who's had kind of a "concert challenge" with some of her fellow musician/friends to see who can tour the 50 states first, found herself with an opportunity to perform in Wyoming. "There wasn't a contract, so everyone that was there had to sign a document that I'd played that night in that club so it could be added to the list. It's unique way to see the country," she said.

On a tour out west, Hatcher boarded a plan headed for San Luis Obispo, Calif., to make it to a gig -- because of the mountains, it would have taken 12 hours to drive. "We ended up hitting a terrible rain storm, the airport tower was out, and we were instructed to land in a field. Well, we landed in a cow pasture. Cows were staring at us broad side as we came in, bellowing but not moving, and we ended up landing on the farm of the concert host. You just never know what's going to happen," said Hatcher, and that's part of the fun.

The Paula Hatcher Quartet has performed together part time over the past 20 years in various configurations and collaborations, and with the same musicians. "I'm lucky to have such wonderful nice guys with deep artistic resources," said Hatcher. "They are such a joy to work with, stability, and a desire to succeed. It's hard to keep people together in ensembles, it takes a lot of work."

Most musicians, unless employed by a major performing group such as a symphony, ballet, or opera orchestra or top billed band, are always out on a job someplace. Rehearsal schedules are tough if not almost impossible to schedule. But the cohesion of this groups glue is something stronger than the drive for commercial success, and that's the love they have for making music together. It's heard in the music they make, and there's a big difference, especially in a live performance.

The local program will be chosen from jazz music and Latin American music, primarily Brazilian music with some classical as well. The performances will take place at Garrett Community College in McHenry next Wednesday and Thursday, July 31 and Aug. 1, at 8 p.m. Tickets are: adults, $10, 18 and under, $5. For more information, call the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Hotline at (301) 387-3082.

Food For Thought

Make the most of your summer herbs now for year-round pleasure: make batches of herbed butters—in butter molds or in rolls—and freeze. Wrap well to preserve freshness.

Jam-filled crepes make a perfect dessert for unexpected guests. Spread a teaspoonful of jam over each crepe; then fold or roll. Best served warm with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Picnic trick: freeze milk jugs full of water and pack them in your cooler to keep foods cold without the mess of melted ice. (And when they thaw, you've got cold drinking water.)

What's better than a biscuit under strawberries and whipped cream? A cream puff is luscious and light as a cloud. Easy to make, too.

What is America eating? We get most of our vitamin C from oranges and orange juice—but there's just as much ascorbic acid in a cup of strawberries, one green pepper (red and yellow have even more), a kiwi, or a cup of cooked broccoli.

Wahl are they eating in Garrett County? Lots of delicious treats on the menu at

Burrells Celebrate 50th Anniversary

The Kitzmiller Community Center was the setting for a party, hosted by Robert and Vanda Burrell, to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Burrells were married July 4, 1946, at the Kitzmiller Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. Hardesty. A reception followed the wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ember Barrick.

During the golden wedding anniversary reception, wedding colors were used on the three-tiered cake, baked and decorated by Alice Wilt. The ivory colored icing was accented with garlands, gold shells, and columns. The porcelain bride and groom that topped the wedding cake 50 years ago also graced the top of the anniversary cake.

Yellow potted flowers, greens, and streamers were used to decorate the reception hall and tables. Wedding pictures were also on display. A buffet-style dinner was served by Carma White to the 130 friends and relatives who attended.

The guestbook was attended by Colleen Wings, Seattle, Wash. Mementos were distributed by Jessica Hayes, the Burrells' granddaughter, and Rita Sims served the cake.

Members of the wedding party who were present for the celebration were Ross Phillips, brother-in-law of the groom; Elsie Brady, sister of the groom; Rita Sims, sister of the bride; and Jim Barrick, brother of the bride. The couple's daughters, Ilene Ferguson, Pasadena, and Sandra Hayes, Riverside, Calif., also attended, along with members of their families.

Friends and relatives traveled from Florida, Pennsylvania, Washington, California, West Virginia, Maryland, and Ohio to attend the anniversary observance.

Mr. Burrell is a retired employee of the Maryland Correctional Department, and Mrs. Burrell is a retired nurse. In addition to their home in Kitzmiller, they also reside in Baltimore.

GCAC To Host Outdoor Reception At Swallow Falls

A special reception has been planned by the Garrett County Arts Council at Swallow Falls State Park on Saturday, August 10, from 2-4 p.m. to kick off the sale of 1997 gift calendars and to honor the artists of the wood sculpture to be installed that day. The public is invited to the reception in the main pavilion of the park.

West Virginia artists Jeannie Kuhn and Randy B. Williams have carved a dead chestnut tree to fashion a totem pole that will be installed near the park entrance. The project has been funded by the Garrett County Arts Council.

About their work, Kuhn has stated, "Our wood sculptures begin with the found objects of the dead chestnut tree, remnants of the virgin northeastern forests that once were. Timbering and disease, a direct result of man's presence, have removed entire and mostly unstudied ecosystems. Now one can only imagine the lost beauty of the magnificent canopied landscape eradicated because of man. Through the creation of our sculpture we hope to help man visualize this lost part of the forest, to make concrete an image from the past."

The full color 1997 calendar produced by the Arts Council features the work of 12 Garrett County artists, with a cover print of the award-winning stained glass window art project done by Marcette Danner's seventh and eighth grade students at Southern Middle School. The project constructed of multi-colored tissue paper depicts the students' view of what Garrett County will be in the year 2005. It was judged first place winner of the Appalachian 2005 Project sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Other prints in the calendar feature the work of Gary Yoder, Crede Calhoun, Ron Skidmore, Laura Stutzman, Elee Bookout, Sonia Pratt, Jennifer Evans, Jim McNeil, Sophia McDonald, Ken Bauer, Ben Sincell, and Joan Sussman. The calendars will be sold by members of the Garrett County Arts Council and will be available at a number of local places of business.

According to Helen Earles, president of the Arts Council, any community organizations may sell the calendars as a fundraiser. A representative of any interested group should contact Earles at 387-3082.

The Rev. and Mrs. Manning L. Smith, Mountain Lake Park, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Courtney Llewellyn, to Eric Martin Edman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Edman, Newton, Mass.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Southern Garrett Senior High School. She received her bachelor of arts degree from Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va., and is currently in the final year of her master's program of physical therapy at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond.

Her fiance is a graduate of Newton North High School, and the Blue Hills Technical Institute, Canton, Mass., where he received his associate of arts degree in heating and air conditioning. He is currently employed as an engineer with Bard, RAO, and Athanas Consulting Engineers.

The wedding is set for May 1997, at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland. A reception is planned at Deep Creek Lake. Invitations are being sent.

Roadrunners Offering $1 Passes To Fair

The Crellin Roadrunners, a community group in the town, will hold a one-hour presentation on inhalants on Friday, August 9, 6-7 p.m. All those attending will be given a one-day pass to the Garrett County Agricultural Fair for $1.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

The following 15 guidelines for a healthier life have been culled from suggestions made by health care providers:

1. Don't smoke or use tobacco, including so-called smokeless tobacco. Avoid being in the presence of second-hand smoke.
2. Limit your intake of alcohol.
3. If you drive, don't drink at all. And don't depend on what you believe is your safe limit. Because the body changes continually, you can never be sure at what point alcohol interferes with your ability to react to emergencies.
4. Eat the right foods; reduce intake of animal products and increase your intake of fruits and vegetables.
5. If overweight, lose the extra weight under the care of a doctor. Never use a "quick-loss" method. Go on a doctor-prescribed maintenance diet and exercise regimen to keep the lost weight off.
6. Get enough sleep. If you have problems, see your doctor. Don't use o-t-c (over the counter) medications without his/her okay.
7. If you're sexually active with more than one partner, be sure to practice safe sex. But don't assume you know what "safe" is.
8. Deal with stress before stress deals you out. Again, don't use O-T-C products. AND, don't rely on so-called herbal teas that are touted to control stress. Many of them can cause unhealthy side effects.
9. Depression can be alleviated with proper medical care. You don't have to suffer.
10. Control your cholesterol and blood pressure levels.
11. Make sure your children's shots are up to date. You should also have your doctor check to see if you need boosters.
12. Schedule regular checkups including, for women, breast and pelvic examinations. Include your dentist and podiatrist in your regular exams since dental and foot problems can contribute to overall health decline.
13. Don't sunbathe, and don't use tanning booths. They are not safe alternatives for Old Sol's rays.
14. Have regular eye examinations by an ophthalmologist.
15. Count your blessings and share with those less fortunate. Cheerful, generous folks always seem to be healthier.

Antiques

Q. My 12-inch gray crock has the number 3 just below the top rim. On the bottom it says, "Ruckel's Pottery 1870, White Hall, Ill."

A. A.S. Ruckel started his pottery in White Hall, Ill., in 1883. The company operated until 1951. The firm made many types of crocks and jugs. The 3 indicates the size of the crock. It was made about 1900.

Q. My "smoking grandpa" battery-operated toy used to show grandpa blowing realistic smoke rings. The smoke has stopped although the toy still works. Do you have any suggestions?

A. The smoke is caused by an electric spark that ignites a bit of oil. Put a few drops of sewing machine oil into the tube that used to emit smoke.

Q. What is an "isobath"?

A. The last half of the 19th century seems to have been the age of inventions. Strange apple peelers, clocks, mousetraps and eggbeaters were patented by innovative men and women. The isobath was a special type of inkwell invented by William Shaw in London in 1888. It looks a little like a covered egg cup with a small "handle."

At the end of the handle is a thimble-sized cup, which filled with ink that was kept in the larger section. The interior of the device had a hollow "float" and a vulcanite ring that controlled the flow of the ink into the small cup. This made it possible to keep at the same level the ink for dipping the pen point, while keeping the major part of the ink supply covered and away from dirt.

The Doulton pottery, predecessor of today's Royal Doulton firm, had the rights to make the isobath. They made many different designs, many with matching trays. The isobath was just one of many types of self filling inkwells made before the invention of the fountain pen.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. The area in which I live is quite damp and full of moisture around the spring and into early summer. I have taken all preventative measures to combat the humidity and I even have a portable dehumidifier. The problem of moisture in my home multiplies even more when all of the members of my family take showers. There are also isolated sections of the house that are plagued with mold and moisture discoloration on the walls. Can you possibly help me?

A. The probable cause of your dilemma sounds as if not enough dampness and/or moisture is being converted into dry air. Let's first target your portable dehumidifier and make sure it is in proper working order.

A household dehumidifier needs regular care and maintenance. One major part which must be cleaned annually is the refrigerant coils. A long-stemmed brush or vacuum cleaner with a long extension will reach into the coils. In addition, if your fan motor requires a few drops of a lightweight oil, be sure to service that, too.

Another overlooked room in the house is your kitchen which creates a lot of heat and humidity. If your kitchen stove does not have an exhaust fan over it, you are increasing the unwanted moisture in your home. However, one big advantage of your having this problem in the springtime and early summer is that you can have a barbecue outside. Also, the installation of even one exhaust fan in your kitchen will greatly decrease the humidity.

Finally, let's talk about your bathroom. This room is the perfect breeding ground for dampness, high moisture, mold and discoloration which you are experiencing. Once again, without the presence of a good exhaust fan, the enemy elements will win the war. As a matter of reference, a small dehumidifier in the bathroom alone can greatly overcome your predicament.

As for mold spores and discoloration on your walls, there is help. Treat the affected areas with one part of chlorine bleach and three parts warm water. In the future, you can paint your bathroom with a mold and mildew-resistant paint.

Home Tips

EGGS-ACTLY RIGHT! — When storing eggs in the refrigerator, I find it best to tear off the top of the egg carton and simply set the carton with the eggs in it wherever eggs are normally stored, usually on the door.

This avoids their sliding around, when buying new ones to use first. Liza E., Dillsburg, Pa.

FABRIC-SOFTENER SHEETS — I work in an office that uses many preprinted forms in a computer printer. We keep these forms in a divider on the wall and they have a piece of plastic glass at the front to hold the forms straight.

When we used to get down to the last two or three forms in the rack, they would always stick together because of the static electricity and wouldn't come out of the slot.

I took a fabric-softener sheet and wiped down each piece of plastic glass. Now the forms come out smoothly! Tessie R., Bakersfield, Calif.

EASY SPOT — I only make half a pot of coffee every morning. It was hard to see the cup marker while I was half asleep, so I took a permanent marker and placed a dot at the line. Now it's a lot easier to fill to exactly where I want it. Jean C., St. Maries, Idaho.

FAN IT — After you wash your floors, turn on the ceiling fan (if you have one) to dry them quickly. Rita V., Dallas, Texas.

RECYCLED SHIRTS — Instead of giving all of your husband's old shirts away, keep a few around. Hang one on a hook in your kitchen.

They're great for a cover-up over your nice work dress or suit to prepare breakfast or dinner. It beats the heck out of an apron anytime! Yolanda W., Denver, Colo.

Bloodmobile Nets 33 Units In Friendsville

The July 12 visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Friendsville yielded a total of 33 units of blood, according to Esther Benedict, coordinator.

Thirty-five persons responded to the visit, and two were deferred. There was one first-time donor. Reaching the one-gallon level at the visit was Troy Fike, while Carl Wakefield became a two-gallon donor and Wilfred Karsten reached the three-gallon level.

Volunteers assisting Mrs. Benedict with the visit were Amy Platter and Robin Sines. The next scheduled visit to Friendsville will be October 4.

Oakland Blood Drive Exceeds 200-Unit Mark

Last Friday's Oakland community bloodmobile witnessed the collection of 201 units of blood, almost 50% more than the average Oakland community bloodmobile collection for the past three years.

"The last time we collected over 200 units of blood at the Oakland community visit was on Feb. 21, 1992, well over four years ago," stated Dave Smith of American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region. "I might add that the time we exceeded the 200 mark in the past was before Bausch & Lomb had their own bloodmobiles and they would allow employees off work to donate.

"Other communities in the Johnstown Region of the American Red Cross that exceed the 200-unit mark are communities that have a population of well over 6,000 residents to draw from," he added.

Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park combined have a population of less than 4,000.

"We are a community that cares, and we prove it every time with our support of the American Red Cross bloodmobile," stated Elizabeth Huxford, blood services chairperson for the Garrett County Chapter of the Red Cross. "From the 201 units donated, as many as 600 blood products can be prepared to help save or sustain the lives of accident victims, cancer patients, surgical patients, and many others."

Another bloodmobile was also recently held in Friendsville. (See story in this section.)

First time donors at the Oakland event included Elsie I. Beachy and Melissa Lucas, Kitzmiller; Pam Beckman, Virginia Chorpenning, Roger L. Kisner Jr., and Melissa Rush, Oakland; James Beeman, Mtn. Lake Park; Elaine Lake and Monica Smith, Swanton; and Tony Lewis, Aurora, W.Va.

Donating for the eighth time to reach the one gallon milestone were Joan Riley and Ted Rissell, Swanton; Jennifer Kisner and Jim Miller, Oakland; Nancy Lewis, McHenry; and Cathy McGoldrick, Aurora, W.Va.

Oakland residents Elizabeth Huxford, Jackie Thomas, and Amos Yoder reached the two-gallon mark. The three-gallon milestone was reached by Gwen McBee Evans and Melvin C. Calhoun, Oakland, and David C. Beard, Swanton. Garry Morfoot and Edith Kay Yoder, Oakland, topped the four-gallon milestone, and the five-gallon mark was reached by Linda S. Phares, Oakland. The six-gallon mark was reached by W. Brooks Hamilton Jr., Oakland; Foster Lewis, Crellin; and Ed Quintero, McHenry. Rayetta Beitzel, Oakland, attained the seven-gallon mark.

Donating for the 64th time to reach the top milestone of eight gallons was Ralph Lichty, Oakland.

Volunteers making the bloodmobile possible included Donna Cook, Brenda Crabtree, Don Forrester, Art Lake, Jean McConnell, Joyce Nutter, and Ben Robb, organizing committee; James Beeman and Monica Smith, set-up; Artie Dixon and Freda Quintero, greeters; and Beverly Beard, Lori Gregory, Pat Fenandez, Russ McConnell, Joyce Ridder, Helen Schroyer, Barb Sweitzer, and Jonathan Wildesen, canteen.

Also volunteering at the bloodmobile were members of the confirmation class of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland. Class members Andi Bender, Janet Cook, Varonica Cross, Chris Ewing, Paul Friend, Michelle Goralski, Katie Helbig, Chad Lovett, Charlie Nolan, Jessica Savage, and Keri Strubin recruited donors and served as walkers and baby sitters for this bloodmobile.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital sponsored live radio coverage of the bloodmobile on WKHJ-FM.

"Thanks to the help of WKHJ and our corporate angel, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, we had a great turnout for our bloodmobile," Huxford said.

Recognition items were provided by WEPCO, First United National Bank and Trust, American Trust Bank, and First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. Cookies were provided by Junior Ferguson, Terry Huxford, and the Oakland Church of Christ. The CocaCola Company of Cumberland donated soft drinks.

The Garrett County Chapter's next bloodmobile will be held Friday, Sept. 13, from noon to 6 pm at the Oakland Armory. Individuals age 17 or older, who weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health, may donate blood every 56 days.

New Student Orientation Slated At GCC

An orientation for new students at Garrett Community College has been planned for Tuesday, September 3, beginning at 9 a.m. in the College auditorium, according to Manning Smith, associate dean of student services.

Following a welcome by college president Dr. Steve Herman and Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell, new students will meet in small groups to hear about financial aid from Crystal Filer-Ogden, student government and other student activities from Richard McCrobie and Cliff Everett, library procedures from Dana Shimnock, and attend a question and answer session about the college led by Joan Crawford. A free picnic lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m.

In the afternoon, some student clubs will have meetings, including the newly-organized club for non-traditional students. Volleyball and badminton will also be available for those who care to participate. All new students are encouraged to attend the orientation.

More Secure Temporary Tags To Be Issued

The Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) will put innovative technologies to use on August 1 as it implements new motor vehicle titles and temporary tags which incorporate a number of high-tech security features. The new documents are designed to be more difficult to alter or reproduce than current titles and temporary tags.

"By making the title and registration system more secure, the new titles and temporary tags will increase state revenue from titling taxes and registration fees," said Secretary of Transportation David L. Winstead.

"In recent years, with the advent of high quality color copiers, it has become easier for people to produce fraudulent motor vehicle titles and cardboard temporary tags," said MVA Administrator Ronald L. Freeland. "The MVA's new High-tech titles and temporary tags utilize the latest technology to make this type of activity extremely difficult."

The new 15-day and 45-day cardboard temporary tags incorporate a hologram and write-resistant technology, a clear plastic sheet over the expiration date that makes alterations nearly impossible. Within five months of the introduction of the new tags, any current temporary tags which have been stolen or have fallen into the wrong hands will be worthless. New and used vehicle dealers may continue to issue current temporary tags in their inventory until November 15, 1996.

The state's new blue Certificate of Title also incorporates a number of high-tech features which make it extremely difficult to counterfeit. These features include chemically sensitive paper with an eagle watermark, erasure sensitive background ink, microprinted lines of type, a two-color iridescent background, and a thermocromic state seal which becomes invisible when subjected to human touch, heat from most copy machines or frictional abrasion.

The cost to vehicle owners of registering and titling a vehicle in Maryland will not increase.

The new titles and the holograms for the temporary tags are being produced by Maryland companies. The titles are being printed by Moore Business Forms, and the holograms are being made by Optical Security (OpSec) Industries, a generation-old Sparks, Maryland firm. The MVA is OpSec's first Maryland customer.

The MVA is in the process of notifying the Maryland State Police, local police departments, and new and used vehicle dealers about the new titles and temporary tags.

We hear much concerning recycling In the last decade. We recycle paper, plastic, glass, aluminum; even marriage Isn't always exempt. It seems that nearly everything is disposable, dispensable or both. Is there anything not subject to disposal in this "throwaway" society?

God himself reassures us in Malachi 3:6 when He proclaims, "For I, the Lord do not change..."; and in 1 Peter 1:24-25..."The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away: But the word of the Lord endureth forever."

God has given another commandment that is constant...Exodus 20:8, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." Enter God's sanctuary each Sabbath. Treasure God's love in your heart. It is indispensible. Don't throw it away.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NO PLACE TO HIDE
July 28, 1996

Background Scripture:
I Peter 5:6-11
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 121:1-8

Do you remember when you first learned to play "hide and seek"? I remember that I assumed that if my face were hidden, then I was hidden – and I've since observed a lot of children who share that same misconception.

One time I hid behind some suits hanging in a closet. My head was well hidden, but my torso, legs and feet were not hidden at all. I was found out in no time. How strange to think we are hidden, when in reality we are not.

Actually, that's a lesson we need to carry into our adult lives. No matter how hard or cleverly we may try to hide from God, something always gives us away. The problem is not that we don't hide cleverly enough, but that hiding from God is not possible and never has been. I hope God has a sense of humor. How ridiculous we must look, thinking we are well hidden and yet so obvious.

NEVER OUT OF SIGHT

This is what the Psalmist found: "O Lord, thou hast searched me and known me" (139:1). Despite our assumptions, God knows us fully and completely. Although we may carefully select the words we use in praying, he knows what is behind those words–and what isn't. Although we do not usually share with him our worst thought and feelings, he knows them just the same. "Thou discernest my thoughts from afar. Thou searchest out my path...and art acquainted with all my ways. Even before a word is on my tongue, lo, O Lord, thou knowest it altogether" (139:2-4).

"Whither shall I go from thy Spirit?" he asks. "Or whither shall I flee from thy presence" If I ascend to heaven, thou art there! If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there" (139:7, 8). This last statement must have shocked some of his contemporaries, for the early Israelites believed that in Sheol, the shadowy, dark place of the dead, there is separation from God. In Psalm 6:5, we read: "For in death there is no remembrance of thee; in Sheol who can give thee praise?" But the Psalmist of Psalm 139 is saying that even in Sheol, God is there!

NEVER OUT OF HAND

But, just as we are never hidden from God's sight, so we are never hidden from his power. "If I take the wings of morning and dwell in the utter most parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me" (139:9, 10). And that's the encouraging part of this discovery. It is frightening to think that we can never hide anything– including ourselves–from God, but it is also comforting to know that we can never be beyond his help. Nor can we ever be so lost in the darkness that he cannot see us. "If I say, 'Let only darkness cover me, and the light about me be light,' even the darkness is not dark to thee, the night is bright as the day; for darkness is as light to thee" (139:11, 12).

The Psalmist realizes how futile it is to try to hide from God. The Lord not only knows him now, but He knew him before he existed: "Thy eyes beheld my unformed substance; in thy book were written, every one of them, the days that were formed for me, when as yet there was none of them" (139:16). And he will always know him. "When I awake, I am still with thee" (139:18). Whether he meant "awake" from sleep or "awake" from his delusion of being hidden, the result is the same: "I am still with thee."

At last the Psalmist comes to that realization that awaits us all: since we cannot hide anything or ourselves from God, then let us be as open to him as we can: "Search me, O God, and know my heart! Try me and know my thoughts! And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting!" (139:23, 24). No longer is God the One from whom we cannot hide, but the One whom we invite into our lives at every level.

WATCH FEET AND LEGS IN YOUR YOUNG CHILD

If a young child has any irregular growth pattern such as bowlegs, knock-knees, feet turning in or out, etc., be sure to mention it on the next visit to your family doctor or pediatrician. If he thinks there may be a problem he may suggest that an orthopedic specialist take a look.

Bowlegs and knock-knees are usually normal growth patterns and treatment is not necessary. Sometimes though they could be associated with club feet, obesity or a nervous condition. Feet turning in or out can usually be corrected by means of special shoes with a correcting bar.

COVER STORY

Investigative Reports goes 'Behind Bars'

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Bill Kurtis

Are the inmates truly running the asylum – or, more to the point, the jail and the prison?

That's one of the unsettling questions raised by "Behind Bars," a special three-hour installment of Investigative Reports premiering Sunday, July 28, on A&E Network.

Host Bill Kurtis states the crux of the matter in the opening segment of the program: How is America to deal with the growing prison population (1 million and counting) as well as the rising cost of housing the inmates?

The program then recaps the explosive May episode of Investigative Reports that sent shock waves through the Illinois legislature: the secret videotapes mass murderer Richard Speck made from within Stateville Correctional Center, Illinois' maximum security lockup.

In those tapes, which Speck made in 1988, three years before his death, the convicted killer and his male lover take drugs and have graphic sex before the camera.

"He wasn't even satisfied to do it in private. He had to flaunt it. God!" says an exasperated Kurtis.

As a result of these revelations, the Illinois legislature currently is reviewing the way the prison population is being handled.

While only the most naive person is unaware that sex between inmates takes place, the Speck tapes present the startling picture of inmates misbehaving on an almost inconceivable scale, without fear of reprisal. And where did they get those drugs?

From the guards, Kurtis concludes.

"More and more is given to the prisoners, to sort of buy them off from causing troubles," Kurtis explains. "They now have cellular phones and cable TV and VCRs.

"The outrage, here in Illinois, is that here is Speck – someone who most people thought should be dead or, if not dead, certainly punished for the rest of his life – literally better off in prison than he would have been outside."

Going inside a prison, even on official business with a camera crew, is an unsettling experience, Kurtis says, because it means entering a strange world with its own rules.

"I would ask gang members, 'Why did you have the gang continue in prison?' " he recalls.

"They would say, 'For power.' And power means almost a political kind of pressure that you can use to pressure the warden to go one way or the other.

"And I asked, 'Well, does it often come to violence?'

"And they said, 'No, most of the time we don't need to because we have the, quote, votes.'

"There's almost a primitive kind of democracy that goes on. Get enough people on your side and you can say, 'Look, do this or we're going to cause trouble. All we have to do is sit down.' "

The episode also contains extensive footage of prisons in other countries, as well as commentary on how their officials are dealing with the concept of rehabilitation.

Evening at Pops heats up a summer night

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Flamenco, the folk dance of Spain, is a demanding form, technically rigorous and intensely emotional.

One of its premier practitioners in this country is Maria Benitez, who has danced in the Santa Fe, N.M., area for three decades.

Benitez finds a national outlet on Evening at Pops, airing Monday, July 29, on PBS (check local listings). At the invitation of Boston Pops conductor Keith Lockhart, she appears with her troupe, Teatro Flamenco, to perform a sort of flamenco ballet, El Amor Brujo (Love, the Sorcerer), to a well-known score by Manuel de Falla.

The program begins with mezzo-soprano Denyce Graves. Her performance of "Habanera" from Bizet's Carmen foreshadows the evening's torrid conclusion.

Next Lockhart brings out the Los Angeles Guitar Quartet to perform two selections.

Heavily edited to meet the 60-minute running time, the program moves quickly on to El Amor Brujo, combining the talents of Graves, Benitez, the quartet and the orchestra.

Benitez plays the central character, a gypsy betrayed by her lover. But the story is of little significance, except as a framework for the emotional energy of the dance.

At an age when most dancers have retired to teaching, Benitez continues to cast a powerful spell. Her red silk dress flares over a lean, muscular body as she circles the floor. Her hands, constantly in motion, appear to swivel on her wrists.

Despite occasionally clumsy camera work, this Evening is a memorable one, not to everyone's taste, yet capturing the flavor of an authentic art form.

Maria Benitez brings her Teatro Flamenco to Evening at Pops for a performance of the "flamenco ballet" El Amor Brujo. It airs Monday on PBS (check local listings).

Discovery Channel offers an intimate look at Eilish Holton, a girl who underwent surgery to be separated from her conjoined sister, Katie.

Eilish: Life Without Katie, premiering Sunday, July 28, follows the only survivor of the surgery three years after the operation to see how she has developed despite the trauma.

This program is preceded by Katie and Eilish, a special that follows the Holton family as they contemplate separating the two girls.

ABC paid $15.5 million to air the 1980 Winter Games, but $225 million for the 1984 Los Angeles Olympiad.

Just four countries have participated in every modern Olympiad. Greece, Switzerland, Australia and Great Britain.

Clark Johnson

Q: Please publish an address where I can write to Clark Johnson and Melissa Leo of Homicide: Life on the Street. Also, tell me about Clark Johnson. –M.B., Bethlehem, Pa.

A: A native of Philadelphia, Johnson began acting as a child in such Broadway and touring shows as Finian's Rainbow and South Pacific. Years later, after attending Loyola Film School in Montreal, he found work as a camera assistant and special effects technician on films that included The Dead Zone and The Fly.

Ultimately, he decided to return to acting and trained with, among others, the famed Second City company in Toronto.

His many feature film credits include Iron Eagle II, Drop Zone and Nick of Time. On TV, he appeared in The Women of Brewster Place, L.A. Law, Gabriel's Fire and Silent Witness. He has directed episodes of Under African Skies for The Family Channel.

The married actor, who has two daughters, divides his time among Baltimore, Los Angeles and Toronto.

You can write to the star of any NBC series c/o (name of show), NBC Television Network, 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

NBC recently renewed Homicide for two more seasons.

Q: I recently saw the movie Valmont, and I thought Falruza Balk stole the show. What else, if anything, has she done? –Robert Derbyshire, Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Canada.

A: Balk has been dazzling critics and her peers at least since 1985, when she won the coveted role of Dorothy in Return to Oz. To date, she has selected her movie roles with an eye to their content and complexity, not their commercial appeal.

Brian Dennehy was so impressed when they worked together in 1993's Murder in the Heartland that he handpicked her for the pivotal role of a twisted nymphet in last December's TV movie Shadow of a Doubt.

Balk's movies on tape include Shame and Gas Food Lodging, both from 1992.

Q: In Wanted: Dead or Alive, I say Steve McQueen's character was Josh Randall and his sawed-off rifle was called his "Mare's Leg." Others disagree. –Vincent Smith, Port Jervis, N.Y.

A: You're right on both counts.

Q: Did George Clooney play Mallory's (Justine Bateman) dropout boyfriend Nick on Family Ties? –Louise Cooper, Long Beach, Calif.

A: No. Scott Valentine played Nick Moore.

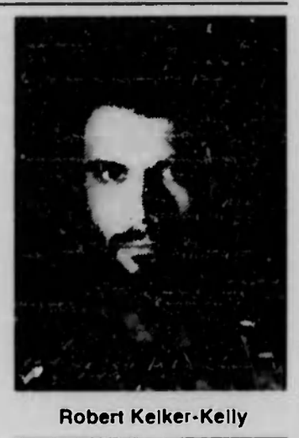
SOAP TALK

Changes are in store for Kelker-Kelly, Tylo

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate



Robert Kelker-Kelly

It's hard to keep a good man down, especially if he is Robert Kelker-Kelly.

The actor, who left the popular role of Bo on Days of Our Lives due to creative differences, is returning to a favorite haunt, the set of Another World.

Kelker-Kelly starred on the soap from 1987-89 as Sam Fowler. This time the actor is coming back as a new character named Bobby Reno.

"I'm thrilled Robert is coming back to Another World," says executive producer Jill Farren Phelps. "He brings a wealth of talent and experience to this new role and will be a great addition to this brilliant cast. We are very excited to see how the Bobby/Vicky/Jake story line will play."

Also on AW: Newcomer Kim Rhodes is playing Cindy, the sister of Gabe's (John Bolger) ex-wife.

In the story line, Gabe and Lorna (Robin Christopher) have recently become engaged. Cindy will obsessively pursue Gabe's attention, causing problems for Lorna and Gabe.

In other news: Bradley Bell, executive producer and head writer for The Bold and the Beautiful, announced Hunter Tylo will return to the soap.

Tylo once again will play Dr. Taylor Hayes. Tylo left her B&B role in May, expecting to take on a new role on Melrose Place this summer.

Not long after her departure she announced she was pregnant. Melrose producers didn't think they could work Tylo's pregnancy into the script, so they dropped her.

When last seen on B&B, Taylor was leaving Los Angeles in an attempt to put her life together and to get over Ridge (Ronn Moss).

Taylor's return will have an impact on Ridge's tumultuous relationship with Brooke (Katherine Kelly Lang), who has struck up a special friendship with Grant Chambers (Charles Grant).

At one time Grant and Taylor were also an item.

Once Taylor was a part of the Taylor/Ridge/Brooke love triangle.

Now it looks as if she will form a quadrangle with Ridge, Brooke and Grant.

Tylo's first airdate on B&B is Friday, Aug. 9.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

SURMOUNT was the name of a large private residence built in 1895 by Percy Proctor of Cincinnati's Proctor & Gamble Corporation and located on the hill in Oakland known as Crook's Crest. Proctor was a neighbor of General George Crook. The house burned in February of 1926 when it was owned by the Louis Bush family of Washington, D.C. The fire could not be contained by the Oakland Fire Department because the house was above the water level in the reservoir; however, it burned so slowly in the walls that all of the contents of the house, and even the doors and windows, were removed. It was also after this particular fire that the Oakland VFD decided to purchase a new motorized fire engine, and did so by the end of that year. The "high powered Locomobile" with a 400 gallon-per-minute pump, "cost approximately $3,700 and is capable of making 70 miles an hour when called upon to do so," stated an article in the December 23, 1926, issue of The Republican. TEACHERS SING THE BLUES - While attending the Southern Studies Institute recently at The University of Mississippi, Sonia Pratt, Oakland, pictured left, learned how to enhance her teaching by using the blues. Kenneth Jackson (right) was among those teaching this form of music to teachers. Jackson, a musician and composer, was the recipient of the 1996 Keeping the Blues Alive Award in Education from the Blues foundation. Also during the conference, participants explored new teaching strategies and classroom use of folk art, documentary films and other interdisciplinary materials, as well as visiting the Mississippi Delta and Memphis. Sponsored by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at Ole Miss, the Southern Studies Teachers event is an annual event. Pratt teaches at Southern Garrett High School.

U.S. Chamber Of Commerce Honors Roscoe Bartlett

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce recently honored District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett with the Spirit of Enterprise Award for his support of pro-business policies.

The award was based on 24 significant business votes cast in 1995 in the first session of the 104th Congress.

"We are pleased to honor Rep. Bartlett for consistently voting in support of policies that will create more jobs and strengthen the U.S. economy," stated Dr. Richard L. Lesher, chamber president. "This Congress is clearly the most pro-business in memory."

House legislation considered in the rankings included measures on unfunded mandates, line-item veto, health insurance deduction for the self-employed, regulatory changes, private property rights, welfare reform, term limits, tax and spending cuts, revisions to the Clean Water Act, striker replacement, and the seven year balanced budget, among other items.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which is comprised by more than 215,000 businesses, 3,000 local and state chambers of commerce, and 1,200 trade and professional associations, advances pro-business concerns.

The Baltimore Metropolitan Region, consisting of Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford, and Howard counties had the second highest increase in arson. There were 1,577 arsons recorded in the region last year, as compared to only 1,270 such incidents in 1994, for an overall increase of 24.2%.

The Western Region, consisting of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, and Carroll counties, also recorded a slight increase in arson crimes. Arson offenses rose by approximately 7.1% in the region last year, from 210 reported arsons in 1994, to 225 such cases last year.

The Washington Metropolitan Region, consisting of Montgomery and Prince George's counties tallied only a 2.3%, increase in arson.

The Southern Region of the state, consisting of Charles, St. Mary's, and Calvert counties, was the only region to have a drop in arson. There were only 84 arsons reported in the region last year, compared to 121 the previous year. This resulted in an overall 30.6%, reduction in arson offenses.

The number of arson fatalities also increased in 1995. There were 11 arson fatalities recorded last year, as compared to only eight such occurrences in 1994.

The Arson Control Association of Maryland offers an arson tip reward of up to $5,000 for information leading to the arrest or indictment of any individual responsible for an arson fire. Anyone with information regarding any arson fire should contact the Arson Hotline at 1-800-492-7529.

Commenting on the increase in arson, Gabriele stated, "I am extremely disheartened at the increase in the crime of arson in our state. I am confident however, that by working together, law enforcement, the fire service, and the citizens of Maryland we can effectively reduce this heinous crime."

Native American Storytelling To Be Workshop Topic

Dr. Ellesa High of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., will present a workshop in Native American storytelling titled "Encounters with the Wolf" in the Fine Arts Building of Garrett Community College on Wednesday, August 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The presentation is being sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council as part of ArtWorks '96, the council's summer workshop program. The enrollment fee is $20 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Prior registration is required by calling the Arts Council at 387-3121.

"To many native Americans," Dr. High said, "the wolf is a warrior, teacher, healer, and guide to the spirit world. Through storytelling, this workshop will introduce participants to Native American cultures, explore the teachings of the wolf, and suggest how wolf spirit can be incorporated into daily life."

Workshop participants will also be introduced to Kiva and Shaman, the two wolfdogs who live with Dr. High in Preston County.

Ellesa High is an associate professor of English at West Virginia University, where she teaches Native American literature and is advisor to the Organization of Native American interests. She is the author of numerous books and articles, the most recent of which is Diversity in Appalachia: The Lessons that Mountains Teach.

Further information on this and other summer workshops in the arts is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 387-3121.

Native American Storytelling To Be Workshop Topic

Dr. Ellesa High of Bruceton Mills, W.Va., will present a workshop in Native American storytelling titled "Encounters with the Wolf" in the Fine Arts Building of Garrett Community College on Wednesday, August 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The presentation is being sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council as part of ArtWorks '96, the council's summer workshop program. The enrollment fee is $20 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Prior registration is required by calling the Arts Council at 387-3121.

"To many native Americans," Dr. High said, "the wolf is a warrior, teacher, healer, and guide to the spirit world. Through storytelling, this workshop will introduce participants to Native American cultures, explore the teachings of the wolf, and suggest how wolf spirit can be incorporated into daily life."

Workshop participants will also be introduced to Kiva and Shaman, the two wolfdogs who live with Dr. High in Preston County.

Ellesa High is an associate professor of English at West Virginia University, where she teaches Native American literature and is advisor to the Organization of Native American interests. She is the author of numerous books and articles, the most recent of which is Diversity in Appalachia: The Lessons that Mountains Teach.

Further information on this and other summer workshops in the arts is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 387-3121.

Japanese Massage Courses Set For August At GCC

Two one-day courses in Reiki, a type of bodywork used by massage therapists, will be offered through the continuing education division of Garrett Community College on Aug. 3 and 4. Reiki level I will be offered between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 3, and Reiki level II will be offered in the same time frame on Sunday, August 4. Both sessions are scheduled for Room CE-308 in the continuing Education building at GCC's McHenry Campus.

Reiki was developed by a Japanese physician, and translated the world means "life force." Students will review the prescriptive hand positions and the history and uses of the technique, and will be introduced to the Japanese medical model's concepts of energy flow. Students will also receive a course manual and bibliography.

This course will be laboratory based and students will practice skills while guided by the instructor. Citations for completion, stating the course name and contact hours, will be issued by mail from GCC.

The instructor, Mary Finnell, is a naturopathic therapist and educator. She has logged over 2,000 hours of training in integrated therapeutic massage modalities from the Florida School of Massage, Kripalu Center for Yoga and Health, Interface Center, and Finger Lakes School of Massage. She is the founder of the Center for the Healing Arts in Morgantown, W.Va., where she also maintains a private practice. In addition to teaching at GCC, Finnell has also taught at the Pittsburgh School of Massage and the Mountain State School of Massage in Charleston, W.Va.

Potential students are asked to enroll no later than July 31. The cost for Garrett County residents for Reiki I is $50 and for Reiki II is $75. Out-of-state and out-of-county residents pay an additional differential fee. Maryland senior citizens are eligible for reduced charges. For additional information, persons may call the continuing education office at 387-3088.

Massages To Be Offered At GCC

Supervised students in the massage therapy curriculum at Garrett Community College will offer Swedish and deep tissue massages to the general public on Saturday, Aug. 10; Monday through Thursday, Aug. 12-15; and again on Saturday, Aug. 17.

Sessions are available at noon and 1:30 p.m. on the two Saturdays, and at noon, 1:30 p.m., 4 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. on Monday through Thursday. Reservations are required and may be made by calling Carol Newman at 387-3088. The cost of a session is $15 for the general public and $10 for persons over age 60.

Swedish massage is a type of massage therapy using techniques to lengthen and loosen tissue. Strokes include kneading, gliding, frictioning, movements, and gentle holding. Deep tissue massage therapy includes glides, friction, compression, skin rolling, and cross-fiber strokes to the musculature of the body.

Student Included In Who's Who For Second Year

For the second consecutive year, Eric Neubert, an 11th grader at Northern High School, has received honorary award recognition by being chosen for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Established in 1967, the Who's Who program has been acknowledged by the American Library Association and cited by education, parent, and teacher associations.

Approximately 15,000 high school faculty members, youth, and education organizations nominate students for this honor. Only 5% of all high school students receive this annual award and only half of one percent are honored for two or more years.

Neubert has been on high honor roll every semester, a member of Northern's Science Bowl and Math teams, and has attended several summer programs through the Center for Talented Youth at Johns Hopkins University. Last year, he was a member of Northern's varsity soccer and track teams and the J.V. basketball team, receiving three Minds in Motion awards, plus two in his freshman year.

Neubert has tutored students at Garrett Community College, coached community youth basketball, and participated in community soccer leagues.

Swanton Man's Poem Selected For Competition

Harvey Bittinger Jr., Swanton, was recently notified by the National Library of Poetry in Owings Mills that his poem was selected as a semi-finalist in the 1996 North American Poetry Contest, and will now advance to final competition later this year.

Titled Memories of Yesterday, the poem will be published in the forthcoming anthology, Daybreak on the Land, scheduled for publication in the winter of this year.

Bittinger's poem was written in memory of his father, Harvey Bittinger Sr., his mother, Viola (Hare) Bittinger, and a nephew, Matthew Scott Bittinger. The poem, according to its author, tells the story of how people go through life looking for a better direction, but as they go on they often come to a stop and recall "memories of yesterday" -- days gone by, and life in the past: how the home was then, and how families gathered together; and in today's world how everyone goes their separate ways.

Bittinger has been employed at Bausch & Lomb since 1979.

OHS Class Of 1946 Meets For 50-Year Reunion

The 1946 class of Oakland High School held its 50-year reunion at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, on June 15. Homeroom teacher for IV-B in attendance was Virginia Weeks Hardesty, as well as Ernest Spoerlein, guidance, and his wife, Alice. Of the 94 graduates, 23 are deceased. In attendance were 28 class members and 16 spouses.

Presiding at the meeting was chairman, Homer Liston, Cresaptown. A memorial service and lighting of a candle for the 23 deceased members opened the meeting and was conducted by Barbara Flinn. Chairman Liston made the cross which held the 23 candles. Reba Simpson gave the prayer before the meal - a buffet -- which included breast of chicken with stuffing, roast pork loin, seafood in rice, tossed garden greens, green beans, and a variety of desserts.

Greeters for the evening were Jane Reckard Kershner and husband, Charles. Awards were presented by Deloris Leighton Robinette and Randall O'Brien. Receiving awards were: musician, Dottie Leighton; most children (seven), Helen Moreland Riley; best head hair, Bill Hoover; master mind, Lynn Lewis, good egg, Barbara Flinn; basketball star, Herb Leighton; Jack of all trades, Tom Browning; least hair (man), Clayton Smith; married longest, Helen M. Riley; traveled farthest, Earl Holtschneider; most grandchildren Betty Weeks Beckman; most great-grandchildren, Hazel Teagarden; changed least, Jane Reckner; class clown, Homer Liston; procrastinator, Stogie Johnson.

Door prizes were awarded by Barbara Flinn and Hazel Teagarden and were given by Clarence Rhodes (though he was not able to attend). These bouquets of fresh flowers were won by Glen Simpson, Deloris Robinette, and Herb Leighton.

The group decided to have its next reunion in June, five years hence. A group picture was taken by Doug Buckley. The school song was sung by the group, led by Dorothy Leighton.

The Reunion Committee consisted of Homer Liston, chairman, Tom Browning, treasurer, Hazel Teagarden, and Randall O'Brien, secretaries. Helping were Barbara Flinn, Mary Mae Liston, Wilda Davy, and Betty Beckman. Marjorie DeBerry and Deloris Robinette provided the table favors and Herb Ridder (unable to attend) provided tapes of forties music.

The reigning Maryland Farm Queen, Miss Lori Evans of Garrett County, will have the honor of crowning her successor, the 1996 Maryland Farm Queen, who will be selected at the Maryland Farm Queen Contest, Sunday, August 25, 7 p.m., in the State Fair Cow Palace.

"It has been a wonderful experience to be the 1995 Maryland Farm Queen and an ambassador to spread the word about the importance of agriculture in our state. In fact, this past year has been a highlight of my life," said Ms. Evans. "It is my hope that this year's Farm Queen will be just as enthusiastic in her new role."

Young women between the ages of 16 and 19, who have earned their place in the 1996 Maryland Farm Queen Contest by winning county Farm Bureau-sponsored contests, will compete for this renowned title, tiaras supplied by Littman's Jewelers in Cranberry Mall, and scholarship and cash awards valued up to $4,000. The 23 Maryland county farm queens, will be critiqued, during a two-day competition, primarily on their agricultural knowledge and experience and their civic involvement. Each must spontaneously respond to a "fish bowl" question either related to career opportunities, agricultural or environmental stewardship issues. Poise, appearance, personality, communication skills, and civic involvement are secondary requirements.

The 1996 Maryland Farm Queen will be present throughout the run of the State Fair to award prizes, and mingle with fairgoers, dignitaries, and media representatives. Her responsibilities will continue throughout the year as she will participate in a number of activities representing Maryland agriculture. The runners-up will assist the Farm Queen with award presentations and serve as hostesses for dignitaries.

The 115th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, arts and crafts and home arts exhibits, runs from Saturday, August 24, through Monday, September 2, at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County. Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 8 a.m. Demonstration halls are open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. The midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays. Admission is only $4.00 for adults, children under 12 are admitted free. Admittance to the race track is included in the admission price of the fair. Parking on the fairgrounds for a minimal fee, and free parking at the Park and Ride location on Deereco Road are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. The fairgrounds encourage use of the Light Rail with an easily accessible Light Rail stop at the Fairgrounds Cow Palace Gate. For general information, those interested may call 252-0200, ext. 226.

Riley Elected SASDA President

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley was elected president of the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture (SASDA) at their recent annual meeting in Virginia. As a result, Maryland will host the 1997 SASDA meeting, now scheduled for June 7-11, 1997, in Annapolis. SASDA represents the secretaries, directors and/or commissioners of agriculture in 15 southern states plus Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

"It is certainly an honor for me to be asked by my colleagues to head SASDA for the coming year. We all have a common interest in seeing our agriculture industries compete successfully in the global marketplace which means prosperity at home and a solid agriculture industry as we move toward the next century. Of course, I am particularly looking forward to showing my colleagues the rich diversity of Maryland agriculture when we host the meetings next June," said Riley.

The Historic Inns of Annapolis will be the headquarters for the annual meeting that will include discussions of agricultural, marketing and environmental issues as well as a tour of Maryland agricultural operations. SASDA last held their meetings in Maryland in 1986.

National Farm-City Conference Ready To Begin In Annapolis

Building good relations between farmers and urban dwellers will be the major topic during the National Farm-City conference scheduled July 28-30 in the Wyndham Garden Hotel at Annapolis. All interested persons throughout the Mid-Atlantic area are invited to attend this nationwide forum being held for the first time in Maryland.

Sponsors include the National Farm-City Council, Maryland agricultural organizations (especially the Maryland Farm Bureau) and the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Room reservations for overnight guests will be available in the conference hotel through July 19, and walk-in registrations will be accepted from persons planning to commute. However, advance registration is preferable.

An $80 registration fee will include a Sunday evening "Taste of Maryland" poolside buffet on July 28, breakfast and lunch on Monday and Tuesday, and a Monday afternoon bus tour to Beltsville and Baltimore. The conference hotel room rate is $65 per night.

Further information is available from John Butler at the Maryland Farm Bureau (phone: 410-922-3426); Steve Connelly at the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation (phone: 410-752-0671) or Milt Nelson at the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (phone: 301-405-4596).

Heavy Rain Affects Harvest

For the week ending July 21, vegetable harvest made moderate to fair gains but was hindered by precipitation. The recent rains have also drowned out soybeans in some low areas.

Field corn condition was rated two percent poor, 14 percent fair, 48 percent good, and 36 percent excellent.

Soybeans in bloom gained over last year but lagged behind both last year and the five-year average. The crop was five percent poor, 14 percent fair, 47 percent good, and 34 percent excellent.

The sorghum erop just started to head and the condition was two percent very poor, two percent poor, 17 percent fair, 44 percent good, and 35 percent excellent.

The percent of tobacco in bloom made heavy gains over the previous week. The condition was three percent poor, 12 percent fair, 73 percent good, and 12 percent excellent.

Rye harvest progressed from last week and was running just behind the normal pace.

The wheat harvest stayed ahead of last year and almost at the normal pace.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay continued to progress but was hampered by rain. Second cuttings of other hay and alfalfa fell further off the pace of last year and the five-year average. Third cuttings of alfalfa made modest gains but were still running ahead of the average pace.

Pastures were one percent very poor, two percent poor, 11 percent fair, 70 percent good, and 16 percent excellent. Hay supplies were mostly adequate.

Apples were two percent poor, 15 percent fair, 66 percent good, and 17 percent excellent. Peaches were one percent very poor, four percent poor, 13 percent fair, 61 percent good, and 21 percent excellent.

Heavy rains were received in many areas throughout the week. Totals of as much as 10 inches were received. The excessive moisture prevented field activities and is starting to cause other problems. Topsoil moisture was one percent short, 58 percent adequate, and 41 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 77 percent adequate and 23 percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 3.4 days suitable for fieldwork.

Southern States Meeting Set For Aug. 6 In Eglon

"Seventy-three years ago, farmers organized Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," said Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Southern States: The Cooperative Advantage," the theme of this year's local annual membership meetings, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improving farm inputs and services," added Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Eglon Farm Service, Inc. Board nominees are Eugene Bachtel, Millard Judy, Dale Mullenax, and LaDenna Teets. The FHAC slate consists of Bernadine Bachtel, Kelly Junkins, Renee Mullenax, and Delores Stemple.

A taped report from Gene A. James, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, will discuss the co-op's supply and marketing operations for the last fiscal year.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed. Local FHAC and board members completing terms will be recognized.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday, August 6, United Methodist Fellowship Center, Aurora, W.Va.

Southern States Cooperative, headquartered in Richmond, operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in West Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The cooperative's membership totalled about 190,000 and the annual volume is estimated to have reached over $1 billion last year.

Pesticide Reform Measure Passed By House Panel

The American Farm Bureau Federation hailed passage of long-stalled pesticide reform legislation by the House Commerce Committee last week, calling the action "a major step toward modernizing an antiquated law."

Reacting to the panel's unanimous action, AFBF President Dean Kleckner said: "This bill to overhaul the Delaney clause, and its archaic zero-risk standard, will result in safer food for consumers, safer chemicals for farmers and more sensible regulations from government."

Earlier in the week, White House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta met with state Farm Bureau presidents and pledged the Clinton administration's support for Delaney clause reform.

"If we can get Delaney reformed, we are all for it," said Panetta, speaking at a gathering of state Farm Bureau presidents. "We will be working with Congress to get it done. The faster they move...the better."

The measure (H.R. 1627) is co-sponsored by more than 240 House members and was approved in June 1995 by the House Agriculture Committee. The Commerce Committee also had to approve the bill because it amends the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which contains the 1958 Delaney clause.

Kleckner said the pesticide reform proposal is critical because many key chemicals have been, or will be, restricted by the Environmental Protection Agency. "We are losing safe and effective crop protection tools simply because our methods of detecting minute traces of residues are far more advanced than in 1958."

The EPA, complying with a 1992 federal court decision, is using the zero-risk Delaney standard rather than the "negligible risk" standard it used from 1988-92. The zero-risk standard, Kleckner noted, is preventing farmers from combating Karnal bunt, the disease afflicting some of the nation's wheat crop, because the only effective fungicide does not clear the Delaney hurdle.

Kleckner said the bill to be considered by the full House this week "represents a sound compromise that balances all interests." The bill, he said, establishes a "modern and realistic safety standard," allows the benefits of pesticides to be considered in the regulatory equation and implements the National Academy of Sciences proposals to provide added safeguards to protect infants and children.

Wheat And Barley Production Down

Maryland winter wheat production for 1996, based on July 1 conditions is forecast at 12.5 million bushels, down 13 percent from last year. The wheat yield for the July forecast is 54 bushels per acre, 10 bushels below 1995's 64 bushels per acre.

Winter wheat is to be harvested from 231,000 acres this year, up three percent from 1995. The decline in yield offset the increased harvested acreage to account for the decreased production.

Maryland barley production is estimated at 2.9 million bushels, down 41 percent from the 5.0 million bushels harvested in 1995. A decline in yield of 21 bushels per acre along with a decrease of 13,000 harvested acres caused the decline in production. Barley will be harvested from 49,000 acres in 1996 with a forecasted yield of 60 bushels per acre. Oat production for 1996 is forecast at 392,000 bushels, seven percent more than last year. The yield is forecast at 56 bushels per acre, down five bushels per acre from the 61 bushels per acre in 1995. Oat harvested acres for 1996 is estimated at 7,000 acres, 1,000 acres more than in 1995.

The Maryland summer potato crop is expected to produce 380,000 hundredweight from 1,900 harvested acres. This is a six percent increase from last year's production due to an increase in harvested acreage. The Maryland peach crop for 1996 is expected to be nine million pounds, down 25 percent from the 12 million pounds produced last year.

The United States winter wheat production for 1996 is forecast at 1.48 billion bushels. This is up eight percent from June 1, but down four percent from 1995. Based on July 1 conditions, the U.S. yield is forecast at 37.0 bushels per acre, up 0.9 bushels per acre from the last forecast, but 0.7 bushels per acre less than last year. Grain area totals 40.1 million acres, down two percent from 1995.

Barley production is forecast at 394 million bushels, up 10 percent from 1995. Yields are expected to average 58.2 bushels per acre, up 1.0 bushel from last year. Area harvested and to be harvested is at 6.76 million acres, up eight percent from last year.

Oat production for 1996 is forecast at 155 million bushels, down four percent from last year. If realized, this would be the lowest oat production since records were first kept in 1866. The forecasted yield, at 58 bushels per acre, is up 3.3 bushels from last year. Area harvested and to be harvested, at 2.67 million acres, is down 10 percent from the 2.96 million harvested in 1995. This would also be the lowest oat acreage harvested on record.

Summer potato production is forecast at 18.9 million cwt, up six percent from last year. Farmers expect to harvest 76,800 acres, a nine percent gain from a year ago. The average yield is forecasted to be 246 cwt per acre, seven cwt less than last year. The 1996 peach crop is forecast at 1.99 billion pounds, down 14 percent from 1995 and 21 percent below 1994.

Estate Tax Law Change Sought

Burdens placed on agriculture by federal taxes on estates and capital gains make it difficult for some farmers to continue farming and instead often make the land an inviting target for development, Farm Bureau told a House panel last week.

"It is important to point out that the amount of taxes farmers and ranchers pay in operating their businesses have an indirect impact on land use," Ohio Farm Bureau President Irv Bell told a House Ways and Means subcommittee.

Because federal tax rules allow producers to exempt only a portion of their estate to an heir, the beneficiaries who inherit farmland also could be saddled with a huge tax bill. Therefore, Bell told the panel, Farm Bureau urges members of Congress to abolish federal estate and gift taxes.

"If this is not feasible, modifications are needed to reduce the burden on family farms and ranches," Bell, a feed grain, hog and beef farmer, said. "Farm Bureau supports increasing the current exemption and indexing it for inflation. Because land is not easily gifted in small blocks, we recommend that the yearly gift allowance also be increased."

Bell also said the current capital gains structure discourages land transfers within families and often forces older generations to hold onto the land and subject it to estate taxes at the time of death.

"Many farmers and ranchers nearing retirement or in retirement are interested in selling land to younger farmers and ranchers, including family members," Bell said.

"The current 28 percent capital gains tax discourages land transfers, Rather than selling farmland to the next generation, land is often held by the older generation until death and then becomes subject to estate taxes."

New provisions to allow for the creation of "farmer-individual retirement accounts," changes in "aggie-bond" rules that would alter the definition of a first-time farmer and allow loans for the purchase of farmland from family members, tax incentives for conservation expenses," and tax deductions for contributions of farmland for voluntary easements also should be instituted, Bell said.

MARYLAND FORESTS

by Patrice Jastrzembski

An oak table, a hickory rocker, a willow basket - each of these wooden products is made from very distinctive types of wood. Wood varies greatly from species to species. Wood can be identified by its color, grain, weight, density, and ability to withstand decay and moisture. Entire college courses are taught on the identification of wood!

Most people today do not cut trees to make their own wooden barrels, axe handles, or fence posts. Instead, we can buy our wooden spoons at a department store and our rocking chairs at a furniture store. Because of these conveniences, few people are aware of the amount and variety of wood we use each day.

Wood can be made into thousands of useful products. The wood determines the color, grain, durability, and cost of each item. A partial listing of some different types of wood and the unusual items made from them follows:

White oak wood is heavy and strong. Once seasoned, white oak is impervious to liquid. Barrels for holding liquid, such as whiskey, have been made of white oak for centuries. The craft of building wooden barrels is called cooperage; the person who builds the barrels is a cooper.

The most unique feature of black locust wood is its resistance to decay. The wood is hard, does not easily split, and holds nails well. Over the years, black locust wood had been used for fence posts, telephone poles, mine timbers, and wagon axle hubs.

Although Basswood is light and weak, it is useful because can be easily carved, glues well, and holds paint. Beekeepers use basswood to build wooden beehives and the farms for honeycomb. It is ideal for this because the wood is odorless and tasteless, therefore it imparts no flavor to honey.

An attractive, light colored wood with high shock resistance is yellow birch. This wood is often used for gymnasium and bowling alley floors.

Hollywood is another pretty, light colored wood. It is close grained and has a satiny texture. Holly is most often used as inlay for interior woodwork and on cabinets.

Persimmon wood has an unusual, dark ebony color. The wood is very hard and resists splitting upon sudden impact. It is valued for wooden golf club heads.

Cedars, such as the eastern red cedar and the incense cedar are used for pencils, closets, chests, and animal bedding. This wood, which has a rot resistant quality, has a distinctive scent.

Baseball bats, tennis rackets, oars, and other athletic equipment are primarily made of ash. Ash wood is very strong and has the ability to absorb shock and bend.

Many of our ancestors, who relied on outhouses, knew wood enough to allow themselves one luxury. When butternut wood is sanded, it becomes velvety smooth, making it the wood of choice for toilet seats.

The variety of wood is amazing. Each type is special in its own way and can be used to enhance and beautify our lives.

U.S. To Drop Tariff Against EU

The United States will drop its retaliation against the European Union for its ban on hormone-treated beef, averting the risk of escalating the dispute to the World Trade Organization level. The U.S. had imposed tariffs on EU food and drink imports following the EU's 1988 ban on U.S. beef produced with growth-promoting hormones.

U.S. Loses Trade Dispute

A five-member panel reviewing dairy, egg and poultry trade disputes between the U.S. and Canada has ruled unanimously in favor of Canada, according to a report leaked to the media last week. The panel ruled that despite NAFTA provisions banning all tariffs between the two countries within 18 months, Canada can still levy high border tariffs on these products indefinitely. The decision will be finalized and officially released in August or early September. The United States has two weeks to submit written arguments against the interim decision.

Farmers Receive Mixed Prices For Month Of June

Prices received by Maryland and Delaware farmers showed gains from May for oats, cattle, hogs, milk, broilers, and eggs. However, winter wheat, corn, barley, soybeans, hay, calves, and chickens had lower returns. Nationally, price gains from May for corn, barley, cattle and broilers more than offset price declines for wheat, oats, soybeans, and hay.

Crop Insurance To Expand Two Pilot Programs

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will expand two pilot crop insurance programs for the 1997 crop year, USDA Secretary Dan Glickman announced last week. One program protects farmers against losses in yield and low harvest time prices; the other guarantees that producers are paid for losses against the established yield coverage if the harvest price is greater than the spring price.

You take care of what passes from generation to generation.

Many families pass heirlooms from generation to generation. Perhaps it's great grandfather's pocket watch or grandmother's china plates. These items are cherished and protected.

The same is true for passing on a family farm. That's why generations of American farmers and ranchers have protected the soil and natural resources for the future with grass waterway strips, planted windbreaks, contour farming, and the latest in mechanical and computer technology. And just like today's urban families, farm families follow extensive reuse and recycling programs.

A Little Nighttime Tale From The Makers Of Sleeping Beauty.®

The king and queen of Central Tossanturn had a perfect kingdom - except for one little problem. They were cursed with a bad mattress. That caused the queen to toss and turn and talk all night long. Which made for one very tired king.

Well, one day the royal couple got a Sleeping Beauty® mattress set by Kingsdown. So their highnesses now enjoy proper spinal alignment and a healthier, more comfortable, quieter sleep. And the whole kingdom rests better knowing there's less talk in the royal bed chamber.

Original Play Will Dramatize Aurora History

A historical drama with an original script will be performed at the Aurora United Methodist Church on Friday, Aug. 9, and Sunday, Aug. 11, at 8:30 p.m. each evening. The play is part of the ongoing celebration of the 100th anniversary of the church sanctuary.

The play, titled Next Door to Heaven, will depict the history of the community and church from the time of the settlement by Rev. John Stough in 1786 to the present time, an event spokesperson said.

The production is being written and directed by Carolyn Wotring, a church member who has experience in dinner theater and who has taught drama and script writing. The cast of the play will include parishioners and members of the Aurora community.

In preparation for the two performances, an outdoor stage is under construction and wooden bleachers have been built into a hillside on the church grounds.

Persons attending the play are invited to dress in period costumes, if they wish.

Centennial celebration co-chairpersons are Kirk Lantz, Alan Lipscomb, and Virginia Martin.

Candidate For Governor Speaks To Prestonians

by Nathan Raybeck

Cecil Underwood, West Virginia' Republican candidate for governor, last week spoke to a group of local Prestonians at Alpine Lake resort, near Terra Alta, about how West Virginia can have a prosperous economic future if it goes "techno."

Underwood stated that the technological industry could offer a great deal to the state in terms of jobs and the expansion of West Virginia's sluggish economy. Underwood also stressed the importance of creating a research institute, where experts in both the public and private sector could be brought together to research new technology, which according to Underwood is the best way to bring additional money into the state.

Underwood also stated that with the use of new technology he could help the educational system by reducing massive consolidations with such programs as distance learning through television. Underwood also said that through interactive television between rural and urban health care professionals, better health care could be provided for rural West Virginians.

As for the issue of river boat gaming, the former governor said that he is against it but he believes that issue should be voted on by the people. Underwood also stated that he is firmly against collective bargaining for public employees.

He said that he would love to see taxes go down, but, if elected, will look at the whole economic picture before making any decisions.

Underwood said that he plans in October to take his message of more technology for the mountain state on the road: Underwood, governor of the state from 1957-61, plans to travel by bus all over the state to discuss the issues with rural West Virginians.

He will face Democratic gubernatorial candidate Charolett Pritt in November.

Tri-State Tourney Begins; PCCWA Members Assist

For the 49th year, Preston Country Club is hosting its annual Tri-State Golf Tournament, which began today (July 25) and will continue through July 28.

The challenging, scenic 18-hole golf course at Preston Country Club, known as the "level spot in the Alleghenies," attracts participants from six states during the annual tournament which has been filled to capacity nearly every year. And playing a significant role in assisting the tournament's planning committee to make sure all goes smoothly, are members of the Preston Country Club Women's Association (PCCWA).

PCCWA members arrive prior to the first tee-off time each morning during the Tri-State Tournament and distribute the score cards and rules of the day to the participants. As the teams complete their rounds of golf, the ladies gather the score cards, validate them, and post them on the board until the last group has finished. In years past, members of the PCCWA have sold homemade snacks and beverages to the golfers during the tournament.

Since its inception, the main purpose of the women's association has been to beautify the club house with decorations, furnishings, carpeting, draperies, and the seasonal decorations. The association also hosts an annual Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament, planned this year on Aug. 14.

THE PRESTON COUNTRY CLUB WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION, a group of women golfers that is responsible for the beautification of the club house, provides funding for decorating projects at the club, and shares in the planning and implementation of the entire golfing program for the country club's 18-hole course, is busy finalizing preparations for the Tri-State Golf Tournament, set for July 25-28. Members of the women's association committee involved in preparing for the tournament, pictured above, from left to right, front row, are Lydia Main (co-chairman of the Tri-State Tournament), Alyce Basaldella, and Bernice Didio; second row, Louise Johnson, Sylvia "City" Gallina, Helen Spotte, and Eleanor Harvey; third row, Evilee Iden, Shirley Perrill, Hazel Manier, and Shirley Hartley; fourth row, Carolyn Boyle, Laurella Constante, Philena Turner, and Teddy Kurcaba; fifth row, Polly Elliott, Bobbie Sue Burnside, Betty Long, and Jerry Frazier; sixth row, Mary Jo Jenkins, Janice Roth-Snider, Barbara Wilkinson, and Ellie Bartley. Members not present for the photograph were Ann Snyder, Emma Steelman, and Kitty Hill. (See story) (Photo by Jan Cook)

Since its inception, the main purpose of the women's association has been to beautify the club house with decorations, furnishings, carpeting, draperies, and the seasonal decorations. The association also hosts an annual Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament, planned this year on Aug. 14.

"In recent years, Preston Country Club has suffered the ravages of Mother Nature," said PCCWA member Shirley Hartley. "We've had two tornadoes touch down here, were devastated by the flooding in 1985, and just this spring minor flooding and heavy spring rains have caused problems." Following each of these disasters, members of the women's association have jumped in to help repair the damage by helping remove downed limbs, twigs, and brush from the fairways following the tornadoes, and sorting and salvaging furnishings, dishes, mementos, record books and plaques following the 1985 flood.

In order to accomplish these jobs, Hartley noted, the association sponsors many fundraising events including an annual elimination dinner, and selling chances on various items. The ladies also sponsor a Super Bowl party in January as a fundraiser. Within the past year, the group has provided funds to refurbish the dining room and entry foyer in the club house, and funds are currently being sought to replace carpeting throughout the facility.

In addition to major projects at the Preston Country Club, the PCCWA has provided funding for a speaker system that is used for meetings and during the Tri-State Tournament. More recently the association took on the task of refurbishing the comfort facilities on the golf course, and planting shrubbery at that location as well as near the parking lot.

"It's not all work and no play for the ladies of Preston Country Club," Hartley said. "We have a very active golf association that shares in planning and implementing the entire golfing program here. We have a Tuesday evening ladies league, a Wednesday morning ladies league, and weekend golf events and tournaments." In a recent Ladies Inter-Club Team Match, the Preston Country Club ladies placed second. The PCCWA, with cooperation from the club's board of directors, the membership, and "Mother Nature," helps with the success of events like the Tri-State Tournament, Hartley concluded.

Local Student Spends Semester In China, Finds Country Remote Not Only By Miles

JESSICA TEETS

As Jessica Teets soared through the air in a jetliner headed for China last January, she wasn't at all sure what in the world she was doing. Having only just begun to study Chinese at the University of Maryland, she had a limited vocabulary and was not well versed in Chinese tradition or culture. So as the 20-hour flight continued, she worried more and more about her arrival in such a foreign land and wondered how she would get along for five months on her own. As it turned out, this 20-year-old managed quite well.

The daughter of Sharon and Charles Teets, Oakland, Jessica is a graduate of Southern High School. She will be a senior at the University this fall and will finish up her double major in the area of international studies. Having already earned enough credits for a bachelor's degree in international government and politics, she plans to complete a remaining 30 hours to earn a second degree, which will be in Chinese studies. After her long stay in the country, this young woman will probably breeze through the remaining classes with little difficulty.

While she had initially aimed for a degree in French studies, Jessica decided a little over a year ago that Chinese was more intriguing to her and decided to venture off into that area. When she heard of the opportunity to spend one semester in the country, she decided to go for it. One of 16 American students who were selected following a lengthy admissions process, Jessica was the only Marylander on the trip. Others came from California, Colorado, Connecticut, Washington, and other states. She knew none of them before leaving, but after their mutual quest, these young people will in a way be bound together for the rest of their lives.

She arrived in the country on January 14. A blue-eyed blond, the student found immediately that she was an object of interest to the Chinese people. "Foreigner, foreigner!" they would yell - in Chinese, of course - pointing at her and actually gathering around her to stare.

"I fell asleep on a bus once," Jessica said. "I woke up to find that I had an audience - the people were standing all around me, watching me. It was pretty uncomfortable."

As she walked among the Chinese people, Jessica said she felt sometimes as if she were in a huge spotlight.

"At restaurants, people would pull their chairs up to our table just to sit and look at us," she said. People would stop what they were doing to look at her - and at her fellow students, one of whom was an over-six-foot African American man who took great delight in telling the natives that he was a star basketball player in the States.

"He was signing autographs all over the country," Jessica laughed.

As far as safety is concerned, she said she was not worried about that much.

"If you harm another person in any way, the penalty is death. It's that simple, so the crime rate is low. I never really worried much about that."

Because the culture is so starkly different from that of the United States, Jessica said that describing her experiences and sensations is difficult.

"It's hard to talk about with people here at home. You almost had to be there," she said. To help her assimilate her experiences, she has found that talking with the other 15 fellow travelers is helpful. "We went through it together. It's great to talk about it with them now."

Teets stayed chiefly in Beijing, where she completed a semester of college at the university Shui-Li Shui-Dian Xueyuan. She earned an equivalent of about 20 hours, which will transfer to UM toward her Chinese studies degree. In addition to taking classes, the young traveler also taught English to classes of Chinese youngsters. This was one of many new experiences for her, and while she found it to be a difficult task, she also found it rewarding.

Learning the Chinese language was a challenge at first, Jessica said, but through necessity she grasped the ability in a matter of weeks. She explained that the language has no verb conjugation, nor is there a difference in tense. Intonation, however, is crucial to understanding.

"The word 'ma' can mean horse, mother, or eight," Jessica said. "You have to be so careful about inflection - you could be talking about a horse and the person you're speaking to thinks you are talking about his mother."

China is a developing country. There are few televisions, crude plumbing, no washers, and no computers. Abacuses are used for figuring.

"I learned about abacuses in about the third grade and hadn't really seen one since then. So they would figure out something on the abacus and say, 'See?' I really didn't see," she said. There are also few people who own cameras, so the foreigners drew even more attention as their flashes went off here and there. She learned to hand-wash her clothes, although the natives made fun of her for how little time she spent scrubbing.

Concerning the Chinese perception of Americans, Jessica said they think "we're all fat and we're all rude, uneducated, and very wealthy." The perception isn't all disapproving, though, as she said the country is split about half and half in positive and negative feelings toward the United States.

"They absolutely love Michael Jackson and Michael Jordan," she noted.

The students' names were changed when they came into the university because the Chinese believe that one's name should mean something. Jessica was called "Na," which in essence means "pretty girl." As she became acclimated to her new life, she was befriended by a family whose residence was near the dormitory. She assumed the role of a big sister to the family's 12-year-old son and was taken in by the parents as another daughter. This helped the young Garrett Countian through her few phases of homesickness, and provided her with a home-like atmosphere: She took the young boy, whom she described as funny and very sweet, along with her on many an excursion. His cheerful face smiles in numerous photographs Jessica took throughout her stay.

While the majority of the student's time was spent in the city of Beijing, she also traveled extensively; first during a month-long break from school during the country's New Year celebration in February, and GIVING ALL THE APPEARANCES OF PEACE AND HARMONY is TianAnMen Square, a gathering place in Beijing where citizens relax, fly kites, and visit. Little mention is made in China of the events at this place in 1989, where, according to reports in the United States, hundreds were imprisoned or killed for their attempt to stand up to the ruling government. Teets was told by her Chinese acquaintances that no one was hurt in that event. She described the place as beautiful and pleasant, but also noted that the light poles all support surveillance cameras placed by the government, with officials monitoring every activity on the square.

"STAY IN THE CENTER, PLEASE" is what these flags mean along the crumbling edges of The Great Wall of China, where Jessica climbed with several friends. The venture was risky, as the wall is dangerously high and obviously in a state of disrepair. It is, of course, centuries old, having been completed in the third century B.C. The 2,000-mile long wall was built as a defense for China against the nomads of the regions now known as Mongolia and Manchuria. It is located in the northern part of the country. Another historic place visited by the local woman was The Forbidden City. This is an expansive, walled section of Beijing, built in the 15th century and containing the imperial palace and other buildings of the Chinese Empire. (This was the filming location for the movie The Last Emperor.)

AN AREA THAT NO LONGER EXISTS - No one will ever see this sight again. It is one of the Three Gorges along the Yangtze River, on which Jessica traveled by boat just months before the government flooded the entire area. The flooding was for the purpose of completing the construction of a new hydroelectric plant. People lived in homes along the shore - some houses are pictured here against the side of the mountain. The government gave them a month to get out, and disregarded a religious sect's request to preserve gravesites located in the mountainside.

again when school was out in May. She traversed the country by van, train, boat, bicycle, and on foot. Historical sights were of course on her itinerary, but scenes of desperate poverty and evidence of an invasive and controlling government were also witnessed by Teets.

She visited the now known TianAnMen Square, which means, rather ironically, Heaven Peace Gate.

"It's really beautiful. People gather there to fly kites or play games or stroll with children. You would never know what happened there in 1989," she said. The student revolt in that year, according to reports in the United States, caused the deaths of hundreds of young people and the imprisonment of numerous outspoken individuals. The story in China is different.

"I was told that no one was hurt," Jessica said, shrugging her shoulders. Despite the appealing appearance of the area, the student noticed that on each street light pole were a number of video cameras that were activated constantly.

"The government knows everything that you do - they watch you all the time," she said. In fact, on the morning of Chinese New Year, the American students joined other classmates, at the Square to watch the sunrise, which is a traditional event.

THE EMPEROR'S AUTHORITY - In ancient times, the Emperor was the only individual allowed to have a lion depicted near his home. The lion is symbolic of the Emperor himself, and the small sphere under its right paw is symbolic of the Earth. This photo was taken by Jessica at the summer palace in Beijing.

"It was a stupid thing to do, though, because we went there at about 2:30 a.m. and sat down to watch. Before we knew it, there were rows and rows of guards with their arms linked standing in front of us. They made us sit there for three hours without getting up at all. One guy kept starting to get up - I think he just had to go to the bathroom - but we were afraid he was going to be shot. It was pretty scary."

Teets said she refrained from telling her parents these sorts of stories until she got home.

She walked along the Great Wall of China, and with friends climbed up a place along it that is in disrepair and is treacherous. When she had reached the summit, the view was spectacular.

"I was on the top of the world," she said.

She explained that male-female relationships in China are quite different from in the United States. There is not much fraternization between the sexes outside of marriage. In social situations, the men and women remain separate, carrying on relationships with one another but not mixing.

"If I, as a woman, entered into a conversation with a group of men, they would probably let me speak, but whatever I said would just be disregarded and they would go back to their own conversation," she said. Women in the country are not given much consideration in the professional arena.

"I did not see a single female executive," Jessica said. She explained that women who do work are mostly employed at factories and the like. The men rule the business world in China. There was an exception to this, however, at a special village Teets visited in the south.

"We went into a matriarchal village during our New Year's break. The women run the place completely." She said the women are the home-owners and the rule-makers. A man may enter a woman's home only after dark and only until sun-up. When a woman is looking for a husband, she allows a selected man into her home and the two attempt to conceive a child. If they are successful, the man may be considered as a possible mate for the woman. Even after marriage, a man still may be barred from the home except for at night. Children bear the surname of their mother, not father. While at the village, Teets didn't even see many men - the women were out and about, however.

"The women do all the work in the village. They are the only ones you see out most of the time," she said.

Another historic sight Jessica visited was "Xi'an," or the Place of the Terra Cotta Soldiers. This amazing archeological find was discovered earlier this century when a group of people were digging a well. They came upon a head made of terra cotta, then a body, and then another. Officials were notified and archaeologists began to excavate the area. Thousands of lined-up soldiers were found, some carrying weapons, others with horses. They surround the tomb of the Emperor, and more remain underground, waiting to be uncovered.

Still another excursion Jessica took was a trip down the Yangtze River. She saw sights that no one will ever see again, as the river was flooded this spring for a new power plant. Families lived along the river, but the government simply notified them, giving them 30 days to get out - no compensation, no help. Teets took several pictures along the way of sights that are now far under the waves.

Religion in China is another area of stark difference. Christianity is basically non-existent, and the government allows no missionaries into the country. The people rely on three areas of spiritual guidance:

A TICKET TO THE TERRA COTTA SOLDIERS - Because cameras are scarce in China, the tickets alone to various sights are works of art. This is Jessica's ticket to Xi'an, or the Terra Cotta Soldiers. At this historic area, persons were actually not permitted to take photos, so the ticket offers a good picture of one soldier and his horse in the foreground, and in the background an image of the individual soldiers, which were discovered in the 1930's by well-diggers. There are thousands of soldiers lined up around the tomb of the Emperor, each with a different face - no two are alike. They are centuries old but amazingly intact.

It's More Than A Donation!

Dear Friend,

Ten years ago a visionary group of Garrett Countians, in a strong desire to enhance the cultural and arts life in our area, began what is now known as Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. GLAF works hard to present high quality, affordable family entertainment for everyone including yourself.

I'm asking you to join in our 10th year celebration by attending one of our remaining scheduled performances. We are wonderfully proud of the caliber of our programs which will amaze and delight you. Our presentations include not only local talent but national and international talent as well.

GLAF exists primarily from private donations and volunteer help. Your help is also needed to insure another ten years of enjoyable family entertainment. You could become involved by volunteering your time, talent and or financial support. Not only will you have fun, but GLAF will continue to thrive and enrich our lives. Please take a moment to mark our events on your calendar and contribute what you can using the coupon below.

All of us at GLAF, especially its founders from 10 years ago, thank you for your show of support.

Warmest Regards,

GLAF
Garrett Lakes Arts Festival
10th Anniversary

What does GLAF do?

It encourages the development of local talent. Our annual fund raiser entitled "It's A Jungle Out There" was decorated with students artwork and sculpted jungle animals.This effort was organized with the public school art teachers.

The play "The Voice Of The Prairie", directed by Jane Avery, showcased local talent that inspired comments like "...as good as anything you would see off Broadway.".

In August, Brenda Brosnihan will present, "Movie Magic" and once again feature our local talent at it's best in a dance revue extravaganza.

The "Young Writers' Workshop", funded by the Eugene M. Lang Foundation, offers an opportunity for our youth to develop their creative writing skills. Through this program Garrett County students were invited to read their works at the Library of Congress. What a thrill!

GLAF also brings first rate talent itt, to inspire our community. From Reggae to Jazz to Classical music, all performances are in the intimate setting of GCC's auditorium. Its an affordable and casual way to experience new styles of music without ever leaving the county. We're proud of what we do. Check out the next performance and you will be too!

Third Annual Math Center Hosts 48 Md. Students

The third annual Western Maryland Summer Math Center for Highly-Able Students was conducted recently at Garrett Community College.

Forty-eight gifted and talented seventh, eighth, and ninth graders from throughout Maryland participated in this year's mathematics center, which focused on space science and statistics. Led for the third year by Stu Schultz from the Oakland Science Center in Michigan, the weeklong camp included 63 activity-based sessions, all designed for the first time by Garrett County college and public school science and math teachers who also participated in the program. The program director was Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, director of mathematics at GCC.

Throughout the week, students spent time exploring the internet, interacting with other students via the ITV Distance Learning Classrooms at GCC and Southern High School, learning to do calculations and graphs on the most recent models of graphing calculators, and participating in hands-on projects including building human elipses, bubble planetariums, and balloon bottle rockets. Evening field trips included visits to local bnsinesses and sites, including Phenix Technologies, Swallow Falls State Park, and Frostburg State University to view its planetarium and telescope.

One day was spent traveling to Pittsburgh to visit the Carnegie Science Center, and personnel from that facility visited the college to conduct outreach programs titled, "Unisphere," "Make and Take," and "Liftoff."

A special guest during the week was Mary L. Cleave, a retired NASA/-Johnson Space Center astronaut, whose assignments have included flight software verification in the Shuttle Avionics Integration Laboratory (SAIL), Capsule Communicator (CAPCOM) on five shuttle flights, Malfunctions Procedures Book, Crew Equipment Design, and a detail to the Engineering Directorate as a Special Assistant for Advanced Programs in the Crew Systems and Thermal Division. Dr. Cleave has flown two missions and has logged more than 262 hours in space. She was mission specialist on the crew of STS 61-B in 1985, and STS-30 in 1989, which both launched from Kennedy Space Center, Florida. Since 1991, she has been at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, where she works on Earth observations. She is project manager for the Sea-viewing, Wide-Field-of-view-Sensor (SeaWiFS), and ocean color sensor that monitors global marine chlorophyll. SeaWiFS is scheduled to launch this year.

Garrett County teachers involved in the summer math center were lead teachers Wade Grove (mathematics) and Diana Marks (scie; ce), both from Southern High; along with Mary Jane Fike and Jolene Scofield, Southern Middle School; Sarah Schwarm, Northern High; and Bonnie Langan, Northern Middle School; and Tim Foster, Louise Grove, and Janet Thomas, all of GCC. Local student mentors were Barry Stevens, Linda May-Gerard, Melinda McRee, and Sungvien Smith, all GCC students. The program consultant was Dr. Gail Herman.

Among the 48 students attending were Eric Archer, Haley Gillespie, Andrew Sisler, Katie Richter, Joshua Petersheim, and Don Parsons, all of Oakland; Shane Russell, McHenry; and Aaron May, Crellin. Serving as ambassadors (students who assisted teachers during the student activities) from Garrett County were Michelle McCartney and Michael Petersheim, both of Oakland, and Jesse Shimrock, Grantsville.

TALENTED AND GIFTED WEEK PROCLAIMED - Governor Parris Glendening recently issued a proclamation recognizing a week for talented and gifted students throughout the state of Maryland. The proclamation was sent to the recent Western Maryland Summer Math Center for Highly-Able Students at Garrett Community College, and was on display throughout the week. Above, Dr. Nancy Priselac, director of mathematics at GCC and program director for the summer math center, is shown with the proclamation that lets people know the governor endorses funding used for projects like the one now in its third year at GCC.

STATISTICS AND SPACE SCIENCE was primary focus of this year's Western Maryland Summer Math Center held recently at Garrett Community College. Gifted and talented seventh, eighth, and ninth graders from all over the state of Maryland attended the camp, now in its third year, to discover connections between mathematics, science, and technology. Above, Jesse Shimrock, a ninth grader from Northern High School, uses coordinates given to him by his instructor to find a constellation, using a graphic calculator. Below, one of the week's activities included making human elipses on the lawn at the college. Students Bonny O'Neill, Berlin, left, and Christian DeLaurentis, Easton, are shown as they participate in this activity. (See related article.)

DR. MARY LOUISE CLEAVE, P.E., a retired astronaut from the NASA/Johnson Space Center, was a special guest during the Western Maryland Summer Math Center at Garrett Community College. Dr. Cleave has flown two missions and logged more than 262 hours in space, and told the students about her current endeavors involving the study of the rapidly changing surface of the Earth.

Confucius, the philosopher and teacher (about 551-478 B.C.) who is quoted and referred to regularly; Buddhism; and Dao (also known as Tao, which is a philosophy advocating a life of complete simplicity and naturalness and of noninterference with the course of natural events). In her travels, Jessica visited the birthplace of Confucius.

Meals were interesting to the young woman, who is a vegetarian. She reports that here in the United States, "we don't have any real Chinese food." The staples are rice and bamboo, and the entrees are light stir-fried vegetables or meat.

"They kept thinking I was of some sort of strange religion because I don't eat meat," she laughed. She explained that each person has a bowl of rice, and then there are several different stir-fried entrees in the center of the table. Everyone eats from their own rice bowl and samples the entrees.

"It's very light and starch-based. I saw very few fat people in the whole country," she said. She also noted that Chinese food in the United States is Americanized greatly. "In China, there are no egg rolls or spring rolls - and no heavy, fatty entrees."

While the eating habits are healthful, Teets said the tobacco-use habits are awful.

"Everyone smokes everywhere - in trains and cars and restaurants. There is nothing worse than being in a train and you can't get the window open and everyone is smoking. It was terrible." On the rare occasion that she would ask someone to refrain from smoking near her, she was met with mixed reactions.

"Some would very politely stop, and others would look at me like I was crazy and just keep smoking," she said.

June arrived and the young traveler looked forward to going home. After a slight mishap that nearly caused her to miss her flight and expire her visa, she finally boarded the plane and flew back to the States on June 5. Was she happy to get home?

"Very happy. It was great to get back," she said. "I realized how lucky we are here. We have food, we have shelter, we have comfort. And people are nicer here, I think. They smile at you. When people hold doors for me now, I think 'Wow, that's so nice.'"

Perhaps this young messenger was able to give some Chinese folks a better view of the United States - she certainly doesn't fall into the stereotypical "fat, rude, and uneducated" crowd that some Asians apparently perceive the average American to be. The 20-year-old is a bright, kind, and thoughtful woman who in five months grew to appreciate both a foreign land and her own home in a way that most Americans will never understand. With this experience under her belt, surely Jessica Teets is destined for even greater things.

OTC Drug Use In Persons with Heart Disease

We get questions from persons with heart disease regarding the safety of over-the counter (OTC) drugs. Treating self-limiting problems with OTCs is uneventful usually, but problems can result sometimes.

Allergy/Cold Medicines: While the decongestants in most allergy and cold medicines may relieve congestion in the nasal passages, such ingredients may also stimulate the heart. A topical decongestant may be a better choice than oral medicines in persons with heart disease.

Antacids: Some OTC antacids interact with heart disease medicines. Interactions may occur because antacids "tie up" the other drug, making it less available. If both medicines are needed, spacing the times they are taken often eliminates the problem. Generally, heart patients are encouraged to purchase "low-sodium antacids."

Pain Medicines: Aspirin often is prescribed in small daily doses to "thin the blood." When aspirin is used as a blood thinner, exercise care in choosing pain medicines. Acetaminophen or ibuprofen may be better choices than aspirin.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, Bureau of Mines intends to submit an application to the U.S. Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining for funding of abandoned coal mine reclamation projects. The funding will be in accordance with Title IV, Section 405 of Public Law 95-87, Surface Mining Control Reclamation Act of 1977.

Qualification for Federal funding under Title IV is contingent on an approved State Surface Mining Regulatory Program and a State Abandoned Mine Lands Reclamation Plan. Maryland has received Office of Surface Mining approval of both programs. Project funding will originate from the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund, administered by the Office of Surface Mining.

It is the goal of the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program to promote the reclamation of abandoned coal mine areas in Maryland that have been left in an inadequately reclaimed condition and endanger the safety of the public, degrade the quality of the environment, and/or diminish the beneficial use of land and water resources.

Comments are solicited on the relative priority of the projects described below and/or other abandoned mine problems in the Maryland coal region. The Bureau of Mines requests information from the public concerning abandoned mine problems that pose a potential threat to the public health and safety or severely degrades the environment.

A public meeting concerning the proposed projects will be held as follows:

Wednesday, July 24, 1996
at 10:00 AM
at the Maryland Bureau of Mines
160 South Water Street, Room 107
Frostburg, Maryland 21532

Further information concerning the proposed projects can be obtained by contacting Mr. John Ellers, Chief, Abandoned Mine Reclamation Section, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532, (301) 689-8020. Written comments concerning these projects and the Maryland Abandoned Mine Reclamation Program will be received at the public hearing and until Friday, August 2, 1996. Address all comments to the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Attention: Mr. John Ellers.

The proposed project descriptions include the Project Name, County, nearest Town or physical feature, Maryland Abandoned Mine Land Inventory Number, and nature of the problem.

1. MARSH HILL LANDSLIDE STABILIZATION PROJECT: Location: 1/4 mile east of Westernport, Allegany County. Slope instability associated with an abandoned surface mine approximately 3 acres in size poses a threat to public health and safety.
2. MO STATE ROUTE 135 LANDSLIDE STABILIZATION PROJECT: Location 1/4 mile west of Bloomington, Garrett County. Slope instability caused by drainage from an abandoned deep mine poses a threat to public health and safety.

YARD SALE

Garrett County AmeriCorps members will be having a yard/bake sale on August 2, 1996 from 9:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. The event will be held at the Farmers' Market on Route 219 in Oakland, or in case of rain, at the pavilion in the town parking lot. The sale will benefit local service projects. This year our AmeriCorps members built a playground for the Friendsville Head Start and held a forum on family violence. We are asking for your help in providing items to sell. Anyone interested in donating something to the event, please call the AmeriCorps office 334-0516 or 334-0578. 21-2t

Terra Alta Man Arrested After Displaying Gun

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week after he allegedly placed a handgun to his head in the parking lot of Garrett County District Court. Franklin L. Sanner, 22, was taken into custody and charged with reckless endangerment, possession of a handgun, and transporting a handgun, according to a press release from the sheriff's office.

According to the report, Holly Sanner had obtained a restraining order against the defendant in West Virginia and had then come into Oakland, accompanied by her father and sister, to file a similar document in Maryland. The woman was apparently confronted by her estranged husband in the parking lot and, following an exchange of words, Sanner put the handgun to his head. Shortly afterward he apparently surrendered the gun and was arrested.

Sanner remains in jail without bond, according to an office spokesperson.

In other sheriff's office news, four individuals were arrested this week on charges relating to domestic altercations. Details on the arrests were sketchy.

Barbara L. Butler, 35, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested this week and charged with telephone misuse, harassment, burglary, and trespassing against Danita Jenkins, 29, also of Mtn. Lake Park. An arrest was issued for Jenkins's arrest as well, charging her with one count of battery against Butler, according to the report.

Paul H. Tichnell, 26, Kitzmiller, was charged with battery against Todd Whitacre. The altercation allegedly took place on July 26 at 11:30 p.m. on Shalmar Road.

Several charges were filed against Walter R. Eggers, 44, Grantsville. He has been accused of disturbing the peace, intimidating

INTERNATIONAL SOCCER GAMES were held not only in Atlanta at the 1996 Olympics this past week, but also in Garrett County, as a Southern High School practice field was the site of a match between local youth and a group of exchange students from Spain last Friday evening. After trailing 1-0 and 2-1, the Spaniards rallied for two goals in the second half to record a 3-2 victory. Above, U.S. player Kevin Andrews prepares to drill the ball toward the goal. Joel Getty scored the first goal for the Americans and Andrews scored the second one off a feed from Matt Sincell. Santiago Relgada scored twice for Spain before the winning goal was scored by Fatima Arcas, the only female player in the match.

Agency Heads Report To GC Commissioners

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners heard monthly updates from representatives of several county agencies this week, including a rare monthly update from the office of the state's attorney.

Acting Garrett County State's Attorney Lisa Thayer-Welch, who took office last month, informed the commissioners that she is currently working on two projects, the expansion of the community service and victim witness programs. Both of these programs are grant funded, she noted.

Thayer-Welch said that her office is experiencing business as usual, but added that she is working to reduce a backlog of cases.

Wendell Beitzel, director of the Garrett County Sanitary District, informed the commissioners that his Several Mt. Zion and Elk Garden, W.Va., area residents were hospitalized from injuries they received in a two-vehicle accident Friday evening in Ohio.

According to unofficial reports, Pauline Lampke, Elk Garden; Marie Brown, her son, Joey Brown, and Rhonda Kifer and her children, Henry and Lisa Kifer, all of Mt. Marie Brown and Rhonda Kifer were reportedly transported to Geauga Hospital in Chardona, Ohio; and Henry and Lisa Kifer, along with Lampke, were all taken to University Hospital in Cleveland. Mueller's philosphy for the success of Salem homes is to have a complete trust in God, and to do "everything to His honor. Honor God, and He will honor you," he said as he spoke to a room full of Salem supporters. (See story on Page C-12)

EYM Cast Will Present Godspell At Frostburg St.

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry, under the direction of Lynn Broderick, has been invited by the Episcopal congregations of Allegany County to perform its highly successful version of the hit musical Godspell at Frostburg State University. Performances are slated for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 23 and 24, in Pealer Recital Hall at FSU, with curtain time being 8 p.m. Tickets are $3 each.

The EYM cast, comprised of young people from several Oakland area churches, presented the musical to three packed houses in March at St. Peter's Parish Hall in Oakland, and then did a single performance in Fairmont in June before an audience of over 600 people at First United Methodist Church. Several members of the cast sang a rehearsal at FSU recently to evaluate the acoustical challenges of the space.

"It's quite an opportunity to perform at the Pealer, but not without its challenges," Broderick said. "Although the Fairmont church holds 650 people, the de-

Debate Continues Past Midnight At Quarry Hearing

Before unanimously approving a request by a local limestone quarry to expand its operation in Thayerville near Deep Creek Lake, the Deep Creek Lake Board of Zoning Appeals heard hours of testimony in a standing-room-only meeting two weeks ago.

As reported in last week's issue of The Republican, the board approved the special exception to permit the expansion, but not before reviewing letters and hearing testimony opposing the mining project, in which Maryland Minerals would open two new portals at the Thayerville quarry to facilitate further deep mining of limestone.

The board also heard testimony and received a petition in support of Maryland Minerals' request.

At the hearing, which was scheduled after the board's previous approval of the special exception was appealed to Garrett County Circuit Court and returned to the board, Maryland Minerals officials argued that the project would not cause truck traffic from the quarry to be greater than it has been in past years. They also asserted that the project at issue would not be a strip mine, but rather the opening of new entrances to conduct underground mining operations, similar to those currently underway at the sight.

Prior to accepting live testimony, board read a letter from the Garrett County Planning Commission which said, in part, "The commission considered that the alteration to the quarry in terms of relocating entrances to the underground mining area would be consistent with the general goals and objectives of the county development plan, and would be consistent with the terms of the deep creek watershed zoning ordinance.

"The commission was concerned, however, over the abandonment of the existing entrances of the mining operation," the letter continued. "Specifically, the commission felt that all entrances that are currently used should be closed and permanently back-filled to prevent accidental injury and entry for citizens. Therefore, by a unanimous vote, the commission recommended approval of the application with the condition that [all entrances are closed and back-filled.]"

In approving the special exception, the board stipu-

Organization Forms To Help Town Acquire Station

HISTORIC OAKLAND TRAIN STATION

The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) and the town of Oakland have joined forces to form an action team called Save Oakland's Station, or SOS, with the purpose of facilitating the town's acquisition of the historic railroad station. The team will conduct fundraising, apply for grants, and work with CSX, the current owner of the station.

The Oakland station was constructed in 1884 and has been an integral part of the history of Garrett County and the town of Oakland. GOBA, Mayor Asa McCain, and the council have worked for several years to revitalize the downtown area and the acquisition of the station is a critical piece of this project.

"This is the cornerstone of the town and the placement of a visitor center in the station will draw more people to Oakland and the local businesses," McCain said.

Dave Saba, vice president of operations for RehabSolutions, will lead the action team SOS. He is currently seeking volunteers to focus on this project. Inquiries have already been sent to CSX to determine the company's willingness to donate this national treasure to the town.

"Regardless of how the station is acquired, it will require fundraising to renovate it to its former glory," Saba said. "This is a national landmark and should be treated as such. Everyone should consider ways to get involved and work for the historical significance and what it could mean to the town."

The significance of the station was recently demonstrated, Saba said, when it was selected over all stations in the country to appear on the cover of a book - Great American Railroad Stations - by Janet

Fla. Fugitive Arrested By MSP; Remains Jailed

A fugitive from Florida remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail, being held without bail, following his arrest Monday afternoon by Maryland State Police.

Michael Stanley Kerns, 45, Vero Beach, was initially stopped for DWI (driving while intoxicated) as he drove along Rt. 219, according to a spokesperson from Barrack W, McHenry. It was then learned that a warrant for his arrest had been issued from the state of Florida.

Kerns was taken before a district court commissioner following his 2:40 p.m. arrest, and then to jail, where he remains.

CDS ARRESTS

A Fairmont, W.Va., teenager and his juvenile passenger were arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), following a traffic stop Sunday evening on Interstate 68.

Dwight D. White, 18, the driver of the vehicle, was initially stopped for traveling 84 miles per hour in a 65-mph zone, according to the state police. It was soon learned that White was operating a rental car, but was not indicated as an additional driver. The investigating officer stated in his report that he noted an odor of burned marijuana as he talked to White, and asked if there were drugs in the car.

Both White and his 17-year-old passenger indicated to the officer that there were no drugs in the vehicle, and gave their consent to have it searched. The officer reportedly then found a bag of suspected marijuana in the passenger's potato chip bag, a small plastic bag containing more suspected marijuana in the juvenile's wallet, three burned cigarette butts in the ashtray that contained suspected marijuana, and an additional quantity near the spare tire in the trunk. A total of 41 grams of suspected marijuana was seized in the 5:35 p.m. incident, according to the police report.

A second CDS arrest was reported at the McHenry barrack this week. John Kenneth Friend, 39, Oakland, was arrested early Saturday morning on Rt. 219, near the Mayhew Inn Road, and charged with negligent driving, DWI, and the drug charge. A total of 3.2 grams of suspected marijuana was seized in the 2:37 a.m. arrest. He was taken before a district court commissioner and released pending trial.

DWI ARRESTS

Two additional DWI arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Jeffrey Neal Dale, 27, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI on July 19, by Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski.

John M. Dzuba, 37, Monongahela, Pa., was charged with DWI on July 24, by Tfc. G.S. Becker.

GROUND BROKEN FOR LIBRARY EXPANSION - A ground-breaking ceremony was held July 15 for the expansion of the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library. Several officials were on hand for the event, and Emily Ferren, library director, gave remarks. "Libraries provide a place to study, research family history, participate in story hours or summer reading programs, and satisfy natural curiosity - a place to find information, connect with an author, or just plain relax." The current library is 1,600 square feet, and the project, which will be completed by Doerr Construction, will increase the size to 3,600 square feet. The addition is to be dedicated to Mary Miller Strauss and Marjorie Keller Fratz. "These two women in particular loved the Accident branch and worked long, dedicated hours to bring about the expansion of the library," Ferren said. Pictured above in the front row, left to right, are Senator John Hafer, State Librarian J. Maurice Travillian, Diane Thayer, Ms. Ferren, Jane Fox, Madeline Collins, and Helen Harman. In the back row, same order, are Rob Lueba, Tony Doerr, Commissioners John Braskey and Wayne Wilt, and Sull McCartney. Pictured below are the staff members at the Accident Branch. Shown left to right are Evalou Harman, Ruth Miller, Janet Otto (branch manager), and Ferren. In the photo above right are the family members of the late Marjorie Fratz. They too were present for the ceremony. Shown left to right are Stephanie McBride, Michelle McBride, and Helen Keller.

Immunization Month To Be Observed In GC

The Garrett County Health Department and local family physicians are teaming up with local McDonald's restaurants to promote Immunize For Healthy Lives, an immunization education program developed by the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) and the National Association of County and City Health Officials (NACCHO). Special clinics are being scheduled and throughout the month of August, participating McDonald's restaurants will distribute immunization education materials, including trayliners and leaflets, which feature the vaccination schedule recommended by the AAP.

"The program aims to increase immunization rates by educating parents about the need for timely childhood vaccinations and encouraging them to have their children immunized," explained Lois Ford, community health nurse for the health department. "August is the natural back-to-school vaccination time period when most parents take their school-aged children to be immunized before returning to the classroom. Parents should review immunization records of all younger children in their family."

During the August celebration of Immunize For Healthy Lives, the health department will offer walk-in clinics, during which no appointments will be necessary. These events slated for Monday, August 12 and 26, at the GCHD Oakland office from 1-4 p.m. and for Wednesday, August 28, from 1-4 p.m. at the health department office in the Grantsville Foodland Plaza. These clinics are for school-aged children who need their immunizations updated. All children attending the clinics must be accompanied by a parent. The cost is $7.

"Parents should keep in mind that U.S. statistics show nearly 25% of all American children under age two go unprotected against life-threatening, yet preventable, childhood diseases such as the measles, meningitis, and whooping cough," stated Ford. "This program is being offered locally to help, in part, with the children under-immunized in our area."

Accident Man Arrested By OPD On Several Charges

An Accident man is free on his own recognizance after being arrested by Oakland City Police on Friday for resisting arrest, malicious destruction of property, and on the strength of a bench warrant issued earlier.

Jeffrey M. Priapi, 23, was arrested by Officer Chris Feller, who was on patrol in downtown Oakland, when he reportedly observed Priapi's vehicle pass by. The officer realized a warrant had been issued for Priapi's arrest, and initiated a traffic stop. According to Feller, when he informed the suspect about the warrant, he became argumentive. With assistance from a sheriff's deputy and state police trooper, Priapi was handcuffed and placed into a police cruiser, where he continued to be disruptive, according to the report. Before the officer reached the Garrett County Jail, Priapi had kicked the inside of the vehicle, cracking the door panel.

Feller noted that when he served Priapi with the arresting document, he tore it in two and threw it in the garbage can. He then continued his abusive behavior during the fingerprinting and, according to the report, as he was taken before the district court commissioner.

The total estimated damage to the patrol car is $446.90, according to the police report.

Vehicle Fire Causes Damage To Building

A warehouse owned by S&H Marina at Deep Creek Lake sustained damage early Wednesday when a vehicle accidently caught fire and the flames spread to the structure.

Edward Gibbs, Wickliffe, Ohio, was reportedly returning to his rental property along Marsh Hill Road when his vehicle became disabled and fire broke out in the engine compartment. He exited the vehicle uninjured and summoned help from a resident. Flames from the burning 1992 Pontiac then spread to the S&H warehouse, owned by James Trydahl.

Volunteer fire fighters from Deep Creek and Accident VFDs were summoned to the scene at 1:20 a.m. and quickly brought the fire under control. Damage to the building was estimated at $6,500, while the vehicle sustained approximately $1,000 in damages.

Also responding to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad. The incident was investigated by the Maryland State Police and the state fire marshal's office.

German Pianist Metzenthin To Be At Penn Alps

Classical music by German pianist Brigitte Metzenthin opens the performances for the month of August for Music at Penn Alps, with a concert slated for Saturday, Aug. 3, in the Great Hall in Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Ms. Metzenthin studied at the Musik Konservatorium in Berlin and later at the Hoschschule der Kunste Berlin. The winner of numerous piano competitions, she has recorded for radio and television and has performed in concert settings throughout Germany, Italy, France, and Switzerland. Most recently she has been involved in contemporary piano music, working with several composers and premiering new works.

For her performance at Penn Alps she has selected more traditional repertoire, including Beethoven's Sonata No. 5, op. 31; Preludes by Claude Debussy, and Sinfonische Etuden, op. 13, by Robert Schumann.

Other events planned this month at Penn Alps are performances by the Western Maryland Symphony String Quartet on August 10, and Jassou Jones, Mississippi riverboat ragtime entertainer on Aug. 17.

Individual tickets are $8 for adults, $4 for students over 13, and children 12 and younger are admitted free. Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Spruce Forest Artisan Village and Penn Alps, with additional support from the Maryland and Garrett County arts councils.

DNR Advises Renters On Bear Concerns

In response to nuisance bear complaints, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Wildlife and Heritage Division, has drafted a one-page notice to occupants of local rental units asking for the public's help in minimizing problems with black bears rummaging in trash.

The leaflet was distributed to local rental agencies.

"Probably no other wildlife species can better reflect the true feeling of 'wilderness' than the black bear," the announcement states. "Encounters with bears are remembered and retold for years to come. It is refreshing to discover that a native wildlife species has returned when most current news about wildlife concerns habitat losses and associated population declines. The sight of a bear is proof that Maryland has extensive forest habitat for this wide ranging animal.

"Black bear populations have been increasing around Deep Creek Lake for several years," the notice continues. "The surrounding forests provide excellent habitat for bears, and residents of Garrett County frequently see bears.

"Black bears can become a nuisance when they become accustomed to being around people. A bear will take advantage of any foods available and will attempt to eat anything that resembles food in looks, smell, or taste. When natural foods such as nuts, meat, berries, insects, and tender vegetation are scarce, bears search actively for anything to eat. This is when most bears come in contact with people.

"When bears find a food source, they will usually return to that source regularly. Most bears are wary of people and will usually leave an area when encountered by people. Although seeing a bear can be a memorable experience, some people are frightened when they encounter these animals.

"Even though some bears become used to people, they are still wild animals no matter how 'tame' they appear to be. People must always be cautious around bears since they may react unpredictably," the announcement warns.

The DNR notice also lists the following eight suggestions aimed to "minimize bear/trash conflicts":

- Never feed bears. They will associate people with food and become a problem.
- Reduce garbage odors. Rinse food cans and wrappers before disposal.
- Keep meat scraps in the freezer until garbage day.
- Wash garbage cans regularly and use lime dust to cut odors.
- Keep garbage cans in a bear-proof container or in an enclosed building until morning trash pick up.
- Keep pet food inside.
- Keep barbecue grills and picnic tables clean.
- Whenever possible, place trash in a dumpster and not on the ground.

"THE SUN WILL COME OUT TOMORROW" and the stage will come alive - not quite tomorrow, but in a week - as over 90 local dancers and singers, all under the direction of Brenda Brosnihan, will present Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's "Movie Magic." The show is slated for August 9, 10, and 11 on the stage at Garrett Community College. "Dance," Brosnihan said, "is an experience that comes from the heart." The local dance and fitness educator has an extensive and distinguished background as a performer as well as choreographer, and said she was honored to receive an invitation from GLAF to direct a dance revue. She chose to present musical numbers from numerous popular films and full-length cartoons. Pictured above are several of the local children included in a performance of Annie tunes. The lead will be played by Gina Powell, and the role of Miss Hadigan will be portrayed by Linda Sharpless. The other performers are Erin Oxford, Leslie Gaither, Erica Pratt, Amanda Frantz, Morgan Brosnihan, Kasey Bell, Audrey Shipe, Kristen Oxford, Lacee Tressler, Jessica Croaco, Megan Burner, Melissa Patterson, Falon Stutzman, Rachel Sincell, Kelly Taylor, Courtney DiSimone, Amanda Bell, Malia Collins, Hannah Canfield, Sheila Nolan, Alison Richter, and Katie Richter. Pictured in the separate photo is former Miss Maryland Kimberly Grimm Weimer, who will be a featured soloist in the program. Included in her several selections will be music from Grease and Fame. Other performers will include the Aerobic Diehards, members of The Garrett Girls, and a special troupe of local women, all coming together to perform what Brosnihan calls "a 90-minute action-packed show that's sure to entertain the whole family." Tickets ($7 adult, $4 for 18 and younger) are available at the following pharmacies: Englander's, Gregg's, Beachy's, and Deep Creek. For more information, peraons may contact the GLAF office at 387-3082.

Seventh Rabies Case Confirmed

Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department announced the seventh confirmed case of rabies in the county for this year. A raccoon submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene laboratories was confirmed positive for the disease on July 26.

The animal was apparently found in a dog pen at a residence along Garrett Road. The property owner shot and killed the raccoon. Two dogs in the pen had current vaccinations against rabies and therefore will be given a booster and will be monitored for 90 days.

Environmental Health Services will hold a series of low-cost rabies vaccination clinics in September. Dates and times are to be released in mid-August. For more information, persons may call 334-8980, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Vandals Suspected Of Destroying Bulldozer Engine

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is currently investigating an apparent act of vandalism that has caused $25,000 in damages. Rick Rush of Rush Excavating contacted the sheriff's office earlier this month after a bulldozer owned by the company locked up.

According to the report, the equipment was parked at the lot from July 3 to 8. An employee started it on July 9, and apparently pressure increased in the engine, blowing the fuel pump driver cover and oil filter cap off. Upon inspection, a great amount of sand was found in the oil filter. Officials suspect that the sand was deliberately put in the engine.

The sheriff's office is also investigating an apparent breaking and entering on Broadwater Cemetery Road in Swanton. A summer home along that road owned by Wilson and Marilyn Hayden, Berwyn Heights, was broken into sometime between June 6 and July 17.

According to the report, the family entered the house on the 17th to find that someone had burned a candle down on the coffee table. They also discovered that the telephone had been used. The bill showed a total of $217.60 in calls made while the house was supposed to be unoccupied.

Persons with information about either of these crimes are urged to contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

McCLIVE'S LAKEFRONT DINING

Special pancakes for breakfast: once you've poured the batter into the pan, make a design or write a name on the uncooked side with maple syrup. It'll show up darker when it's cooked.

Summer berries taste even better next winter. Freeze them in a single layer on a baking sheet until hard. Pour into freezer bags, seal and store in the freezer.

Marinate swordfish steaks about an hour in a mixture of one part each honey and soy sauce and two parts orange juice, plus garlic powder and ginger. Grill about 4 minutes per side.

Great flavor with corn: spicy red pepper puree spread on the ears. Wrap them in foil, then grill over a fire or in a hot oven.

Spectacular dessert with no fat? You bet! Meringue nests cradle delicious fruit (with liquor or frozen yogurt added at serving time if you like.) Beat with 4 egg whites and ½ cup sugar until stiff, spoon into nest shape. Bake 2½ hours at 225. Dry in turned-off oven another hour.

Our Unorthodox Policy...

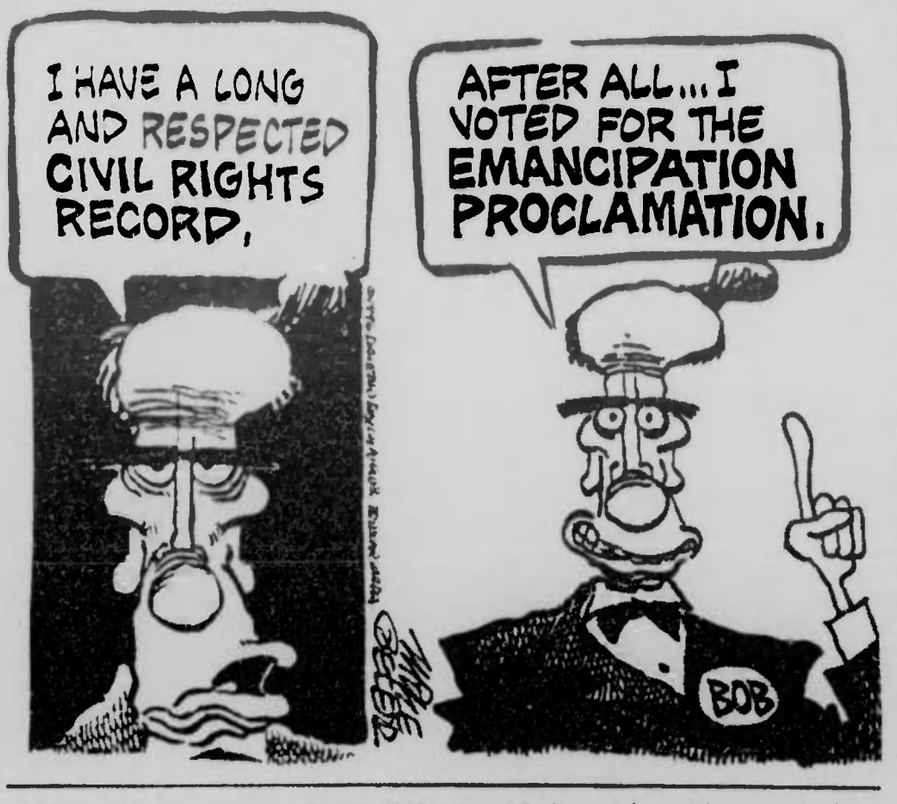
There are many insecure people in the world whose lives seem so insignificant to them that they will do almost anything to get some attention. This includes making bomb threats, an activity that has been quite popular in recent days because of the apparent bombing of a TWA jet and Saturday's bombing at the Olympic games in Atlanta. There have been literally hundreds of bomb threats in cities around the country, with most of them being nothing more than just threats. However, they are nonetheless disruptive, dangerous, expensive, and illegal.

Unfortunately, our colleagues in the media are simply making the situation worse by doing, what they believe, is their job. Attention is what these callers want, and a host of over-zealous reporters are obliging them.

We have a rather unorthodox policy when it comes to providing newspaper coverage about bomb threats: we simply don't do it. On several occasions, for example, there have been bomb threats telephoned into Southern High School. The school is evacuated, a search is made, nothing is found, and students and staff return to their classrooms. We don't report it in our newspaper. Is this news? A case could be made that, yes, it is, and it should be reported. However, we elect not to since this kind of attention is precisely what the caller wants, and providing such attention so often spawns yet more calls. The news value is not worth the possible consequences of reporting it.

An exception would be made by us if there were a serious incident that occurred as a result of the threat, such as a stampede by students that resulted in injuries, or a vehicular mishap involving a fire engine called to respond to the scene (God forbid in both cases). The added seriousness of the event would then "force" us to respond with coverage.

We take seriously our responsibility to report the news, but we refuse to report, and thus promote, the actions of these particular thoughtless jerks; for doing so could ultimately result in bringing harm to innocent people. We wish that those in the television media would take a similar stand, for we believe it would certainly help curtail the fabrication of such threats.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thank you to each and every person involved in this year's Gold Tournament held on July 19, 1996. The American Trust Bank and The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library have dedicated their time and talents to make the tournament an outstanding event. We greatly appreciate your efforts.

All funds raised go directly into children's books for all five branches throughout the public library system in Garrett County - treasures that will be enjoyed again and again.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Emily Ferren

To the Editor:

We are eight of the many employees of the Summer Youth Program. Our job has been working for the State Roads Department. Part of that job has been picking up trash along the state roads. So far, in just over two weeks, we have walked over 87 miles picking up trash from both sides of the highway, filling 33 gallon trash bags. We have already filled 130 bags, with a lot of the trash being cans, mostly name brand beer cans, plus fast food containers and cigarette packs. We came to these same roads to dot other work later and could not help but notice all the trash that was thrown back out onto the sides of the roads. One of our local fast food restaurants has on its bags, "don't litter."

Please, citizens of Garrett County and visitors, have some respect and take care of our county. Don't litter!

To the Editor:

As I finished reading the letter to the Editor last week from Mr. Mellott, my first reaction was anger, then embarrassment and disappointment. It was not for Mr. Mellott, however; it was for you, Mr. Editor.

I was always under the assumption that anyone could write a letter and give their opinion about what is going on in our county without being ridiculed.

Yes, I noticed right away the misspelled words and grammar, but I always thought the articles for the paper were proof-read and corrected. I suppose, though, you were trying to make a point at the expense of Mr. Mellott.

Unfortunately, not all of our citizens were able to finish their education. They had to help their families on the farm, in the fields, or some other reason. That does not give us the right to look down on them, however.

I have always enjoyed the letters and some of your comments at the end; until now.

A disappointed reader,
Lynn Shaffer

To the Editor:

The attempt of the honorable (?) Chamber of Commerce to circumvent the laws/rules required by the Commissioners to accept the lowest bid is deceitful, dishonest, and if adopted, probably illegal. The Chamber of Commerce is composed largely of Oakland business men and it appalls me that some of them would cooperate with the instigators of such deceit or concede their inability to compete with out of county bidders. To give a 2 to 5% edge to county contractors to make them "appear lower" when in fact they would be 2 to 5% higher displays arrogancy and greed at its ultimate. For any politician to give assistance to the theft of county taxes in order to appease a minority will be met with strong resistance at election time. To say that other counties do the same is like saying Satan and his devils do it and we should do the same.

It is little wonder that a large number of people buy out of their county. I hope Mr. John Hinebaugh checks on this. The county needs more peoples advocates like him.

To the Editor:

As a former resident of Garrett County, I would like to make some remarks of the changes I have seen in the county government and the overall situation. I am not giving out my age, but I remember the last years of the Woodrow Wilson administration. He was years in advance of the times.

One change was the League of Nations which failed for lack of support of other nations. The United Nations would fail if the U.S.A. did not pay at least 60-75% of the administrative costs.

So, now to the county - news: while I lived in the county we elected a Democrat sheriff who had one deputy and a couple of constables. There was one state police officer; a number one man who took care of the state highway problems.

The county was not in debt like it is now. They let a contract for machinery for $3 million plus without a competitive bid, which is in violation of state law, so I understand, and they are still in office. How come?

There are more comments to come later - some concerning U.S. government which might curl your hair.

Respectfully,
Wilson White

To the Editor:

I write to thank you, The Republican newspaper staff, and the entire Garrett County community for the support and encouragement extended to the Roman Catholic Community during my military deployment, "Operation Joint Endeavor," in support of the Bosnian peace process.

The military deployment of U.S. forces in support of this peace endeavor is making a profound and positive difference in the war-torn areas of the former Yugoslavia republics. During this deployment I witnessed sadness, but also hopeful anticipation of better times ahead for this part of our world.

The support of our local community to the Catholic population of Garrett County is deeply appreciated. I knew that I could do my job as a military Army chaplain and concentrate on the needs of our soldiers and their families without undue worry of what was happening for the Catholic community back home in Garrett County. The generosity of the Catholic parishioners to share their pastor to the military community for this period of time to support the world peace process is commendable. All of you are to be commended for your patriotic participation in this mission towards world peace.

Yes, even from our small part of the world, our Garrett County citizens have made a difference!

To the Editor:

Last Friday was the sixth anniversary of President Bush's signing of the Americans with Disabilities Act, which requires access to public facilities for the nations disabled people and reasonable accommodation for them at their workplace. It also bars discrimination against disabled people. About 49 million Americans have some form of disability, and 24 million have a disability serious enough to require a wheel-chair, walker, cane, or other aid.

A survey released by the United Cerebral Palsy Association on the anniversary date, reported that 96 percent of a sample of disabled Americans said the Act had made a difference in their lives, 57 percent said it has given disabled people better access to buildings, and 46 percent received more acceptance by their communities. The UCPA surveyed 1330 people in 48 states, and found few other federal laws have had as significant an impact on the feelings of a large portion of the U.S. population.

Michael Moore, of the UCPA, noted, "There is slower progress for people with disabilities in accessing employment opportunities." However, more disabled people are encouraged to seek them out.

Defining what constitutes "accessibility" in recreation areas is still two years away from development by the U.S. Access Board. The charge in the legislation is balancing the right of equal access with environmental concerns. Michael D. Schmitz, 27, a peer counselor for the Endependenee Center of Northern Virginia, who broke his neck eight years ago on his way home from work, said, "Even someone with very little finger movement can fish. They've got hook setters that will automatically set the hook." Standard picnic tables can be made a foot longer on one end, or have cut-out sections making it easier for someone in a wheelchair to join the table.

To the Editor:

One of my great concerns has been the rapid disappearance of the family farm. While farmers have been brain-washed into believing that only "bigger is better', they are now finding it very difficult to make ends meet on the farm economy market plan where they sell at wholesale, buy at retail--and that gets even more expensive.

I have been concerned for I feel that people won't wake to the fact that food grows, comes from the land, until it is too late. Now I find that others feel we may be approaching that period of high food prices and actual lack of plenty very soon.

I'd like to quote from an editorial in the July 20, 1996 issue of Lancaster Farming:"----consumers are being told that it is because the raw milk prices to dairy farmers have escalated dramatically. First of all, this supposed raw milk price increase has not hit the farmer's pockets yet. They are being told they will likely see increases in their milk check starting in August". And when did your cost of milk and butter increase at the store????

Again: "The cost to eat in America will increase and so will the percentage of disposable income spent on food. But if we are going to have anything to eat, the food distribution industry must find a way to pass back to the farmer a sizeable part of the food price increase or we will lose the farmers in bankruptcy and have no food supply at all. We may be seeing the first signs of this already."

Remember, the farmer needs to make a living too and when his price increases, it is by the hundred or the ton, not at the rate the stores increase the cost to you. If you wish to continue eating, someone needs wake up.

To the Editor:

My wife and I moved here to Terra Alta from Point Marion, Pa., three years ago. We were forced from our home by the Corps of Engineers due to the dam they built on the Monongahela River and we were told it would flood our home; and now, three years later we are being forced to live in a flood, in our back yard, caused by the heavy rains and the Town of Terra Alta's drainage system. In this case, we were not warned or offered money for the destruction of our back yard or our house. The drainage waters are causing damage to the foundation of our home.

We have two neighbors, the Dunsons and the Uppermans. Their homes and yards are being hurt as well from these drainage waters from the storms.

I have filed a compiaint to one of the town council members and nothing came from it. Then I complained to the town hall secretary and nothing came from that. Finally, I complained to the mayor of Terra Alta himself and nothing came from him either.

Here is the scenario of what the town's drainage runoff is doing to our back yard as well as our house. You, the readers, decide if we have a legitimate reason to complain and what you would do if you were in our shoes.

First, three years ago when we saw our first heavy rain here in Terra Alta, my wife and I noticed geysers on the Dunsons' property where the waters formed a small lake and, after the water receded, it was pointed out that there was a hole about a foot wide left in their yard. We then started noticing in our back yard we were getting small geysers, but we thought it was normal because of the heavy rains. Last year, we noticed the heavy rains were creating more geysers in our back yard and then a hole was getting bigger because of the tremendous force of the water shooting up from the ground. These geysers rise about two feet high and last about 30 to 45 minutes after the rain stops. Now, this year we have a big hole and the few heavy rains we have had left big swelling humps in our back yard as well as pin-hole size leaks in our basement. We also have undermining of our property because of the drainage. The size of the hole is big enough for a small child to get hurt in and big enough for an adult to break a leg or foot in.

The mayor thinks that two standing vehicles we have are destroying the value of our property instead of the running waters from the town's drainage system. Would anyone in his right mind continue to let the drainage system keep on destroying their property, or would you file a lawsuit to have something done about the irresponsibility of the town's neglect to do something about this property destruction?

Gary and Patty Mitchell
Terra Alta, W.Va.

Plain Living

In a place called Sugarcreek, Ohio, there is a community the name of which is as whimsical and bidding as their postal address: the Center for Plain Living. The founder and leader of this group is a chap named Scott Savage, his commitment a contradiction of his name.

Scott Savage, his families, and others have bound themselves together in decision to live a plain lifestyle. They themselves chose the Quaker context for their plain living. Their organization is becoming an umbrella for plain livers of other Christian groups as well as a focal point for people who are interested in the viewpoint but who have not committed themselves to it. Their magazine has a name as simple as its purpose, "Plain" (subscription: $18 to 4284 TR 420, Sugar Creek, OH 44681). I can explain in a word what this plain living is by making reference to something most of us know. The idea of plain living would be consistent with the strict adherence to Amish principles.

One point that Savage makes is that once upon a time Quakers were just as plain as Amish in their living, but the Quakers gave it up. An Amish writer, David Kline, has added another observation that many Amish are in danger of losing their plain-ness today.

People committed to the plain way of life have gathered together in order to hold up a banner for the world to see. That banner contains both a prophecy against something and for something.

When someone uses the term "Luddite" today it is always used negatively, an epithet to designate someone who is mindlessly anti-progress. In 1779, the Encycolpaedia Britannica tells us, "a person of weak intellect" in England named Ned Ludd was harassed by some boys. He chased them, and when they ran into a small factory he accidentally damaged the looms instead of the boys. Therefore, we are told, whenever some damage was done to the modern equipment of the day, it was said, "Ludd did it." The author of the article obviously felt nothing more kindly toward Ludd or those who took his name than condescension.

Riots broke out in France and England in the early 19th century due to unemployment. The workers felt the new machines were the cause of their woes, and therefore sought to destroy the machines. They marched under the guidance of "General Ludd," not actually a person anymore rather an idea.

There was evidently a Luddite Congress, but before the second Congress could meet, soldiers were sent to break up the movement, which they did. Scott Savage and company believe the mistake of the Luddites was resorting to violent means. They have taken up the cause of Luddism, and have recently held the Second Luddite Congress.

Calling for "A Revolution of Hearts" these renewed Luddites seek to find ways " ..to peacefully confront and replace the alienating, anti-life face of modernity." Their manifesto goes on, "There must be a worldwide change of heart, a leaderless revolution of passive resistance to consumerism and the increasingly bizarre and frightening technologies of the Computer Age."

Their caution is essential. Many technologies are potential Trojan horses which bear tragic defeat within them. Even when a technology is neutral-- and I am not convinced it ever is-- we must reckon the potential damage that could be done with it in the wrong hands.

The other side of the coin is that, in the end, we all choose a technology which was at one time modern. It is important to establish criteria by which to measure technology, and not merely to reject it out of hand, but there are few of us living so simply that we could not find some way to live a little more plainly.

House Passes Jennings Randolph Lake Compact; Sarbanes, Bartlett Pleased

After being twice approved by the U.S. Senate, the U.S. House of Representatives this week passed legislation to enable Maryland and West Virginia to enter into a joint agreement for the management of Jennings Randolph Lake, located on Garrett County's southern border with West Virginia.

The measure, which now awaits the President's signature, had been backed by U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes and District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, as well as by U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski and W.Va. Congressman Alan Mollohan.

"This legislation will enable maryland and West Virginia to jointly enforce natural resources boating laws and regulations by providing them with concurrent jurisdiction over the project area," Sarbanes stated. "As recreational uses of the lake continue to increase, enforcement problems will become more difficult as well. The approval of this compact legislation, by both the Senate and now the House, will allow both the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police and their West Virginia counterparts to patrol the entire lake and enable them to go into each other's territory to ensure boater safety, protection for the visiting public, and [protection of] the area's natural resources."

The Maryland-West Virginia border runs through the center of the lake, thus confusing matters of jurisdiction for natural resources officials from both states. The interstate compact is intended to empower Maryland and West Virginia officials to enforcing boating, fishing, and other regulations on "both sides" of the lake.

"The compact is a win-win step for citizens in Maryland and West Virginia and the environment," stated Bartlett. "A single unified plan can now be implemented by Maryland and West Virginia to manage Jennings Randolph Lake to serve the goals of maintaining this beautiful water supply, providing recreational opportunities, and conserving this beautiful lake's fish and surrounding wildlife and plants.

"A cooperative effort by the Army Corps of Engineers, state government officials in Maryland and West Virginia, and the bipartisan Congressional delegations of Maryland and West Virginia is responsible for the approval of this compact," said Bartlett. "We worked as a team to make the compact a reality.

"The constitution requires congressional approval of any agreement between states," explained Bartlett. "That's why this action by Congress and the President is necessary."

According to statistics provided by Sarbanes' office, the lake, which is located on the North Branch of the Potomac River, experienced a 24% increase in visitation and a 42% increase in boating use in 1995. At a length of approximately 6.6 miles, it is one of the largest lakes east of the Mississippi River.

The lake was created in 1982 with the construction of a dam intended to enhance the water quality of the Potomac, reduce flood damage, improve the water supply, and increase opportunities for recreation.

The creation of the lake removed the natural boundary between the Free State and the Mountain State, and the meandering nature of the former river and the depth of the lake have made it impossible to re-establish the precise location of the boundary, a Sarbanes spokesperson explained.

The lake compact legislation was introduced by Sarbanes and Mikulski, and U.S. Senators Robert Byrd and Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia.

Teenager Hurt In PWC Crash On Deep Creek

Four teenage girls from Rockville and Washington, D.C., were involved in an accident on Deep Creek Lake Saturday evening, according to a report from the Public Communications Office from the Department of Natural Resources. Natural Resources Police Officer Jim Clise responded to the accident, which occurred near Stump Point at about 5:30 p.m.

Two girls, aged 16 and 17, were operating personal watercraft, each with one passenger, too closely when the vehicles collided and the four girls were thrown into the water. The 16-year-old was reportedly suffering from asthma and a back injury. She was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Clise issued each driver a citations for operating a PWC within 100 feet of another vessel and negligent vessel operation.

Godspell

sign of the building is acoustically brilliant, and even the smallest voice can be heard clearly in the balcony," stated Broderick, who said that she and FSU theatre staff are exploring sound reinforcement possibilities that will maintain the integrity of the speaking and singing while enabling the audience to hear easily in the 450-seat auditorium.

This will definitely be the final two performances of Godspell, according to Broderick. "It is time to put this musical to bed," she said. "We began auditions in mid-January, rehearsed in February and March, performed in late March, rehearsed in May, performed in June, and sang intermittently at area churches and professional functions in between. It might be the longest production I've ever been involved in!"

The cast includes nearly 30 young people from ages 12 to 17.

The production of the musical spawned four new EYM music ministry groups: the vocal ensemble, the percussion ensemble, the recorder ensemble, and the guitar ensemble. These groups are developing new repertoire and choreography for performances at Garrett Community College, the Gettysburg Seminary in Gettysburg, Pa., and at Frostburg State University. In addition, the ministry performs monthly at the four sponsoring churches: St. Mark's Lutheran, St. John's/St. Matthew's Episcopal, St. Peter's Catholic, and St. Paul's United Methodist.

Mrs. Broderick invites all area youth, whether or not they are members of the sponsoring churches, to join one or more of the EYM musical ensembles. They may call 334-6300 for more information.

Legal Aid Bureau Announces August Outreach Schedule

Staff members of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc., will be available to discuss legal problems with persons during the month of August 1996 in Oakland on August 6 and August 20 at the Community Action Center, 104 East Center Street.

The Legal Aid Bureau representative will be available from 10 a.m until noon on those dates.

The Bureau provides legal assistance in civil matters to eligible persons. Services are available at no cost to those whose income and property holdings are below certain federally-mandated levels.

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bureau is located at 110 Greene Street in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for the Outreach location or for an appointment at the Cumberland office, according to Bureau officials.

Omission Noted

Last week's issue of The Republican contained an article about a Western Maryland Math Center, conducted recently at Garrett Community College, that included the names of those from Garrett County who participated in the week-long camp. The names of three college-level student mentors, Katie Robinette, Beverley Heckler, and Mike Nedrow, were inadvertently omitted from that list. All three attend Frostburg State University, but are residents of the county, and were among those who assisted with the third annual math center.

Oaks Win Pen-Mar Regular Season, To Vie For Championship

For the first time in the history of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, the Oakland Oaks finished as the regular season champions and will receive a first-round bye in the league playoffs that get underway this Saturday. The Oaks have won the league playoffs three times, including last season, but have never finished atop the standings at the end of the regular season.

Three victories over Morgantown this past weekend gave the Oaks their final record of 22-5. The first was a nine-inning, 14-7 win on Saturday in Morgantown, and the next two were both ends of a doubleheader on Sunday at Garrett Community College, 11-0 and 14-3.

Jeremy Fitzwater, a former standout at Southern High School, and Aaron Taylor led the Oakland offense on Saturday as each finished with four hits in five at-bats. Fitzwater hammered a home run, a double, and two singles for five RBI, while Taylor hit a double and three singles in the Oaks' 13-hit effort. Manager-player Terry Helbig, the senior member of the Oakland team, recorded a pair of singles.

Earning the win on the mound was Mark Elliott, who allowed five earned runs over six and one-third innings. Fitzwater got the save as he struck out five and allowed no runs over the final two and two-thirds frames.

Stroking a pair of singles for Morgantown was Anthony Perris.

Fitzwater added two more home runs on Sunday, one in each game of the doubleheader, and also had two singles in the first contest. Josh Woods added three singles and Elliott had two in the first game, as Mark Keaner earned the win on the mound with a four-hitter.

In the second game, besides a home run by Fitzwater, Bobby Fritz provided a double and a single for the Oaks, while Elliott and Mike McCrobie each doubled. Casey Stanton went the distance for the win and allowed only three hits.

Steve Hott had a double for Morgantown (8-19), as the visitors were out-hit on the afternoon by a 25-3 margin.

Also receiving a bye going into this weekend's playoffs is Romney, second in the standings. The tournament will be played at Hyndman and at GCC in McHenry, with the top six finishers in the regular season qualifying; however, Bridgeport, which finished third, will be unable to participate this weekend and has been replaced by Hyndman.

In the first-round games Saturday, third-seeded First Federal will meet the sixth seed, Hyndman, at Hyndman at 12:30. The winner of that game will then meet Romney in a semi-final contest at 3:30.

Morgantown, the fifth-seeded team, will play fourth-seeded Fairmont at 12:30 at GCC, with the winner meeting Oakland at 3:30.

The winners of the 3:30 games will advance to a best-of-three championship series at Garrett Community College on Sunday, with the first beginning at 1 p.m.

The camp staff will be headed by Brian Snyder, general manager of the Academy and formerly on the coaching staffs of the Oakland A's, Seattle Mariners, Atlanta Braves, and San Diego Padres. Other staff members are: Rob Hahne, Academy director and former NCAA ERA champion; Lawrence Nesselrodt, former coach at GCC and now head coach at Davis and Elkins College; and Ed Wildesen, current GCC coach.

The camp curriculum will include video analysis of players, daily games, a written evaluation, and instruction in all aspects of the game. Area youth wishing to register and/or desiring more information may call 387-3025 or 334-8785.

SHS Football Raffle Slated

The Southern High School football program will sponsor a football field raffle, tickets for which will go on sale next Monday, Aug. 5.

The Southern athletic field will be sectioned into approximately 285 plots, and fans may purchase a ticket representing one of those plots for $10. At the end of each quarter of play during home football games, the holder of the ticket representing the plot upon which the football ends up will receive $25. Thus, four cash prizes of $25 will be awarded at each home game, of which there will be five in the 1996 season.

Parents of players and cheerleaders will sell tickets until the kickoff on September 6, when the Rams will host Allegany to open the '96 season. Complete rules will be given to each buyer at the time of purchase.

All proceeds will benefit the SHS football program.

Baseball Clinic Slated For Aug. 6-7 At Broadford

A two-day baseball clinic for youth ages 7 to 15 will be conducted at Broadford Park on Aug. 6-7 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day.

The clinic, sponsored by Diamonds in the Rough, a group of local coaches, will be directed by Phil Caruso, who has coached baseball for Garrett Community College, Flintstone High School, local leagues, and, most recently, at Frederick Community College.

Caruso will be assisted at the clinic by John Lowrey, baseball coach for Jefferson High School, Shenandoah Junction, W.Va. During Lowrey's tenure at Jefferson, the school's baseball team has won 672 games and five state championships.

John Helmick, pitching coach for Frostburg State University, and Eric Hallenbeck, assistant baseball coach for FSU, will also serve on the clinic staff.

Cost for the camp is $40 and registration is required. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the local Little League program.

For more information or to register, persons may call Steve Friend at 334-4517.

For more information, persons may call 304-329-2410.

Sisler Lumber Takes 1-0 Lead In League Finals

Sisler Lumber took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three championship series of the Hot Stove Baseball League Monday evening by crushing First United of Frostburg, 11-0, at the Northern High School diamond. The contest was called after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

The second game of the series was to have been played yesterday, but it was apparently rained out and no information was received this morning as to re-scheduling.

Matt Settle pitched a no-hitter through three innings in Monday's game and also led his team at the plate with a double and two singles for one RBI. Levi Schmuck produced a pair of runs with a double and a single, while Corey Sisler hit a two-run single in the four-run first inning and finished with five RBI.

Jeff Carr pitched the final two innings for Sisler's.

The second game of the series was to have been played at the Frostburg Armory field.

Four Rams, Two Huskies Named WMIL All-Stars

Six Garrett County high school baseball players, four from Southern and two from Northern, were named this week to the All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League team, in the first year that either school participated in the league.

Selected from the Southern Rams, who won the league title and the area title with a 21-2 mark and advanced all the way to the state 1A finals this past spring, were Joel Uphold, Seth Tressler, Joey DiSimone, and Jason Sweitzer. Northern High selections were Tim Sines and Aaron Blocher. The Huskies finished with an overall record of 8-8 in their first year of WMIL play.

Uphold, who will be a senior this fall, finished with a 7-2 mark on the mound for Coach Jim Bosley this past season, as he pitched 54 innings, struck out 63 batters, walked only 22, and finished with a 1.82 earned run average. He was also one of the top hitters on the team with a .368 average. He led the team in home runs with five and had 35 RBI.

Tressler, also a junior this past year, finished with a 5-0 pitching mark with an ERA of 2.41, but did the most damage to Ram opponents with his bat. He finished with a .450 (36 for 80) average that included four home runs, six doubles, and 26 RBI. He also scored 29 times.

DiSimone, a senior shortstop and pitcher this past season, hit at a .370 rate (30 for 81) with two homers, four doubles, 17 RBI, and 25 runs scored. On the mound he finished his senior year with a 4-0 record with a 1.63 ERA, 33 strike-outs, and only six walks in 30 innings.

Sweitzer, who will be playing for Davis and Elkins College this fall, hit .367 his senior year and drew a team-high 27 walks. The senior infielder led the team in runs scored with 32 and also had 11 RBI.

Sines, who graduated from Coach Phil Carr's team this year, led the Huskies in six categories last spring: runs scored, hits, batting average, doubles, stolen bases, and walks. He batted .465 (20 for 43), scored 20 runs, hit three doubles, stole seven bases, and drew 15 walks.

Blocher, also a senior, also had three doubles for the Huskies and had a .333 batting average; but made his most significant impact for Northern on the mound, where he pitched 55 innings. He recorded 73 strike-outs in winning five of nine games and finished with a 2.80 ERA. He scored 10 runs and had nine RBI.

Southern's placement of four on the All-WMIL squad led the area. Allegany High School's selections were Eric Andrews, Brian Powell, and Mark Harbaugh; Fort Hill placed Darron Jones and J.R. Cross; Ryan Shoemake and Derek Hetz of Beall were selected; Mount Savage placed Jody Malloy; and Ross Metts of Westmar was selected.

Local honorable mention picks were Jamie Bernard of Southern and Matt Umbel of Northern.

Local Netters Named To State All-Star Team

Two Garrett County high school tennis players, one from Northern High School and one from Southern High School, have been named to the 1996 Maryland All-Star tennis team by the Maryland District of the United States Tennis Association. The Association selects the top male and female high school players from each county and Baltimore City to comprise the all-star team.

Named from Garrett County were Jamie Jo Vent, Grantsville, of Northern High School and Brandon Ferguson, Oakland, of Southern High. The all-stars were guests of the Maryland District at the July 17 session of the Legg Mason Tennis Classic, held July 13-21 in Washington, D.C. The Classic is one of the premier men's tournaments on the ATP Circuit.

The USTA, which is the official governing body for tennis in the United States, is a volunteer organization dedicated to promoting recreational and tournament tennis for all ages.

Hank Parker To Be Guest At Local Bass Fishing Tourney

The local Pepsi Cola Bottling Company will present champion bass fisherman Hank Parker as the featured guest at the BASS '96 fishing tournament that will mark the kick-off of the 1996 County United Way drive in September. More than $3,000 in cash and prizes will be offered at the two-day event, which culminates in a one-day tournament September 21 at Deep Creek Lake.

Two of the prizes will be fishing rods that Parker has donated himself.

Linda Beachy, BASS '96 Committee coordinator, said the tournament hopes to attract at least 100 entrants in what is intended to be an annual event. She said the tourney is designed not just for the fishermen, who generally show up the morning of the tournament and then leave after the competition is over. "This will be a family weekend," she said. "Members of the Boy Scouts will be on hand selling food and beverages, and there will be a petting zoo, Grimace - compliments of McDonald's, and Scales and Tales of the Chesapeake Bay Trust for children and nonfishing spouses.

"You have to be 18 to enter, but not to come and have fun," Beachy said.

Parker is a two-time BassMaster Classic Champion and is the fourth-leading all-time money winner on the B.A.S.S. Tournament Trail. His popular television series, "Hank Parker's Outdoor Magazine," was first broadcast in 1985 on only a few markets, but now appears each Sunday on The Nashville Network.

"Meet Hank Parker" night, will be Sept. 20, which will be held in the Garrett Community College Auditorium from 6 to 7:30 p.m. The program will include a question-and-answer session. A raffle will be conducted for merchandise and the grand prize winner will win a dinner for two with Parker following the session that evening. Additional drawings will be held on the day of the tournament for many other prizes.

Prior to the start of fishing on Saturday morning, Parker will greet each of the contestants individually.

After the weigh-in, prizes will be given out by Bud Gehring, a fishing champion from Franklin, Ohio.

Corporate sponsors of the Bass '96 fishing tournament are: Aircon Engineering, Allegany B.A.S.S.Casters, American Rent-All, American Trust Bank, Arts 'N Letters, The Bassin' Box, Biederlack of America, Bill's Marine, Potomac Council Boy Scouts, Gatling's Auto Supply, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, F&M Bank, First Federal Savings Bank, First United Bank, McDonald's Restaurant, and Micro-Integration.

Gifts-in-Kind sponsors are: Wanda's Clocks & Trophies, Johnny's Bait House, and New Germany Marine.

Proceeds from the tournament will go to benefit the County United Way. For more information about United Way, or to become a corporate sponsor, persons may call Linda Beachy at 1-301-722-2700.

Tennis Council Members Sought

In an effort to expand its tennis programs throughout the state, the Maryland District of the United States Tennis Association is embarking on an ambitious program designed to create Community Advisory Tennis Councils in each of the 23 counties and city of Baltimore. The councils, varying in size depending on the populations, will consist of community representatives from various areas in each jurisdiction. The county delegate who already serves as liaison between the District and the county will act as chair of the Community Advisory Tennis Council.

"It's the only logical way to develop tennis programs in each neighborhood," said Sal De Leva, president of the USTA/Maryland District. He envisions 150-200 communities being a part of this tennis network.

Anyone interested in being considered for the community representative position in his or her area should contact the USTA/Maryland District at 1-800-MDT-USTA.

The USTA/Maryland District, with membership of 7,500 and more than 100 organizations, is the governing body of tennis in the state.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

Weather Perfect For Regatta

by Dan Maus

The Sandy Douglas Memorial Invitational Regatta was held this past weekend on Deep Creek Lake in nearly ideal conditions. The weather was partially sunny and cool with winds 10-15 mph out of the NW on Saturday and 5-10 mph out of the SW on Sunday.

An Invitational regatta is one in which the host sponsoring organization, in this case the Deep Creek Lake Racing Association, invites all other sailboat racers to participate in the local one-design classes. For this regatta there were 12 visiting Flying Scots who were housed with local families.

For this regatta the first race was sailed before lunch on Saturday with the second and third races sailed back-to-back after lunch. The fourth and fifth races were sailed back-to-back on Sunday before lunch with the awards ceremony held after lunch.

The Laser B Fleet is made up of junior sailors who start with the regular Lasers, but are scored separately. The bad news for Jessica Potts in the Laser B Fleet was that she was unable to finish the second race when her laser, borrowed from the Deep Creek Sailing School, broke down. The good news is that she picked up a new laser at the Flying Scot Boat Co. on Sunday morning and went on to win the Laser B Fleet first place trophy.

Somewhere back in the mists of time a tradition was started that awarded a stuffed monkey to the Flying Scot A Fleet team that finished just out of the money. This year the monkey went to Doug and Audrey MacMillan. Tradition also has it that each new recipient must add something to the monkey in the way of decoration. The MacMillans, when asked what they would add, said that they had a year to think about it.

RESULTS

Flying Scot A - John Meredith & Tony Cominski, first; Harry Carpenter, Carrie Carpenter, second; Don Griffin, Barbara Griffin, third; Jack Carpenter, Rebecca Carpenter, fourth; David Neff Groom, Studyvin, fifth; Dan Goldberg, Joni Reese, sixth; Peter Salmon-Cox, June Schneider, seventh.

DNR Announces Migratory Bird Season, Limits

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced the proposed dates and bag limits for the 1996-97 webless migratory game bird hunting seasons.

The season dates and bag limits were selected by DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division within limits established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (U.S.F.W.S.). These proposals were initially presented for public comment at public information meetings sponsored by the Department this past March.

Hunters of webless migratory game birds are reminded that Maryland participates in the U.S.F.W.S. Migratory Bird Harvest Information Program (HIP) and that all migratory bird hunters, including those not required to have a hunting license, are required to have a HIP permit in their possession while hunting. HIP permits are available free of charge wherever hunting licenses are sold.

The 1996-97 proposed seasons and bag limits for webless migratory game birds (mourning dove, woodcock, rails and snipe) are essentially the same as last year (1995-96) with only minor changes that maximize hunting opportunities within U.S.F.W.S. frameworks.

Maryland hunters are advised to expect some significant changes in woodcock hunting regulations for next year (1997-98). The American woodcock is a popular game bird throughout Eastern North America that provides an estimated 3.4 million days of recreational hunting annually. In recent years, woodcock populations have been on a downward trend because of loss and degradation of habitat.

Persons interested in commenting on this year's proposed Webless Migratory Bird Hunting Regulations may submit comments to Joshua L. Sandt, Director: Wildlife and Heritage Division; Tawes State Office Building, E-1; 580 Taylor Avenue; Annapolis, MD 21401; telephone (410) 974-3195 by August 30.

Maryland With Pride

DNR Approves Hunting Seasons And Bag Limits

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced the selected dates and bag limits for resident game and furbearers. The seasons are now on a two-year schedule and include both the 1996-97 hunting license year (August 1, 1996, through July 31, 1997) and the 1997-98 hunting license year (August 1, 1997, through July 1, 1998). This information has been submitted for regulatory adoption.

DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division held four public information meetings on the new dates and bag limits to gather public comments.

The most significant change from earlier proposals is the timing of early muzzleloader season. The originally proposed October 24 opening has been changed to October 17, the third Thursday in October. It was determined that the third Thursday in October will be opening day in future seasons.

Regulation highlights are as follows:

Display of hunting license backtag no longer required - Hunters and trappers are no longer required to display their hunting license backtag on an outer garment. Hunters and trappers are required to possess their hunting license at all times while afield.

Potential for fall turkey season extension - Maryland's traditional either sex fall turkey season will open on Monday, November 4, 1996, and close on Saturday, November 9, 1996. Fall turkey hunting is permitted only in Allegany County, Garrett County, and in that portion of Washington County west of Interstate 81. DNR will extend the fall season in those years where high turkey production has occurred. The extended season would include the Saturday prior to the announced opening day; i.e. open on Saturday, November 2 instead of November 9. Interested turkey hunters should contact the Department in mid-October regarding any possibly season extension for 1996.

Extension of deer firearms season framework - A two-day extension (January 10 and 11, 1997) of the deer firearms season will be held in those counties which require additional deer harvest to meet the Department's deer management goals. Interested deer hunters should contact the DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division in mid-December to obtain a list of eligible counties.

Beaver harvest restrictions repealed - "Bag limit" restrictions for beaver have been discontinued because of increasing beaver populations and associated problems with property damage. Beaver trappers will no longer be required to have their beaver pelts tagged.

Coyote hunting and trapping - Coyotes are now classified as a "Furbearing mammal" in Maryland. Under this classification, it is legal to buy and sell the pelt or carcass of coyotes, just like other furbearers. Coyotes can now be hunted year-round, and trapping seasons have been established on a county basis.

office is currently working on six projects: the Kitzmiller water system, Deer Park sewer project, Gorman water system, septage facility at Deep Creek Lake, leachate line from landfill, and a water line extension improvements at Deep Creek Lake.

The Kitzmiller project will include improvements to the impoundment, a back up filter, and the construction of a line to the sewage plant. Bids for construction of a community sewer system in Deer Park will be opened next week, and pipe is now being laid for the Gorman water system.

The Gorman project will also include the development of a well field and the construction of a water storage tank on the top of Backbone Mountain. Water is currently purchased from West Virginia to service the Gorman community, but the new system is aimed to make this unnecessary.

The planned line from the new Garrett County landfill will transport leachate (water that has soaked through the rubbish) to the septage facility at Deep Creek Lake, where it will be treated.

Beitzel also reminded the commissioners that the town of Friendsville has turned over ownership and management if its municipal water system to the county sanitary district.

Only three municipal water/sewer systems in Garrett County are not under the direct management of the sanitary district. They are in Oakland, Grantsville, and Accident.

RECYCLING/LANDFILL

Rodney Glotfelty, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, commented that the closure of the old Round Glade landfill, a $3 million project, is getting underway. He added that he hopes to hire local workers for the project.

Shredded tires, which will be used in the closure process, will begin to arrive at the old landfill on Monday, he said.

A ground-breaking ceremony for the closure effort will be held in the near future.

Glotfelty also announced that office paper is now be accepted for recycling at the new landfill, located on Oakland-Sang Run Road. He added that he hopes to have the opportunity to purchase a compactor in the near future to facilitate the collection of plastic bottles for recycling.

LIBRARY

Emily Ferren, head librarian for the Ruth Enlow Library, noted that she traveled to New York City over the Fourth of July holiday to serve as a guest speaker at a meeting of the American Library Association. Ferren also announced that an article she has written on library guidelines for the deaf was recently published.

On the subject of the enlargement/renovation of the Accident library branch, she commented that the construction site has been excavated and the footers have been set. The foundation will be laid this week, she added, and the project will be completed in mid to late October.

PROMOTION COUNCIL

Diane Wolfe, director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, informed the commissioners that her office's spring ad campaign has been "really successful," with interested tourists requesting information about local attractions and visiting the information booth at Deep Creek Lake.

She also commented that schedules for the Autumn Glory Festival are now available. The annual celebration is slated for Oct. 10-13 this year.

The council will operate a booth at the Maryland State Fair this year, slated for the last week in August.

PLANNING/ZONING

John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning, announced that he has met with representatives of all Garrett County municipalities expect Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park on the subject of the proposed county subdivision ordinance, which is slated to be completed in a draft form by September.

He noted that local realtors have expressed interest in reviewing the draft ordinance.

Nelson also commented that local post offices will discontinue their service to "old" Garrett County addresses in September. He stated that residents should be sure to use their new addresses, as determined by the county's recent 911 readdressing program.

He noted that confusion surrounding the new addressing system caused approximately 100 tax bills to be returned to the Garrett County Treasurer's Office.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Peggy Jamison of the Garrett County Office of Economic Development stated that the chief of staff of Governor Parris Glendening will visit Garrett Community college at the end of this week.

She added that the Bausch & Lomb facility and the Bnchman Optical building have been recently shown to potential buyers.

"The prospects that they're working with are good ones," she commented.

Jamison, who attended the recent U.S. Route 219 Stakeholders' Meeting in Somerset, Pa., also noted that her office wants to coordinate another such meeting with the Route 219 Corridor Committee to be held in August in Buffalo, N.Y.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, informed the commissioners that a delegation from Brazil visited the Garrett County Health Department on Monday. He explained that the visitors are studying the U.S. healthcare system, as Brazil is currently reforming its own system. Brazilian envoys will also travel to other U.S. cities as well as Canada.

Archer also commented that 100 quilters are currently working to complete a large quilt depicting towns, schools, churches, and other landmarks in Garrett County for display at the Garrett County Agricultural Fair and other local events. The quilt will depict persons doing healthful things, and will be used in public education activities.

EXTENSION SERVICE

Alice Hevner, Garrett County extension agent for 4-H, announced this week that for local farmers, crops are "way behind" as a result of wet weather and soggy soil.

Approximately 50% of growing corn is not of a good quality, she said. Hay quality has also been hurt by the wet weather, she added.

Commissioner Wayne Wilt asked Hevner if the reported scarcity of honey bees has negatively affected local crop production. However, Hevner stated that she did not have the answer to that question.

This Friday, in conjunction with the Oakland sidewalk sale, the Mtn. Fresh Market will be open in the town parking lot. The produce market is doing "very well" this year, she said, adding that it will continue to operate through the Autumn Glory Festival.

A total of 250 persons participated in a recent farm safety day camp conducted in the county, including 180 children and teens, Hevner noted. Numerous sponsors contributed to this event, she commented.

An alternative agriculture workshop will be conducted at Garrett Community College on Oct. 28.

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH

Edgar Harman, director of the Garrett County Office of Environmental Health, informed the commissioners that the one bid his office received for performance of the proposed Jennings sewage study was too high, so the project may be re-bid this month. More local firms may be available to bid on the project when it is re-advertised, he commented.

EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

Brad Frantz, director of the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management, stated that emergency medical dispatch (EMD) training for Garrett and Allegany counties is still being planned, and new F911 equipment is scheduled to be received by the county in early September. The new system is slated to be online in early to mid fall.

Frantz also announced that his office has applied for a$1.54 million community development block grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to defer the costs of local flood repair projects not covered by the Federal Emergency Management Administration.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Dr. Jerry Ryscavage, superintendent of schools for Garrett County, remarked that staff and faculty employed with the county school system attend workshops and training sessions over the summer months.

Roof repairs at Broad Ford Elementary and Southern Middle School were slated to begin this Wednesday, and the bid for the new Yough Glades Elementary School was awarded last week, he said.

The school board will hire between 10 and 12 new certificated faculty members this year to replace recent resignations, Ryscavage said. No faculty members retired from the local school system this year.

COMMUNITY ACTION

Although not present at this week's commissioner meeting, Duane Yoder, director of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, recently informed the commissioners that their assistance this spring was instrumental in helping Community Action obtain timely funding for continuation of the agency's wrap-around day care program, which provides affordable child care for parents of Head Start children.

"Your letter turned the trick," Yoder remarked.

At Yoder's request, the commissioners drafted a letter to Gov. Glendening this spring asking him to help expedite continued grant funding for the program, which enables parents of Head Start children to work or attend training.

In requesting the letter, Yoder had expressed his concern that a delay in funding could result in a disruption of the program. However, grant funds were made available and no interruption of services was experienced.

Quarry Hearing

lated that abandoned portals by closed, except for air vents.

Also during the meeting, local attorney Bernard Corbett spoke at length against Maryland Mineral's application. During his testimony, Corbett made reference to comments he had made during the original zoning hearing on the issue last year.

He also made reference to an adjoining quarry owned by Browning's Deep Creek Quarry, Inc. The Browning quarry is located on a parcel called the Lee property near the Thayerville Quarry currently operated by Maryland Minerals. The two quarries are connected by underground passages, and Browning has stated that he has not operated his mine out of concerns that Maryland Minerals' activities in their adjoining mine may affect safety for his workers.

"I was primarily concerned about the concerns of Jim Browning and the Browning Quarry when I was here a year ago, and the major emphasis of the discussions by me and by Mr. Browning had to do with the safety of the miners that were working for his quarrying operation - the quarrying operation that was in existence then and still, by right, is in existence today," Corbett said.

"Mr Browning - he told you last year that he was so concerned about it that he really didn't feel like he could continue to mine over on that end of the hill, if someone else is in the same cavity with his people and blasting in a way that it could cause floods to the downhill side where his quarrying operation continues, in a way that could cause cave-ins that could seriously injure his people over there," Corbett added. "He also brought to you a mining plan showing the existing mining operation and how much of that cavity had already been mined out, and he showed you in the mining operation how much of the area had already been subjected to what they call subsidence, which is really a roof fall in . . .

"Mr. Browning has, so far anyway, put his money where his mouth was," Corbett testified. "He told you he was concerned about the safety operation. He had an absolute right to be in there mining all this past year, and he doesn't have anybody in there mining now, and he doesn't have them in there because he's concerned about the safety."

Corbett went on to argue that "If you allow this kind of a special exception to come in, what's to prevent the next guy to come in there and say 'I want to put two mines in there, and have two more mines in operation. Why not four mines in operation?' You've established a precedent there, and I think the precedent is making a mockery of the importance of the zoning regulation."

However, Maryland Minerals representative Mark Faulk countered that opening new portals at the Thayerville Quarry might in fact benefit the Browning quarry.

"If our mutual friends decide to use their portion of the mine, I'm sure they'll be glad for the extra air too," Faulk commented.

Maryland Minerals representative Henry Moomau also testified at the hearing and asserted that the new portals are needed and will not dramatically alter the appearance of the Thayerville Quarry site.

"For every area that we disturb here [pointing to a photo of the site], we'll be reclainring at least that or more down into this area," Moomau told the board.

The new portals will affect approximately 2.2 acres, and approximately that much currently disturbed land will be reclaimed, he said.

However, the entire quarry site - some 13 acres - was included in the permit needed to begin the portal operation. The difference between the 2.2 and 13 acre figures has been a point of contention in wrangling over the application issue.

However, Moomau asserted that the entire site was placed under permit in order to comply with mining regulations.

"Our application is still exactly the same," Moomau said.

On the subject of truck traffic on Route 219, Moomau argued that "The tonnage that will be coming from the site will be much less than it has been in the past."

Greig Johnson, proprietor of Arrowhead Market and Pizzeria Uno, both located across Route 219 from the Thayerville Quarry, spoke in favor of Maryland Minerals' request.

"The quarry was there before I ever opened Arrowhead, so it was there before I ever opened my restaurant, and it was there way before I get my movie theaters open. And I'm the one that came into the neighborhood and changed it a little bit, and the quarry was always the basis for it," Johnson said. "And the quarry jobs are the jobs that we need, and desperately need, in Garrett County . . .

'I currently have a signed contract for $2.5 million to build that movie theater, and if I felt that the expansion of that quarry was going to impede that or harm that, I sure as heck wouldn't go ahead and sign on the dotted line," he added.

Following the close of testimony after midnight, the zoning appeals board approved Maryland Minerals' special exception with several conditions. Opponents have 30 days from July 30 to appeal the decision to circuit court.

ing Elfish and throwing him to the side of the road.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported the injured man to the hospital following the 3:55 p.m. mishap.

PEDESTRIAN HURT

An Oakland woman was hospitalized late Saturday evening after she was struck by a pickup truck as she walked on Rt. 39 (Hutton-Oakland) Road, near the Top of the Hill Bar.

State police said Kimberly J. Dillon, 35, who was reportedly highly intoxicated when she left the tavern, began walking in the roadway. Witnesses told police that she first walked westward in the eastbound lane, and then westward in the westbound lane. She was subsequently struck by a 1989 GMC truck operated by James A. Rogers of Terra Alta, W.Va.

Dillon was initially listed in "satisfactory" condition at Garrett Memorial. She has since been released. No charges were filed against Rogers, following the 11:30 p.m. accident.

TREATED, RELEASED

A Swanton teenager and her passenger were injured last Thursday afternoon in a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 495, near Deer Park.

Treated and released from Garrett Memorial were Michelle Flores, 18, and her passenger, Heather M. Flores, 16, who were injured when the 1992 Geo Tracker they were riding in on Rt. 495, near the Painters School Road, ran off the right shoulder, causing the driver to lose control. The car reportedly struck an embankment, and overturned into a creek.

Both occupants were reportedly wearing their seatbelts. Also responding to the scene of the 3:15 p.m. mishap were volunteers from Deer Park fire department and Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

WOMAN INJURED

An Oakland woman was hospitalized following a single-vehicle accident, July 23, on the Mosser Road. Patricia L. Ahern, 34, was initially treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, and then transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland. She was not listed as a patient there this morning.

State police said Ahern was operating her 1987 Chevrolet Eurosport west on the Mosser Road, east of Sunset Ridge, when she failed to reduce speed on a curve, causing the vehicle to travel on the shoulder of the road, then skid across to the opposite side, across a yard, and then strike a tree.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Ahern to the hospital following the 9:45 p.m. accident. A citation was issued by the state police.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

Several years ago, I chatted with a nun who belonged to a teaching order in my New York City neighborhood. We met on a bus and through the windows, we could see some of the young girls from her school rushing to light up cigarettes as soon as they got a block away.

The nun talked of the various classes held in the school conducted by outside experts who showed how dangerous smoking was to one's health. Apparently, the message never took. I suggested she ask her staff to discuss how smoking ruins one's looks instead. And it does. Smoking encourages early, deep, and often permanent wrinkling; Smoking can encourage unwanted growths on the skin. And, finally, smoking makes one's breath stink.

I don't know if she took the advice, but I do know that all of the above is absolutely true.

Recently, the American Academy of Dermatology issued a release on a report in the May, 1996 issue of the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology called "Cutaneous Manifestations and Consequences of Smoking." Briefly, that can be translated as "How Smoking Causes Skin Problems." Not only does it lead to wrinkling, but according the authors, Drs. Jeffrey B. Smith and Neil A. Fenske of the University of South Florida, Tampa, facial wrinkling begins in smokers as a premature phenomenon and increases with the number of packs smoked. In other words, if one smoked two packs a day, in 20 years, that person would have a 40 pack year history.

A "smoker's face" is described as having prominent lines and wrinkles, gaunt facial features; wasted looking or gray skin; and orange, red, and purple pigmentation blotches on the face.

Smoking affects nail growth. Smokers, especially women, run a greater risk of psoriasis than non-smokers.

Male smokers run a higher risk for cancer of the penis than non smokers. Indeed, no part of the body is immune to its ravages. Nicotine is an addictive drug. But it is possible to quit smoking or using smokeless tobacco. Do it, while you can.

Antiques

Charles and Ray Eames, who developed a process for using molded plywood, designed many pieces of innovative furniture from the 1940s through the 1960s. The process made it possible to radically change the shape of a chair or table. It gave the flat wood extra strength so it could be used for legs or backs without additional bracing.

In 1945, the Eameses made some children's furniture — chairs and tables — utilizing the equipment that had been used during World War II to make airplane parts of molded wood. The two-piece chair had a back and a seat with attached legs. The table was made of a single cut and bent piece. The furniture was made of laminated birch in natural color or stained with blue, black, yellow, red or magenta.

More than 5,000 chairs and stools were made by Evans Products and sold from 1945 to 1947.

The pieces are in demand by serious collectors. The colored furniture stool recently sold for more than $3,000.

Q. What's the best way to store matchbook covers? Are there any clubs for collectors?

A. To safely store matchbook covers, remove the staple below the striking surface and remove the matches. Avoid tearing. To keep the cover from curling, place it under a heavy object. After a few days, the cover will be flat and ready to be mounted in a book.

For more information on the hobby, write to: The American Matchcover Collecting Club, P.O. Box 18481, Asheville, NC 28814, The Rathkamp Matchcover Society, 1359 Surrey Road, Dept. KA, Vandalia, OH 45377-1646, or the Windy City Matchcover Club of Illinois, 3104 W. Fargo Ave., Chicago, IL 60645-1100. All three clubs publish newsletters.

BABY OIL MAGIC — I had wooden floors. If water or any liquid spilled on them, the spot would turn white. After a while, I was no longer adoring my beautiful floors. I then found the answer.

I took a small amount of baby oil and placed some on a tissue and rubbed it lightly on that spot on the floor. Wow! The floor looks like new, thanks to my baby oil. Carolyn J., Bellerose, N.Y.

POTPOURRI OF TIPS — (1) Is your son or daughter a paper carrier? Save the large plastic bags their newspapers are bundled in on rainy and snowy days. Why throw them away? They make perfect trash bags for your tall kitchen container. I've been spared the cost of many rolls of trash bags in the past 15 years thanks to my children passing their routes down to their younger siblings.

(2) Buying automobile tires? Why pay the dealership the extra cost, usually $3 or $4 each, to dispose of your old tires? Any town dump will gladly accept them free to add to their recyclable stockpile. After all, your tax dollars support your respective communities. Use their services.

(3) To add my last two cents — Use postcards whenever possible as opposed to the 32-cent stamp. Raymond S., Coventry, R.I.

SPRAY-CAN LID — When buying the large cans of hair spray, I use the top plastic cup to cover my ears. It protects my earrings. Rose W., Rochester, N.Y.

COUNT STEPS — This suggestion could be a lifesaver. If you live in a house with steps, count them as you go up and down.

Make it a habit, then you'll never miss that last step. Edna C., Wesleyville, Pa.

DeBerry Completes GRI Designation

Larry DeBerry, an associate broker with Railey Realty, recently received notification that he has completed course work and passed examinations to qualify for the Graduate, Realtors Institute (GRI) designation.

DeBerry received this designation after successfully completing 90 hours of specific education outlined by the National Association of Realtors, which awards the GRI designation. Conducted by the Maryland Association of Realtors, the Realtors Institute of Maryland was developed to satisfy the need for a more comprehensive and effective learning experience in all phases of real estate.

"Larry's 12 years of real estate experience, his experience as a developer and builder, and his new education will help him better serve the needs of his customers and the county," said a spokesperson for Railey Realty.

Letters

To the Editor:

The letter from Mr. Fowler you printed in last week's Republican regarding access to the highest point in Maryland was inaccurate. I hope this letter will clear up his confusion as well as assist others in reaching the summit of Maryland's highest mountain.

First off, Vista Properties does not grant or deny access to any property. That decision is left to the property owners. Vista Properties is a local licensed real estate agency specializing in the sale of mountain land with tremendous views. Vista Properties has listings for well over 100 large land parcels encompassing over 1,000 acres in Garrett County and surrounding areas. One of those listings, Backbone Ridge, is located atop Backbone Mountain adjacent to the highest point in Maryland (known as Hoye Crest). Also adjacent to Hoye Crest, less than 200 yards to the south, is the 900,000 acre Monongahela National Forest. Access to Maryland's Highest point is a short walk (about a mile or so) through this public forest, as it always has been.

Backbone Ridge does offer some of the best views in the Mid-Atlantic region as well as the peace and tranquility one might expect from such a unique location. The serenity and privacy offered the property owners at Backbone Ridge is why people chose to invest here. Neither the developer, Ken Wade, nor any of the property owners has ever received a single dollar from any local or state agency for the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent constructing and maintaining these private roads. Why Mr. Fowler would prefer to drive several miles onto private property, then walk through someone's front yard, rather than take a beautiful short hike through the National Forest to visit Hoye Crest is beyond me. Perhaps the energy he seems willing to spend on "lobbying" the government may be better spent by him identifying the National Forest trail and flagging it for future enthusiasts, something we at Vista Properties have been doing for years. Many of the "high pointers" stop in our office to get better directions, use our facilities and otherwise visit with us. We also installed a sign outside our office with directions to the high point. We have met people from all over the country, if not the world, and find the experience quite enjoyable. Most of these new "friends" stop back in upon their return from the high point and send us thank-you letters. I don't have any recollection of Mr. Fowler stopping in to see us.

While I'm on the subject I should also clear up some confusion about the exact location of the highest point in Maryland and how to get there. It appears that the annual Garrett County-Deep Creek Lake Vacation Guide erroneously identifies the highest point in Maryland as just east of Red House on U.S. Route 50. While this is in the highest point one can drive to, the actual highest point in Maryland is several hundred feet higher and a couple miles south.

Vista Properties' office is located on Rt. 219, 4.8 miles south of Red House, on the south shores of Silver Lake and across Rt. 219 from the "Smallest Church in 48 States." About 1/4 mile south of our office on Rt. 219 is a pull-off and sign stating "Backbone Mt. Highest Point in Maryland." Park in this area and hike up the old logging road through the Monongahela National Forest. The trial takes a sharp right turn when it meets the Backbone Ridge property. Turn right (east) and hike up this trail until you get to the mountain top. Turn left (north) on the ridge and walk a couple hundred yards to the large "historical" sign identifying the actual high point.

If you have any difficulty, need some special assistance, or just want to use our facilities, please stop in our office as most other high pointers do...I'm sure we can help. Feel free to call us on our toll free number, 800-688-7693 if we can help in any way!

Tina M. Winters
Vice President-Operations
Vista Properties, Inc.

P.S. We would be happy to sell one of our parcels closest to the High Point to Mr. Fowler or any one else who would like to enjoy the best views in the State of Maryland!

a juror, harassment, and obstructing justice. A bench warrant was also issued for his arrest, as he allegedly failed to appear in court for a traffic charge.

While little detail was available concerning Eggers's arrest, one complainant noted was Joseph Stansbury. The defendant apparently attempted to convince Stansbury to drop other charges against him.

Siblings Elected To LYO Offices

MATTHEW SINCELL

SARA SINCELL

A local brother and sister were recently elected to offices in the Lutheran Youth Organization of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. The synod membership includes 60-plus Lutheran congregations and over 15,000 church members throughout West Virginia and Western Maryland.

Matthew Sincell, who served as LYO treasurer this past year, was elected president of the organization at its annual conference held in Charleston, W.Va., last month, while his sister, Sara Sincell, was elected treasurer. They are the children of Donald and Suzanne Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park.

Matthew, 17, will be a senior this fall at Southern High School, where Sara, 16, will be a junior. Both are active members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, as well as the Garrett County Ecumenical Youth Ministry.

Matthew was the youth representative for the West Va.-Western Md. Synod at the 1995 LYO National Conference in Minneapolis. He is an honor student at Southern High, where he is a member of the soccer, cross country, and track and field teams. He has been named a Student of the Month, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, and has performed extensively on stage with Garrett Choral Society, Ecumenical Youth Ministry, and school musicals and dramatic productions. He is a certified lifeguard and is a member of the Garrett County Manta Rays swim team.

Sara is also an honor student at Southern where she is a member of the track and field team, the Southern Garrett Marching Band, and the Southern Winter Guard. She was a member of the junior varsity cheerleading squad and was treasurer of the sophomore class this past school year. She is a member of the Manta Rays swim team and has also participated in a number of Garrett Choral Society, Ecumenical Youth Ministry, and school musicals.

Besides conducting worship, educational, and recreational programs and activities for its membership, the LYO provides volunteer help to various charitable agencies. At the past two youth conferences, members worked with Habitat for Humanity chapters in Franklin and Charleston, W.Va.

Also elected at the 1996 LYO conference were Sarah Cook, Charleston, as vice president, and Erin Gamrod, of Wheeling, W.Va., secretary. Each of the four LYO officers in the synod will receive an expense-paid trip to next year's national LYO Convention in New Orleans, an event that will involve some 40,000 Lutheran youth from all over the United States.

Castles In The Air

Oh, how we love "building castles in the air," yet dreams can be the first step toward reality. The familiar lyrics go something like this..."You've got to have a dream; if you don't have a dream, how are you gonna make a dream come true?"

It is rewarding to dream...to invest in a comfortable lifestyle, while saving the valuable time and energy for our spiritual growth. This assures us a more peaceful earthly existence, and our eternal future as well. Job 36:11 assures us, "If they obey and serve Him [God], they shall spend their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasures."

Concerning true "castles in the air", Revelations 21:18-21 gives us a glimpse of Heaven. "The city was pure gold, clear as glass...adorned with every jewel...each of the gates made of a single pearl, and the street pure gold..."

Worship God this Sabbath. It's your first step on the earthly climb toward heavenly reality...your castle in the air.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DO YOU KNOW THIS TUNE?
August 4, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 40
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 36:5-12

Yesterday, my wife and I went to a church outside Dallas where a ministerial friend of ours was holding his last service before retiring. He made it an informal service, much of it composed of poetry and songs that he had written across the years to express his Christian faith and commitment. It was a compelling testimony and very effective in communicating the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The service made me realize that we don't give enough time and space to personal testimony in our congregational and community life. Often the best way to convey the gospel is a matter of telling His story through our stories. I realize that many of us are shy of talking about God in our own lives, but we ought to encourage and help people to at least share with others what God means in their own lives. We are not all called to preach and teach, but we are all called to witness to what God has done for and with us.

In the 40th Psalm, the Psalmist has experienced help from God–probably healing from a serious illness–and he has shared this wonderful experience with others: "I have told the glad news of deliverance in the great congregation: ...I have spoken of thy faithfulness, and thy salvation" (40:9, 10).

TELLING OTHERS

The Psalmist is not expounding on the scriptures or propounding a theology. He is simply telling others what he experienced. "I waited for the Lord, he inclined to me and heard my cry..." (40:1, 2a). He waited and trusted in God and his waiting and trusting were justified when God healed him. what did he discover for himself and others as well? "Blessed is the man who makes the Lord his trust..." (40:4).

There are millions of us who have experienced pretty much what the Psalmist experienced, who have put our trust in God and then have found, after much patience, that the Lord has saved us. As a preacher I have had lots of opportunity to speak of what God has done for me in my sermons and lessons–and I have, although, in reflection, not nearly as often as I might. There have been far more of God's "wondrous deeds" than I have spoken of even in my sermons, lessons and writings.

Many years ago–45 if I count correctly–I wrote a hymn that expressed in some measure what God had done for me. It never found its way into any hymn books, but it was popular in some youth camps and in one of my congregations and apparently was found helpful by a number of people. Now I regret that I didn't more often put my testimony to music, so that I could say with the Psalmist: "He put a new song in my mouth, a song of praise to our God" (40:3).

A PECULIAR TURN

If you read Psalm 40 you will note that it takes a peculiar turn. It starts with a ringing testimony to God's faithfulness, but then ends with a plea for more help. "Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me!" he cries, "O Lord, make haste to help me!" (40:13). Whereas the help he received previously had probably been healing of a serious physical disease, this time he speaks of evils "without number" that have encompassed him and complains that "my iniquities have overtaken me" (40:12). There are also detractors who torment him.

Despite the exuberant note on which the psalmist began, he ends it with these anxious words: "Thou art my help and my deliverer; do not tarry, O my God!" (40:17b).

So, is he a man of faith or a man of anxiety? Both, it seems to me. Like many of us, he has personally witnessed the manifest steadfast love of God, but he also faced new trials and tribulations. Just as we do.

Does his "new song" of both salvation and anxiety sound familiar to you? It should, for we could sing right along with him.

R ARE YOU EVADING BETTER HEALTH?

Sometimes because of fear a person will not correctly answer the questions asked them by their doctor. They want to be assured that they are free of disease and will falsely give "answers" that can get them a good grade on their health exam. It is even possible that this fear can actually suppress symptoms.

With your full cooperation a physician can usually make an accurate analysis of your health. If there is something wrong he can often find it at the first symptoms and correct it quickly. New prescription medicines and medical techniques offer better health than ever before. But your doctor may not be able to help you if you do not level with him.

The Loft Shop

THE LOFT SHOP - Alan and Sue Arnson, owners, are pictured in The Loft Shop, which features quality art work, and unique, handcrafted items by local artisans. The shop, located in Bittinger, can be reached by calling 245-4528.

The Loft Shop, at the corner of Rock Lodge Road and Route 495 in Bittinger, is celebrating its 10th year of business. Those who have not found it yet are in for a special experience. Located in the loft of an old barn, it features only handcrafted items. The shop is owned and run by Alan and Sue Arnson, and is open from Memorial Day through Autumn Glory.

In the summer of 1987 the Arnsons opened a small craft shop in their barn in Bethesda, calling it The Loft Shop. In 1986, the Arnsons moved to Garrett County from Bethesda where they had lived for the previous 20 years. They had started working with wood, making bandsaw boxes back in Bethesda in the early 80s.

Both Sue and Alan Arnson are craftspeople, creating a great deal of their own inventory. Their work has been featured at the Gallery on Greene in Cumberland during the holiday season. Alan, a part-time professional, has reduced his work load to do woodwork; creating log boxes, rockinghorses, benches, etc. for The Loft Shop. He has become involved in forestry and conservation issues in the area, with a particular focus on Appalachian hardwoods as a source of material for his work. Sue, an ex-special ed teacher, works on her projects year round and runs The Loft Shop during its season (June through October). She works in several media. In the beginning her focus was on woodworking and basketry. In more recent years she has expanded to silk painting, erring making, wood carving, and watercolor painting.

The Loft Shop is devoted to providing a marketplace for the artists and craftspeople of Western Maryland. Recently their goal has been to expand to present quality art work. The 1996 season has paintings by several artists from the area. The Arnsons take pride in the fact that their shop carries unique, handcrafted items by local artisans.

The Loft Shop is located at the end of their lane in a barn dating back to the turn of the century. The setting is a particularly attractive venue for the creative works they display. At the corner of Route 495 and Rock Lodge Road there are signs and flags to indicate the turn to make down the lane. Little flags mark the way as customers approach The Loft Shop. The shop is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday through Sunday. For more information, those interested may call 245-4528. Those looking for original work by local artisans and a friendly atmosphere, should visit The Loft Shop.

Keystone Inc. Announces Stock Split, Dividend

Keystone Financial, Inc., Pennsylvania's fifth largest bank holding company, has announced a 3-for-2 stock split and declared a regular cash dividend. The stock split, in the form of a 50 percent stock dividend. is payable on August 23, 1996, to shareholders of record as of August 6, 1996. A cash payment will be made in lieu of the issuance of fractional shares. Following the split, the company will have approximately 38 million shares outstanding.

A regular quarterly cash dividend of 36 cents per share was also declared, which adjusted for the split is equal to 24 cents per share. The dividend is payable October 20, 1996, to shareholders of record on October 9, 1996.

"We are pleased with our operating performance and are optimistic that the strategies we are pursuing will continue to add value. The dividend and stock split are evidence of our desire to continue to enhance our shareholders' investment," Carl L. Campbell, president and chief executive officer said. "The benefits of the split should include an increased attractiveness and availability of our stock in the marketplace." he concluded.

Keystone recently reported record second quarter and year-to-date results. Second quarter net income increased to $17,733,000, or 70 cents per share, from $15,021,000 or 64 cents per share for the same period in 1995. Net income for the six month period rose to $34,590,000, or $1.37 per share from $29,677,000 or $1.27 per share, a gain in earnings per share of eight percent. Reported earnings per share do not reflect the impact of the stock split.

Keystone Financial has five member banks, including American Trust Bank N.A., Cumberland, which together operate 154 offices in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia. Keystone also operates several non-banking companies providing specialized services.

Free Health Evaluations Still Available

The home health office of the Garrett County Health Department is still offering free health evaluations for persons age 18 and older through its geriatric evaluation services (GES) program.

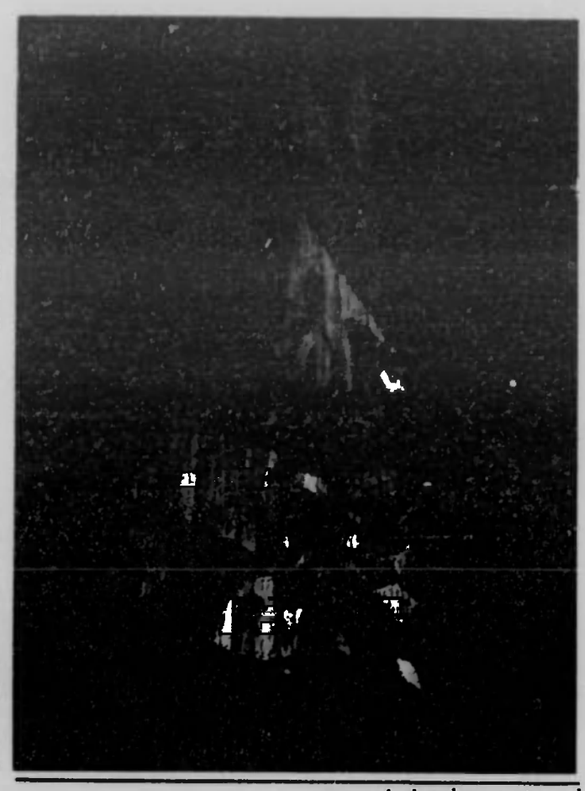
Evaluations are conducted at the home health office at 14719 Garrett Highway.

"Geriatric evaluation services is a program that evaluates and assures that all available services and resources in the community are considered to assist the 18-plus age group," a program spokesperson explained. "However, the target age group is the 60-plus population.

"The geriatric evaluation services team consists of a nurse, social worker, physician, and when necessary, psychiatrist and/or psychologist," the spokesperson added. "The teams provide an assessment of the health status and psychological needs of each person referred to our program."

Evaluations may be performed in the home health office or at the person's residence, and the evaluation team can assist with home health referrals, nursing home placement, and the transition from nursing facility to private home.

For more information, persons may call Donna McClintock or Helen Heath at 334-8253 or 895-3112 weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.



WEST VIRGINIA ARTISTS Jeennie Kuhn and Randy B. Williams will be recognized, along with several Garrett County artists during a reception planned by the Garrett County Arts Council at Swallow Falls State Park on Aug. 10. Kuhn and Williams have carved a totem pole that will be installed near the park entrance, and council members will also kick off the sale of 1997 gift calendars that day. An example of Williams's work is pictured above, and one of Kuhn's wood sculptures is shown to the right.

Maryland Arts Camp Reaches Out To Area Children

The children of the Western Maryland can once again discover "power of plies" and "confidence in creativity" at the Maryland Arts Camp West, formerly Alvin Ailey Dance Camp, at Frostburg State University.

Approximately 40 at-risk middle schoolers from Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties are currently on the FSU campus developing skills in dance and other arts, as well as building personal self-esteem and confidence. The camp will end with a public dance and drama presentation from 1 to 3 p.m. this Friday, August 2, in the Performing Arts Center's Studio Theatre.

Although the name of the camp has changed, the set-up, goals, and objectives of the camp are identical to those of the previous Alvin Ailey Camp at FSU, says Phadelma Ashley, who is returning as camp director. The focus of the camp is personal development and self expression through the arts.

"The exact same staff as Ailey Camp is back at FSU," said Ms. Ashley. Campers will still have the opportunity to work with members of the Alvin Ailey Theatre Foundation. The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater is a New York based company which has become one of the most respected and world renowned ensembles in the dance world.

As the children learn the basics of dance and creative dramatics, they also learn important lessons about self-esteem. Creative drama allows the youth to express themselves in a positive and constructive manner and campers are taught the basics of nutrition, community involvement, and decision-making concerning alcohol and drugs, Ashley said.

"Finally, an end-of-camp dance presentation allows the students to feel a sense of accomplishment and follow-up programs are held on weekends during the academic year and includes such activities as dance workshops, theatre productions and art workshops," she added.

A special highlight for campers this year will be a day of interaction with the world-famous Washington Redskins who are holding training camp at FSU. Campers will be on hand for the Redskins warm-ups and practice and then interact with players during an autograph session. 'Were very excited about working with the Redskins," Ms. Ashley added.

Maryland Arts Camp West is sponsored in part by the Maryland State Arts Council, Frostburg State University, Governor's Commission on Service, and Morgan State University, the site of Maryland Arts Camp East.

For more information on Maryland Arts Camp West, persons may contact the main office on the FSU campus at (301) 687-7459.

Grantsville Youth Attends Astronomy Camp In Arizona

Joshua Neubert, a 10th grader at Northern High School, recently returned from attending Advanced Astronomy Camp in Arizona. Astronomy Camp is designed to offer participants unique involvement in science and engineering offered through the University of Arizona's Steward Observatory and the Arizona Alumni Association. Available to teenagers and adults, the camps emphasize "hands-on" experiences.

Admission to Astronomy Camp was very competitive, with only 26 students chosen nationwide for the Advanced Camp. The selection process included required recommendations, a lengthy essay competition, and scholastic record. After acceptance, each student was required to create a research proposal for using the telescopes, just as a professional astronomer would.

During the daytime, internationally known scientists spoke on current scientific topics, including the latest NASA space missions. Students explored the diverse geology and ecology of Mt. Lemmon through hiking and outdoor demonstrations. At night, student research groups observed celestial objects using the 16-inch Schmidt telescope and the 40- and 60-inch telescopes equipped with cameras as well as a photometer, CCD imager, and spectrograph.

The Astronomy Camp helps students develop scientific skills of experimentation and data collection by using some of the many facilities which have given Tucson the title "Astronomy Capital of the World." Daily lectures on scientific topics of current interest were also presented. This program was combined with a number of other activities relating to the unique environment of the Southwestern Desert.

Advanced Astronomy Camp is offered to 13-19 year olds. Neubert and the other students were housed on Mt. Lemmon for the entire week to allow maximum time on the telescopes. Each team completed a research project to present to the group. Research activities included astronomical photography, spectroscopy, electric photometry, and CCD imaging for studies involving variable stars, spectral classification, and asteroid orbit determination.

A day trip to observatories on Kitt Peak or Mt. Graham was also included. Sun workstations, along with IBM and MAC computers, were available for image processing, planning nighttime observations, calculating the visible passes of orbiting satellites, and accessing CD-ROM images.

This year's main topic was Cosmology, the branch of astronomy dealing with the origin, structure, and space-time relationships of the universe.

The local student has been on high honor roll every semester, has attended NASA Space Academy in Huntsville, and has attended several summer programs through the Center for Talented Youth at Johns Hopkins University. Last year, he was a member of Northern's junior varsity soccer and the freshman basketball team, receiving two Minds in Motion awards, and has participated in community soccer leagues.

Rep. Bartlett Receives Tax Fighter Award

District V1 Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has been presented with the Tax Fighter Award from the National Tax-Limitation Committee for his votes cast during the 104th Congress.

"Congressman Bartlett compiled a voting score of 98%, which earned him an 'A' in the effort to cut taxes and limit government spending," stated a committee spokesperson. "We calculated this score based on our analysis of more than 1,100 recorded votes in the House of Representatives during the past 18 months. We selected 40 votes that deal specifically with taxes and spending, and rated each congressman's record accordingly."

Considered in the rating were votes on such issues as the balanced budget amendment and reductions in federal spending.

COVER STORY

High Incident role long overdue for David Keith

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Steven Spielberg

David Keith has waited a long time for a part like the one he has in High Incident. But he wasn't really looking for a series role when this one came along.

With a resume that includes a supporting role in the 1982 blockbuster An Officer and a Gentleman, plus a couple of forgettable TV series, Keith had seen his screen career taper off in recent years.

"This (part) kind of found me," he says of High Incident, a police drama set in suburban Southern California. "With (Steven) Spielberg attached (as an executive producer), and the great writing and Charlie Haid (Hill Street Blues) directing, it was just too good to pass up."

One of Keith's agents encouraged him to audition for the central role of Sgt. Jim Marsh.

"I wasn't interested in doing a dramatic show because I had visions of having no life," Keith says, referring to the notoriously long days actors work when they star in hourlong dramatic series.

"But because this is an ensemble piece, there are four other stories besides mine going on in any given episode. So I usually have time off every week. You don't get tired; you feel like you're always fresh.

"Of course, I'm saying that now. Hopefully it will run five years. I hope it runs long enough to get tired of it."

After debuting last winter, Incident had a long spring hiatus as ABC mulled the reasons for its tepid ratings. In the end, the show was renewed for fall. It began airing in its permanent Thursday berth during July. The renewal gave Keith the first chance he's ever had to develop a character over more than a few weeks' time.

"The arc for a character in a television series is much different from the arc you draw for a character in a film," he says. "At the end of a two-hour film he has to have gone from one place to another.

"With this, at the end of six months you should see a change. Marsh will learn and change at the same rate a person does in real life."

In the opening episodes, Marsh is driven by a sense of duty on the job, yet hounded by failures in his personal life.

"In a lot of ways," Keith notes, "it's the kind of cop I would be if I was a cop. Kind of no-nonsense and cut-to-the-chase.

"There's no controlling Jim Marsh. Nobody's going to nail him down. I think commitment is a problem for him."

That would account for Marsh's three divorces. But, Keith is quick to add, there has been "a daughter with each marriage. That's the highlight of his life.

"His three daughters are everything to him. They're his trophies that show he did do something right."

Keith enjoys the thoroughly suburban milieu of High Incident, which uses real-life cul-de-sacs for its frequent location shooting.

"If you look at most of Steven (Spielberg)'s movies," Keith notes, "they have that suburban theme. That's where he came from.

"Suburbia is all supposed to be hunky-dory. But this (series) shows what suburbia is really like.

"Just open your mind," he advises, "and let us come in and play there."

Avery Brooks, artistic director of the National Black Arts Festival, hosts a one-hour special featuring highlights of this year's event. The Ark of the Spirit premieres Monday, Aug. 5, on TBS.

The 10-day festival showcases the work of 1,500 artists of African descent in such endeavors as music, dance, theater, literature and the visual arts.

The special includes excerpts from the theatrical performance of Having Our Say.

USA's Hearts Adrift is a sweet summer treat

By Roberta C. Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

Hearts Adrift is the stuff of summer. Its cotton-candy plot skips across the surface to make it a perfect summer movie.

Like the beach treat spun of sugar and air, the story is at times a little too sweet and sticky, but colorful all the same.

And, like skipping a stone at a lake's edge, the viewer pretty much knows which direction the story will take and where it will finish, but that doesn't make viewing it less enjoyable.

Hearts Adrift, debuting Wednesday, Aug. 7, on USA Network, tells the story of Grace Deerfield (Kathleen Noone), an attractive widow, and her daughter, Maxine (Sydney Penny). Grace hovers over Maxine, who yearns to leave the small lakeside town where she has lived her entire life. When Grace receives an invitation to spend the weekend in California, Maxine thinks they both should go.

The invitation is from Grace's high-school sweetheart, Lloyd Raines (Don Murray), whom Grace left 30 years earlier. Grace's curiosity and Maxine's sense of adventure lead them to accept.

The glittering world of Lloyd and his son, Kyle (Scott Reeves), dazzles and intimidates Maxine. But Grace, who was raised in similar surroundings, cautions her.

During the weekend, both mother and daughter get a new perspective on their relationships with each other and with the men in their lives.

In other words, Hearts Adrift is a story of True Love and What's Important in Life.

Nicholas Coster plays Grace's patient suitor back home.

Scott Reeves and Sydney Penny star in Hearts Adrift, the story of a mother and daughter learning lessons about life and love. It premieres Wednesday on USA Network.

Peri Gilpin

Q: Did Peri Gilpin (Roz on Frasier) provide the voice of the radio doctor, Marcia Fieldstone, in Sleepless in Seattle? If not, who was it? –Tim Curran, Long Beach, Calif.

A: Caroline Aaron provided the voice of Dr. Fieldstone.

Incidentally, if you think Gilpin's Roz on Frasier sounds authentic, there's good reason for it. She's the daughter of the late Jack O'Brien, a nationally known broadcaster.

Q: What is going on with Forever Knight? Is this the end of the series? –M.T. Shepherd, Girard, Pa.

A: Yes. As of this writing, Knight is not scheduled to return next season.

Q: What is the name of the police show from the '70s with Dennis Cole? –Mrs. A. Meola, Haledon, N.J.

A: Cole starred with Howard Duff in Felony Squad, which ran on ABC from Sept. 12, 1966, to Jan. 31, 1969.

Q: Which network aired Barney Miller? Is there a reason why it is never shown on TV? –J. Mayhew, Mashpee, Mass.

A: Barney Miller ran on ABC from Jan. 23, 1975, to Sept. 9, 1982. It is readily available in syndication to any interested station and does air in many parts of the country.

Q: Can you identify the title and composer of the song performed by the Mounties in an episode of Due South late in the season? The hook line was "We're gonna ride forever." –Phil Lane, Bainbridge, Ind.

A: The song, "Ride Forever," was written by South star Paul Gross, who performs it on the new Due South soundtrack album.

Q: There was a doctor show on TV years before Dr. Kildare and Ben Casey. I believe it starred Richard Boone. What was it? –J.S., Turners Falls, Mass.

A: Boone starred in Medic, a landmark drama that ran on NBC from Sept. 13, 1954, to Nov. 19, 1956. To heighten the sense of realism, the series was filmed in actual hospitals and clinics and used actual doctors and nurses as part of the cast.

Q: Is the actress who plays Yetta, Fran Fine's grandmother, on The Nanny the same lady who played Millie Helper on The Dick Van Dyke Show? The voice is similar. –Joanne Hart, Oil City, Pa.

A: Yes, Ann Morgan Guilbert played both roles.

Q: Please print the address of Cannell Entertainment Inc. –Mrs. F.M. Pike, Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

A: Cannell Entertainment Inc., 7083 Hollywood Blvd., Fourth Floor, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

SOAP TALK

AMC, GL, B&B make some casting changes

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Lee Meriwether

All My Children has surprised fans by replacing Mary Fickett with Lee Meriwether in the role of Ruth.

Fickett retired from the role a few months ago. The producers originally were going to find a new love interest for Joe (Ray MacDonnell).

AMC decided to take a different route and hired Meriwether to take over the role.

Meriwether, Miss America 1955, was a regular on Barnaby Jones, played Catwoman on Batman and has been in several TV movies.

In other casting news: Guiding Light producers were faced with the daunting task of finding someone to take over the role of Alan-Michael when Rick Hearst decided to vacate the role.

Michael Dietz was selected to replace Hearst. Fans may recognize Dietz from his stint as Greg on Beverly Hills, 90210. Greg was the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center resident who dated Kelly (Jennie Garth).

Fans were not happy about Hearst's departure, but it was the actor's choice to leave. He said he thought it was time to move on to other things.

Ken Hanes (Mike Guthrie) is back on The Bold and the Beautiful. Mike will be helping Sheila (Kimberlin Brown) with her latest diabolical plan.

When he left town, Mike wasn't too happy with Sheila. But it looks as if all may be forgiven – at least for now.

Dear Candace: I would like to respond to reader Patrick Hirang's comments about Brooke (Katherine Kelly Lang) on B&B.

Hirang should go through the history of the women on B&B before he begins slamming them.

The entire story of how Brooke became a Forrester renders Hirang's comments pathetic. There is a reason Brooke's only friend is a superleaze like Sheila. Hirang is a bleeding heart for a pretty face. –California Fan of Soap Talk.

Dear Reader: Thank you. It's good to know someone has been paying attention all these years. New fans of B&B aren't familiar with Brooke's past.

The fact both of her children were fathered by her boyfriend's father, Eric (John McCook), should give viewers some kind of clue.

Maryland Wins Top Recognition For Reporting

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said that, while the eyes of the world are on the Olympics in Atlanta, Maryland has won what amounts to the gold medal for top performance in government financial reporting.

The Government Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada (GFOA) awarded the state of Maryland on July 23 the highest form of praise for its government accounting and financial reporting, recognizing the fiscal year 1995 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report prepared by the State Comptroller's Office.

"Maryland has now won the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting 16 years in a row, " Goldstein stated. "We'll be taking another important step later this year by placing our fiscal year 1996 Comprehensive Annual Financial Statement online for users of the World Wide Web. This will add even more to the confidence in and accessibility of Maryland's financial information. That's important for investors and taxpayers as well."

The comptroller noted that the independent, professional recognition by the GFOA is the pinnacle of respect in the financial community. The award is bestowed on only a select number of government units and only after rigorous review of their published financial statements.

Maryland and Tennessee were the first two states to win the coveted award for GFOA. As recently as 1987, only seven states received the certificate.

"The Certificate of Achievement is a pillar of confidence. It means that independent experts believe our financial statements tell taxpayers and investors the whole truth about Maryland's finances," Goldstein added. "The importance the states place in the confidence inspired by the award can be seen in the growing number of states now working to meet the stringent requirements. Last year 28 states were recognized. "The award is also one factor in Maryland's triple A General Obligation bond rating, the best you can get. That triple A rating has saved $65 million in interest costs in the past eight years," he said.

In awarding the certificate, the government finance officers group said Maryland's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report "has been judged by an impartial panel to meet the high standards of the program including demonstrating a constructive spirit of full disclosure..."

The Government Finance Officers Association also presented its Award of Financial Reporting Achievement to Comptroller Goldstein, recognizing him as primarily responsible for the state earning its certificate.

"We hope that your example will encourage other government officials in their efforts to achieve and maintain an appropriate standard of excellence in financial reporting," wrote Stephen Gauthier, director of the Technical Services Center at GFOA headquarters in Chicago.

"For many years," Comptroller Goldstein said, "Maryland has been a leader in responding to the rapidly changing demands of the bond market and protecting our triple A General Obligation bond rating. This has saved our taxpayers millions of dollars in interest costs."

Maryland was a leader in publishing detailed financial disclosure statements prior to bond sales and in establishing a Capital Debt Affordability Committee to closely monitor the state's debt and make yearly debt authorization recommendations to the General Assembly. Maryland was also the leading state in converting its accounting procedures to generally accepted accounting principles and contracting with a national accounting firm to make annual independent audits of the state's books.

"Maryland was also the first state in the United States to publish an annual financial report with the opinion of the independent outside accounting firm included in it," Goldstein said. "This award from the Government Finance Officer's Association is an important achievement for all Marylanders, made possible with the cooperation of the governor and legislature of our state."

The Government Finance Officers Association is a nonprofit professional association serving 12,625 government finance professionals.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM IN FULL SWING - The Ruth Enlow Library's summer reading program is in full swing at all five branches and is open to all school age children. The theme is "Read for Fun, Adventure, and Information." One of the recent endeavors of the participating children was chalk drawing on the sidewalk in front of the Oakland branch. Some of that hard work is pictured here. The program sessions are held each week as follows: Accident, Thursdays, 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Friendsville, Thursdays, 10:30-11:30 a.m.; Grantsville, Thursdays, 1-2 p.m.; Kitzmiller, Thursdays, 10:30-11:30 a.m.; and Oakland, Wednesdays, 2-3 p.m. The program is sponsored this year by The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library, the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, McDonald's, and Hobby House Press. In other library news, donations are being accepted for a subscription to Value Line. The library will match $250 to every $250 in donations. For information about supporting the effort, persons should contact Emily Ferren at 334-3936.

Dry Hydrant Installed In Eastern Garrett

The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department has installed a second dry hydrant in the fire service area. The first hydrant was located on McKenzie Road at the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 40. The recent hydrant was installed on Happy Hills Lane on the farm of Senator John Hafer.

"We can not get too many dry hydrants in our rural areas, as these devices make water supply much easier" stated Eastern Garrett Chief Jim Raley. The dry hydrant works on the concept of pumping from a piece of fire apparatus, however the hydrant location makes the supply much more convenient in an emergency situation. "Many ponds and dams are inaccessible to heavy fire units, so the dry hydrant pipes the water to a location near a hard surface road or driveway thus making it accessible under all weather conditions." Raley concluded.

The price of a dry hydrant is usually around $500 and Eastern Garrett has been encouraging the installation at a shared cost between the property owner and the fire department. Jesse Opel, who headed the dry hydrant project, said, "The FOP and Senator Hafer stated their willingness to help pay for the location of the hydrants on their properties, so we ordered the materials through Garry Morfoot at Soil Conservation and got them in place."

Anyone in the Eastern Garrett area interested in a dry hydrant should contact Chief Raley at 689-5431.

Friendsville Playground Built By AmeriCorps

A Star! in Western Maryland AmeriCorps members recently constructed a playground at the Garrett County Community Action Head Start Center in Friendsville with the assistance of the Frostburg State University Foundation. The three-day project supported AmeriCorps' goal of "getting things done for our neighbors, with our neighbors."

Members of Friendsville United Methodist Church also joined in on the first day of service for the Friendsville community. When the designated play area was "dug out," Missy White, coordinator of Community Action in Friendsville, noted the "overwhelming teamwork" from all groups involved.

"By the time (the digging) was accomplished, a full day had been put in by all," says White.

Day two of the event, AmeriCorps workers were joined by members of the Western Maryland Conservation Corps who marked off the area, continued digging, and assembled the playset. By the third day, workers started early in the morning at 7:30 a.m. and volunteers constructed the equipment and mulched the surrounding area before "Mother Nature' stepped in. However, the change in weather didn't dampen community spirit, White said.

"About a half an hour after members began to mulch, heavy downpours were upon us," said Ms. White. "But members worked non-stop in the rain to complete this playground in time for the dedication."

The teams "dedication" paid off and the site was ready for the 1 p.m. ceremony. The rain ended and Delegate George Edwards, Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, AmeriCorps leader Steve Brillon, and CAC's Head Start Director Dawn Ross all gave thanks to AmeriCorps and the volunteers from Friendsville.

"With the completion of the playground, AmeriCorps members, service learning volunteers and all others involved left the Friendsville Head Start Center with a little more enrichment in their lives,' said White. "Knowing that something good was done in their community, and they contributed to it."

A Star! in Western Maryland is comprised of AmeriCorps members in Allegany and Garrett counties. For more information, persons may call the FSU Office at (301) 687-7599.

Video Production At FSU Features Deep Creek Lake

The sites, businesses, and residences around Deep Creek Lake are the locations for a television drama that is currently being created by a group of area television producers.

Grainy Picture Productions, in conjunction with TV-3 in McHenry, is busy shooting scenes for "The Cat Burglar," a detective story developed by Cliff Everett and Frostburg State University Professor Jorn Bramann. Everett, a former police officer and private investigator, experienced most of the episodes used in the story. Bramann, a philosophy professor, brings to the production his expertise as a writer and video director. Both Everett and Bramann had previous work cablecast by TV-3.

Cast and production crew consist of local talent. Tyler, the central character of "The Cat Burglar." is played by Cliff Everett. The leading roles of fellow-officers and citizens on the "wrong side of the law" are played by David Press, Shawn "Mooney" Spiker, Susie Garner, Betty Ambuel, Jim Garner, and Kathy LaChance. In real life, Jim Garner is director of TV-3, while David Press not only teaches at FSU, but also is a well-known director of numerous local stage productions.

Small roles are played by such well-known area performers as Jane Avery, FSU's WFWM station manager Rene Atkinson, David Cartwright, and many others. It is one of the aims of "The Cat Burglar" to incorporate many area residents and establishments.

"We are proud to be local," said Bramann, who is in charge of the production. "We have enough talent and naturally beautiful sites to produce memorable shows without much help from outside sources. There is no need to be unduly mesmerized by Hollywood and other exotic places we can become active in our own world."

"The Cat Burglar" does not try to copy the style of commercial television, Bramann said. It has developed its own style. The story tries to stay within the range of ordinary human activities. "The form of the detective story doesn't have to be filled with gaudy distractions," Bramann insists. "It can be filled with the more quiet intensity of real life."

Another notable aspect of the production of "The Cat Burglar, " he said, is its low cost. "Video, in contrast to film, is not capital-intensive. In a time when motion picture productions are calculated in millions of dollars, it is the ambition of Grainy Picture Productions to show that zero-budget productions are a realistic possibility and does not affect its artistic merit," Bramann said.

Landfill Staffer Completes Course

After successfully completing a four day landfill management course and examination conducted by the Solid Waste Association of North America in Cleveland, Ohio, Randy DiSimone, Crellin-Underwood Road, received certification as a manager of landfill operations.

The course covered a range of landfill management topics including waste screening, leachate management, landfill gas management, environmental monitoring, safety, and equipment maintenance, among others.

Disimone transferred from the Garrett County Roads Department to the county office of solid waste and recycling in July, 1994, where he played an important role in preparing and opening the new landfill and refuse collection sites in late August of that year. On January 1, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners promoted DiSimone to assistant manager of landfill operations.

DiSimone graduated from Southern High School in 1974 and received an AA degree from Garrett Community College in 1976. He resides with his wife, Cheryl, and his 10-year-old twin daughters Sara and Stephanie. He plays on the Garrett Softball Old Timers' League, the Mt. Top Basketball League, and the Wednesday Night Civic Bowling League. He and his family attend Crellin United Brethren Church.

Read. Then Recycle.

DISIMONE TAKES PART IN LANDFILL CLASS - The Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week announced that Randy DiSimone recently completed the landfill management course of the Solid Waste Association of North America and, after passing an examination, received his certification as a manager of landfill operations. DiSimone currently serves as assistant manager of landfill operations for Garrett County. See story.

HOW TO REMOVE MOLD AND MILDEW

The wet weather we are experiencing has brought problems with mold and mildew to the attention of many homeowners.

Eliminating mold and mildew is not difficult if the requirements for spore growth is understood. Mold and mildew multiply via spores. Spores are always in the air, but can only grow under specific conditions. Spores need humidity, prefer darkness, poorly ventilated closets and similar locations. They like soil, dust, grease, grow on anything, textiles, leather, wood, paper, even synthetics. They cause stains and eventually destroy the material they are on. Spores move with air and, if there is mildew in the area, an unpleasant musty odor can be detected.

To prevent mold and mildew, keep a home clean and well ventilated. Since cold air often is dryer than warm air, ventilate early morning or evening, not always during the day. Open closet and other doors, employ an electric fan to help speed the air exchange. Even before a musty odor is detected periodically empty all boxes and drawers. Put all washable materials into the washing machine, add chlorox which kills spores. Hang other items out in the sun which has disinfecting properties. Hang the remaining articles to thoroughly air out. Make sure clothing in closets is hung loosely, suitcases, shoes and similar items should be stored off the floor (put a rack under them). Using an electric fan can be a good investment.

Discard any emptied boxes since they cannot be cleaned sufficiently and get new ones from stores. Remove old, soft, and damp wood (as may be found in basements).

Except for during the cold season, a small electric light burning in the closet can be enough to keep the closet dry. This also makes warm air rise and contributes to the air circulation. Mildew inducing dampness can be prevented by periodically turning on the heat. Open the windows to let the moisture-laden air escape.

Electric dehumidifiers may prove to be useful. Chemical moisture absorbers are also available. Silica gel, calcium chloride and similar products can be bought in drugstores, department stores and building supply dealers. These products can absorb half of their weight in water, be dried and re-used an unlimited number of times. The granules may contain dye and change color when they need drying. Keep all of these products out of the reach of children and use them according to directions.

If at the first detection of a musty odor the above steps are taken, it will take care of the problem. Waiting until the smell will go away by itself will probably create serious problems later. Just heating the house, opening all the doors and airing it out thoroughly will minimize any potential damage. Any family members allergic to spores will necessitate the most careful ob-servation and spraying with commercial spore and mold and mildew killer. It is not a difficult job except for procrastinators. For more information on cleaning specific items, please contact me, Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, Cooperative Extension Service, 202 South Third St., Oakland, MD 21550. Phone (301) 334-1990. Hospital CEO Among Garrett Reps To AHEC

Walter Donalson, recently appointed president and chief executive officer at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, is the newest Garrett County representative serving on the Board of Directors of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC). As a Board member, Donalson's duties include providing oversight and approval of the operation of the community-based organization whose primary purpose is to address the health care needs of Maryland's three westernmost counties through health professional education.

Donalson is one of three Garrett County representatives currently on the Western Maryland AHEC's Board of Directors. Rex Archer, health officer at Garrett County Health Department, and William Yant, a dentist with Oakland's Dental Health Group, continue to serve as members.

Donald Spencer, AHEC executive director, said "Health care and consumer representatives from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties are vital participants in all aspects of the AHEC organization. Without their input and support we could not accomplish our mission." That mission is to improve access to and promote quality in health care through educational partnerships with centers for higher education, community health professionals, and other vital supporters and advocates, he added.

"We believe that community networking, particularly in rural areas, is an important way to share resources and enhance the service delivery of all institutions to the people of the region," Spencer said. Over the past 20 years, the Western Maryland AHEC has been instrumental in helping to make health care better by fostering networks, offering continuing education, coordinating clinical education and outreach degree programs, and providing learning resource services for health professionals and students.

Several Garrett County health professionals were among those recognized recently by the Western Maryland AHEC for their contributions to the organization. Heidi Leuking, former hospital pharmacist, and Benjamin Rosenthal, former hospital administrator, both received outstanding service awards.

Other local health care practitioners were recognized for serving as clinical preceptors to students. Dr. Patricia Gotsch, Dr. Barbra Burkett, and Gerard Herpel, a local pharmacist, received certificates of appreciation Additionally, Doctors Robert Goralski and Karl Schwalm received certificates of faculty appointment as clinical instructor of family medicine, and Dr. Margaret Kaiser as clinical assistant professor of medicine, with the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

New Diet Drug Curbs Carbohydrate Craving

Recently the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved a new prescription medicine for the treatment of obesity. Studies indicate that this medicine suppresses the appetite, especially for carbohydrate type foods. This helps lower the total amount of calories consumed. Research has shown that dexfenfluramine affects appetite by increasing the amount of a chemical in the brain called serotonin. Increased serotonin is reported to produce feelings of satisfaction and stomach fullness. Some persons indicate they "feel full more quickly" when taking the drug than when they are not.

Dexfenfluramine is intended for those with significant weight problems—persons without chronic health problems whose weight is 30 percent or more above their ideal weight. The other group for whom the drug is intended is persons with high blood pressure or diabetics whose weight is at least 20 percent above ideal weight.

Common side effects of dexfenfluramine include tiredness, dry mouth, and diarrhea. Other possible side effects include drowsiness, mood disorders, and sleep problems. The manufacturer has agreed to work with the FDA in collecting data about other, less frequent, but more serious problems that have been reported.

Senior Citizen Day Slated For County Ag. Fair

The annual senior citizen day at the Garrett County Agricultural Fair has been slated for Friday, Aug. 16. All seniors possessing a senior pass will receive free admission to the fair on that day until 5 p.m.

The Kitchenaire Band and senior dance team from Morgantown, W.Va., directed by Betty Hart, will perform at 1 p.m. The group has a 20-year history of exhibiting senior talent, a spokesperson said.

An apple peeling contest will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the 4-H building. The competitor with the longest unbroken peel will be declared the winner, and three prizes will be awarded.

The contest is open to persons of any age, and will not be timed. Participants must supply their own paring knives and pans. Apples will be furnished.

Two Arrested By DNR At Swallow Falls State Park

Two individuals were arrested by rangers of the Department of Natural Resources at Swallow Falls State Park last Friday. Charged were Michael R. Curran, 19, Timonium, and Frank J. Hamilton Jr., 19, Baltimore.

The rangers had entered the defendants' campsite at about 11:30 p.m. to enforce the 11 p.m. quiet hour, according to a DNR press release. The two teenagers were charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Following a bond hearing on Saturday, Curran and Hamilton were released on their own recognizance.

Jury Finds One Defendant Guilty, Another Innocent

Two individuals were each tried by a jury of their peers last week in Garrett County Circuit Court, with one being found guilty and the other innocent. Judge Gary Leasure presided at one trial and Judge J. Frederick Sharer at the other.

David L. Denicola, 34, Oakland, was found guilty of theft. Judge Leasure ordered a pre-sentence investigation and continued Denicola's bail, according to the court report.

According to the report, the defendant was employed by Shaffer Ford Sales and had done work on a transmission for a vehicle owned by Donald M. Mannick. He apparently charged Mannick $2,000 for the repairs, although the vehicle was still under warranty. Shaffer Ford Sales did not receive the $2,000, and Denicola allegedly cashed the check and kept the money. An investigation was initiated after a clerk at Shaffer Ford happened upon Mannick at a local store and discovered in conversation that he had been charged by Denicola. She then checked the records and discovered the apparent deception.

In a separate case, the jury found a Uniontown, Pa., man not guilty of three charges filed against him seven years ago. Millard N. Fisher III, 26, faced one count each of malicious destruction of property, theft, and breaking and entering a storehouse. Judge Sharer presided at last week's hearing.

Fisher had originally been accused of breaking into a barn owned by Marlin Lawson, Friendsville, and damaging three refrigerator coolers. The incident occurred in July 1989.

TROPHY TO ROTATE AGAIN - The Gerald Glotfelty Rotating Command Trophy will again change hands in the near future as horses and riders vie for the honor at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The award, created in recognition of Glotfelty's contributions to the fairgrounds, is presented each year to the winner of an equestrian open command competition. Pictured above is last year's winner, Oakland resident Liz Sisler-Wagner, with Ladd, a 26-year-old gelding owned by her husband, Jody. Sisler-Wagner is the daughter of Glenn and Janet Sisler, Friendsville.

NMPF Launches Dairy Initiatives

The Board of Directors of the National Milk Producers Federation announced last week several key initiatives designed to strengthen the dairy industry's ability to navigate the challenges of a global economy.

The initiatives address the need for innovation in marketing, trade negotiations, environmental regulations, animal health, and in particular, the need to forge a new relationship with the federal government.

At a meeting in Washington, the board voted to adopt the following resolution: "The National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) Board of Directors is committed to be an effective and efficiently restructured producer-owned cooperative trade association.

"NMPF will be positively positioned to meet the many challenges that the dairy industry faces as we transition from the federal dairy programs of the past to achieve success in domestic and global marketing in the future."

According to Tom Camerlo, president of NMPF, this resolution is just the first of several concrete steps the organization is taking to lead the dairy industry as it adjusts to a changing economic reality.

In response to recent changes in federal support and trade restrictions, the NMPF Executive Committee introduced significant proposals that will further enable the organization to develop and carry out policies that promote and increase economic well-being for dairy producers and their cooperatives. Specifically, these include:

• Creating a Blue Ribbon Task Force to examine the classified pricing and pooling system of marketing milk and to make recommendations to counteract the effects of the recent farm bill;

• Positioning dairy farmers to benefit from potentially expanding trade opportunities by working to develop new export markets;

• Conducting a major survey to determine feeding practices among dairy producers, which will assist NMPF in working with the USDA and the Food & Drug Administration to protect animal health;

• Proceeding with ongoing efforts to work with the USDA to allocate funds to dairy farmers as regulations for the Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQUIP) are drafted.

Harvest Progresses Despite Rain

For the week ending July 28, vegetable harvest made moderate gains despite repeated rain showers. However, the precipitation hindered hay harvest and is leading to disease concerns in vegetables. The percent of field corn silking increased considerably from last week, as did the percent in dough. The crop condition was rated two percent poor, 15 percent fair, 51 percent good, and 32 percent excellent.

Soybeans in bloom gained over last week but continued to lag behind both last year and the five year average. The crop was five percent poor, 16 percent fair, 55 percent good, and 24 percent excellent.

The percent of sorghum heading lagged behind the previous year and average. The condition was one percent very poor, one percent poor, 10 percent fair, 69 percent good, and 19 percent excellent.

The percent of tobacco in bloom made heavy gains over the previous week and was ahead of average. The condition was three percent poor, 12 percent fair, 73 percent good, and 12 percent excellent.

Rye harvest progressed from last week and was running just ahead of the normal pace.

The wheat harvest was almost complete, equal to the five-year average.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay continued to progress but was hampered by rain. Second cuttings of other hay and alfalfa were behind average, while third cuttings of other hay were ahead of average.

Pastures were one percent very poor, two percent poor, nine percent fair, 72 percent good, and 16 percent excellent.

Hay supplies were mostly adequate. Apples were one percent very poor, nine percent poor, 21 percent fair, 59 percent good, and 10 percent excellent. Peaches were 20 percent very poor, five percent poor, 13 percent fair, 51 percent good, and 11 percent excellent.

Topsoil moisture was one percent short, 68 percent adequate, and 31 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was one percent short, 78 percent adequate, and 21 percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 4.6 days suitable for fieldwork.

MARYLAND FORESTS

by Patrice Jastrzembski

Trees are constantly fighting a battle with the elements for survival. Winter's wind and summer's droughts alternately test trees through the seasons. Besides contending with the natural elements, a tree's health is often threatened by disease, fungi, insects, and aggressive vines.

Many species of climbing vines are capable of suppressing growth, and even killing trees. Vines can cause damage in several ways.

Vines compete with trees for water and sunlight. Many vines send out many runners into the soil to seek any available water. When vines grow atop a tree, they cause shade, which may suppress photosynthesis, weakening and killing the tree. Vines growing along the ground often inhibit new plants from sprouting, affecting normal plant succession.

The weight of a vine can cause twigs and branches to twist and break, deforming the tree's shape. this affects the tree's wind resistance. Vine-covered branches are in the greatest danger of snapping off in strong winds or heavy snows.

Stems and tendrils of some vines grow in tight coils around twigs and small trunks, causing deformity and constriction as the tree grows.

Grapevine, Japanese honeysuckle, and kudzu are the most destructive vines to North American forest trees. Grapevine is a species native to the United States; Japanese honeysuckle and kudzu are species that were introduced from Asia.

Vines grow best in full sun. Some vines are enjoyed in maintained gardens. If given the chance, most vines will quickly colonize old fields, forest openings and edges. Species other than the three mentioned above that can affect forest tree growth include bittersweet, Virginia creeper, English ivy, wisteria, and poison ivy.

Kudzu is a leguminous vine originally from Southeast Asia. It was introduced to the Southeast United States for use as erosion control and for livestock forage. Kudzu soon took over other vegetation. Today kudzu is found growing from Texas to Illinois and all states to the east.

Kudzu stems can grow longer than 50 feet. It will entwine and grow on any object. The vine will root wherever the stem contacts the soil.

Japanese honeysuckle is an evergreen vine. It has become naturalized throughout the eastern United States south of Pennsylvania.

Japanese honeysuckle is harmful to the forest by interfering with the re-establishment of trees after harvest. The vines grow quickly along the ground shading out any sprouting young trees.

There are at least 15 species of grapevines that can grow wild in the United States. Grapevines climb trees by tendrils that encircle twigs or small branches. The tendrils eventually die and break. The main stem of the vine then hangs from the canopy. Grapevines compete with trees for water and can create too much shade for the tree to survive. Grapevine tendrils can constrict twigs and small stems, limiting the establishment of young plants.

Preventive measures to keep introduced vine out of the forest are the best defense. Once established, the battle between vines and trees is often fierce. Chemical treatments are usually futile, and physical removal of vines may be the only way to win the war.

Haul Hogs At Night, Expert Says

Now that summer is here and temperatures are reaching higher and higher, pork producers should remember those added degrees can be deadly to hogs during transport.

Good timing is critical when moving livestock during these warm months, because some studies say death losses can double on especially hot days.

Hauling animals at night or in the early morning, away from the hot sun, is the surest way to avoid losses, advised John Parker, program director of the Virginia Pork Industry Board.

Loading and unloading hogs as quickly as possible is very important, he said, because heat builds up in stationary vehicles. The less time the animals spend in the back of the truck the better, so producers should try to make trips short.

"Put a small layer of sand in the base of the truck and then wet the sand," advised Parker. "That seems to help. Air movement is also important, so you really need racks or sides (on your vehicle) that allow free air movement."

Gail Herman To Offer Workshops

Dr. Gail Herman will conduct four workshops in storytelling, mime, and "the kinetic kaleidoscope" at Garrett Community College on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 14 and 15.

The seminars are being sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) as part of Art-Works '96, the council's summer workshop program. Prior registration is required. Persons may call 387-3121 to enroll in a workshop.

Herman is a member of the National Storytelling Association, the author of Storytelling: A Triad in the Arts, and the co-author of Kinetic Kaleidoscope: Exploring Movement and Energy in Visual Arts. She's taught courses in the art of storytelling at many colleges and universities and has presented storytelling workshops throughout the U.S. and abroad. She has also produced two cassette tapes and created a cable television show titled The Storyteller.

Herman's first workshop, titled Story Structures for Telling and Writing, is slated for August 14 from 9 a.m. to noon. The workshop is for adults and high school seniors interested in learning and practicing story structures for oral and written presentation. The enrollment fee is $15.

Herman will also present a workshop titled Storytelling from Start to Finish on August 14 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The enrollment fee has been set at $10.

A workshop titled Kinetic Kaleidoscope: Exploring the Visual Arts through Energy, Movement, and Sound will be conducted by Herman on August 15 from 9 a.m. to noon. Participants will study what Herman calls "the sense of energy in the visual arts" through percussion instruments, movement, and other activities. The workshop fee is $10.

"This is a great session for families and children accompanied by adults," Herman said.

Herman will present a workshop on mime for adults and children ages 9 and older on August 15 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. The fee is $10.

Participants in the mime course will have the opportunity to perform as street mimes in an August 30 event in Oakland sponsored by the Greater Oakland Business Association. However, this additional activity is optional.

Further information on these and other GCAC summer arts workshops is available at all locations of the Ruth Enlow Library as well as by calling the council at 387-3121.

Dye Released In Little Yough

The Maryland Department of the Environment conducted a dye release in the Little Youghiogheny River on Sunday as part of a routine water quality survey. The purpose of the release is to determine the time of travel of the stream flow, a MDE spokesperson explained.

"The dye, rhodamine, is a harmless red pigment also used in cosmetics," the spokesperson said. "The dye is approved for consumption, and it can be used in drinking water systems. The milk of dairy cows will not be discolored by the dye. The dye pigment dissolves in sunlight."

Because the release is dependent on stream flow, alternate release dates may occur within the first two weeks of August. However, no further notifications will be given by the MDE for these releases.

This is a feature of The Republican to better acqnaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Country Accents

by Nathan Raybeck

There is a store right in the heart of Kingwood that combines the work of West Virginia's finest craft makers with the quality and affordable clothing of a consignment shop and its owners could not be happier with the combination.

Judith Livengood owns the craft section of the store. Country Accents, offers crafts and various other collectibles from all over the state.

"All the crafts in the store are made by West Virginians," said Livengood, adding that her store has many unique things.

According to Livengood, the store features collector baskets, handmade dolls, a dry and silk floral section, homemade jewelry made by a veterinarian from Masontown, clocks and other woodwork made solely by a man in St. George that uses only a scroll saw, hand painted table legs and dried gourds hand painted in the shape of jolly old St. Nicholas.

The store has been in operation for more than two years and a birthday celebration is planned for the early part of September. Livengood said she got the idea for the store in Pennsylvania and that the support and encouragement she got from friends and family was outstanding. The store is just something you have to come and see to get the full effect, she said.

Other West Virginian artisans may contact Livengood at 304-329-0275 if they have goods they would like to sell.

"This (the store) gives crafts people a place to sell their crafts without having to be there," she said.

Livingood's counterpart, Connie Finamore, said that consignment shops are up and coming and she believes that there is a future for her shop. Kids Korner Plus, in Preston County. She said the shop has been open for three years, but she has only been running it for a year.

During a trip to California, Finamore saw many different types of consignment stores, and when the store in Kingwood went up for sale she decided to act. Her shop sells "gently worn" children's clothing, sizes 0-16, women's clothing, and accessories. She went on to say that everything she has is pretty much in style and that she takes only quality items, which all come from cosigners.

Finamore keeps all items for 90 days and then, if they do not sell, she will donate all items to local charities, such as the Raymond Wolfe center and the crisis pregnancy center. Finamore said that 40 percent of what she sells goes right back to the cosigner, and that it is important for people to realize that this is not a thrift shop.

"We do not just take anything," said Finamore. "We try carefully to check everything because we know that people want clothes they can wear and people want quality goods at affordable prices and that is what we try to give them."

Finamore said that the lack of places to go clothes shopping in Kingwood was another reason for her taking over the business.

"There are not many clothing stores here and this gives a person a place, locally, to shop for clothes. With the economy in the shape it is in, this gives people a place to shop for good clothes at unbeatable prices."

To find out more about the store, persons may stop by, or call 304-329-1679. Both stores are open Tuesday-Friday form 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from noon to 2 p.m.

SQUADS RECEIVE DONATIONS - The Agricultural Care and Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett County Health Department, and Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) donated funds to the Terra Alta Ambulance Squad and the Union Ambulance Service in Aurora, W.Va., to assist in defraying the costs of Automatic External Defibrillators (AEDs) recently purchased by both rescue squads. A defibrillator delivers a controlled electric shock through two paddles to jolt a heart back to normal rhythm. The newest defibrillators, AEDs, automatically decide whether electric shocks are needed and actually talk users through the steps. According to the American Heart Association, defibrillation within five to seven minutes could save many of the 250,000 cardiac arrest victims each year. The survival rate decreases with every minute that passes before defibrillation. "The ACE program is pleased to support our neighbors in West Virginia. These defibrillators will broaden the scope of emergency cardiac care available to area residents including farm families," said Mikal McCartney, ACE program director for Garrett Memorial. ACE is funded by the Rural Health Outreach Grant awarded by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Pictured, from left, at the presentation, are: Walter Donalson, CHE, president and CEO of Garrett Memorial; EMTs Dianna Bachtel, treasurer, Neva Frantz and Ellen Harsh, all of Union Ambulance Service; Ms. McCartney; Diane Lee, ACE program director for the Garrett County Health Department; and EMTs Rosalie (Annie) Ringer, vice president, and Marilyn J. Metheny, board member, both of the Terra Alta Community Ambulance Squad. Not present for the picture was H. Clinton Mayne Sr., president of the Terra Alta Community Ambulance Squad.

AURORA/EGLON

Others attending the council circle were Kaylen Fike, Elizabeth Wotring, Kim Fike, Kendra Durst, Joey Fint, Jessica Callahan, Tina Fint, and Travis and Neil Mersing.

Aurora Pioneers who attended Older Members' Camp in June were Missy Callahan, Kim Fike, Tina Fint, Courtney, Joey and Becca Fint, Rebecca and Elizabeth Wotring, Adrain Stemple, and Katie Utterback. Those who attended Alpha II State 4-H Camp were Jessica Callahan and Becca Fint. Both of these camps were held at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp site near Weston.

MOUNTAINEERS ATTEND CAMP

Members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club who attended Preston County 4-H Younger Camp were Mark Bachtel, Zack Bachtel, David Collins, Dana Feather, Kari Harsh, Maria Harsh, Devin Hauser, Chris and Josh Mullenax, Craig Rembold, Lindsey Teets, and Tracy Teets. Jeremiah Feather served as VCA.

Chris Mullenax served as chief of the Cherokee tribe; Dana Feather was a sagamore for the Seneca tribe; and Lindsey Teets was a Delaware sagamore. At the closing council circle on Friday night, Mark Bachtel received a tribal loyalty felt award; Tracy Teets and Devin Hauser were named outstanding first-year campers; and Lindsey Teets was chosen "Spirit of Camp."

CLASS OF '37 HAS REUNION

Members of the Aurora High graduating class of 1937 met Saturday evening, July 27, at the Amboy United Methodist Church for a reunion. The following attended: Eileen and Quinter Slaubaugh and Elda "Sue" (Ball) Fike, all of Oakland; Elda's guest, Janet Judy, Horse Shoe Run; Hancell and Mildred Teets, and Gertrude (Bolyard) Stemple, all of Aurora; Evelyn (Wotring) Terry and guest, John Clower, Fairmont; and Clifton and Grace (Wolfe) Bachtel, Horse Shoe Run.

AURORA ALUMNI GATHER

Both of the Saturday evening and Sunday dinner Aurora alumni efforts were reportedly poorly attended. Those who have suggestions to improve attendance are asked to contact either the president, James Slawter, or the secretary Frances Roth.

BECKMAN-DONHAM FAMILY GATHERS

A family covered dish meal was held Sunday evening at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building for families of the late Walter and Virginia Donham, and of the late Kenneth and May Beckman. The occasion was prompted by the presence of Harley and Regina Donham's daughter, Kathy Boelyn, and her daughters, Heidi and Monica, Piscataway, N.J.

CORRECTION NOTED

The Aurora High class of 1944 had their reunion on July 20 at the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building, not the class of '43 as stated. It is planned, however, that the Class of '43 will join them in the next reunion.

ROOT-SELL REUNION

The date for the Root-Sell family reunion to be held at Cooper's Rock State Park is August 10, not August 3, as was reported this week. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a gift for the auction. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon in Shelter I.

MULLENAX REUNION

The family of the late William and Ethel Mullenax will meet for a reunion on Sunday, August 11, at the Mt. Grove pavilion. A covered dish dinner will be shared at 12:30 p.m. All family members and friends are invited.

PERSONAL MENTION

Here to attend the Wiles reunion on July 28 on Lantz Ridge were Cecil and Margaret Ford, Jacksonville Beach, Fla; Mary Lou and Jerry Wotring, Monroe, Mich.; and Gladys and Doyle Wiles, Weirton. The Wiles couple are visiting with Hancell and Mildred Teets at Amboy.

Eileen Rembold, Pittsburgh, was a weekend visitor at Eglon with her son and family, Bruce Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold.

As one of his obligations as a member of the Monongahela District Soil Conservation District, Hancell Teets, and his wife, Mildred, visited last week in Buckhannon with relatives. They attended a meeting of SCD directors, and were given a tour of the Truss Joist McMillan plant which manufactures laminated trusses and lumber from logs.

Stormy Shaeffer, Eglon, daughter of Rose and Steve Wilt, spent last week in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, as a result of a ruptured appendix.

Joyce and Paige Ledford, Fayetteville, N.C., were weekend visitors with her parents, Elaine and David Grimm, Aurora.

Anna Fish, Greensboro, N.C., is visiting with her grandparents, Adrain and Pat Stemple, Aurora.

David Hammel, Eglon, accompanied a group of West Marva District, Church of the Brethren youth to Mississippi this week where they will be occupied in a work camp.

Don and Elaine Roth, Horse Shoe Run, attended a meeting of the West Virginia bankers held last week at the Greenbrier Hotel in Lewisburg.

Doris Arnold, Aurora, is recuperating from removal of a cataract last Tuesday. She had previously had surgery on both hands, and her other eye.

UNION AMBULANCE RECEIVES DONATION, OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY - Members of Union Ambulance Service, Aurora, recently accepted a donation from Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., to help fund the purchase of a new piece of lifesaving equipment, an automated external defibulator. Pictured above, left to right, at the donation ceremony are driver Jackie Snyder, EMT Jennifer Conrad, driver Melvin Harsh, EMT Brenda Hartsell, local Pioneer representative Dayton Bolyard, EMT Cheryl Stemple, EMT/Union Ambulance President Ellen Harsh, and paramedic Rose Ina Harsh. The ambulance service also celebrated its 20th anniversary recently with an open house event, during which Maxine Martin, pictured below, displayed a old quilt which was pictured in National Geographic magazine in 1940. Martin is shown below holding a print of the published photo, which depicts Aurora community members working on the quilt, which hangs behind her. In the magazine photo, which now hangs in the new Aurora School, a current ambulance service member is pictured sitting on his mother's lap as she works on the quilt. The quilt originally belonged to Bessie Calcamp, Martin's grandmother. Each winter, Union Ambulance Service members make quilts which are sold to raise funds for the service.

The warning signs and risk factors for Type I - Insulin Dependent Diabetes are: excessive urination; abnormal thirst; unusual hunger; rapid weight loss; nausea and vomiting; obvious fatigue and weakness; and irritability. The warning signs and risk factors for Type II - Non-Insulin Dependent Diabetes are: family history of diabetes; blurred vision; excessive weight; tingling, numbness in feet; skin infections; slow healing; itching; and fatigue and drowsiness. "If you have one or a combination of these symptoms and risk factors, please consult your physician," Mrs. Newcomb said.

Fitness, Arts, Movement Camp Deemed A Success

The fourth annual Fitness, Arts, and Movement Camp, held last month at Garrett Community College, was deemed a success by its director, Ann Wellham.

With a beach party theme to guide them, the 95 campers attending worked all week in their art sessions to create the costumes and props needed for a production presented in the auditorium on Friday. They tie-dyed T-shirts to wear in the performance, constructed the backdrop of sun, sand, and waves, and made surfboards, fishing poles, sand castings, and paper fish for the various numbers. The stage production was directed by Brenda Brosnihan, camp co-director.

In addition to their arts activities, campers participated in roller blading, movement arts, mountain biking, "weird science," and two new activities this year, swimming and climbing on GCC's indoor climbing wall.

The camp was sponsored by GCC, Brenda's Body Shop, Rudy's at Wisp, the Garrett County Health Department, the Garrett County Arts Council, and Bjorn to Screen.

Because of the success of the 1996 Fitness, Arts, and Movement Camp, plans are already underway for next year's event which is set for July 7-11, 1997, according to Wellham. The camp will again be open to children 5-16 years of age, and will have the theme, "Under the Big Top."

LET US KEEP SUNDAYS FREE OF ALCOHOL SALES

Ever wonder why so many people visit Garrett County? Deep Creek Lake is part of it, but there is more! It is a great family place. A place where our children have a better chance to grow up free from the effects of alcohol.

Take a look at some general statistics related to alcohol:

Every day in this U.S. 45 people die from alcohol related crashes.

Alcohol and drugs cause 64% of all child and wife abuse. Add this to the welfare system which is extensively burdened due to alcohol.

For each dollar raised in taxes on alcohol, over $11 is spent to cure the damage!! So in Garrett County, if we raise another $10,000 a year in new alcohol revenue due to Sunday sales, we will spend $110,000! Please consider this factor alone if you are not concerned about other damage from alcohol.

Md. provided statistics show that if we have Sunday sales our highway death rate will go from 3 deaths per year due to alcohol to 4 per year. This alone should cause you to register and vote to continue to keep Sundays as one day free from alcohol.

Considering the above factors and others to come, we all should ask for 7 days free of alcohol, however, we are only asking for the one day - Sunday - to continue as a day free of alcohol.

Please consider the above and if you are not registered, please register and vote in the coming election this fall.

Dennis Ruane To Exhibit Wood Carvings

The public is invited to view an exhibit of new woodcarvings by Grantsville artist Dennis Ruane at The Windrush Gallery throughout the month of August.

Visitors will also have an opportunity to meet Ruane during an artist reception slated for August 9 from 7:30-10 p.m. at the gallery. The reception is open to the public, and refreshments will be served. The Windrush Gallery is located at 720 Morris Avenue, Friendsville, and is open Friday, Saturday, and Monday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ruane currently works out of an 1800's log cabin that he has been restoring along U.S. Route 40. His sculptures range in subject and size, from wood spoons to a six foot statue of George Washington. He has also interpreted ballet dancers and birds of prey into uniquely stylized art works.

"His work is characterized by smooth flowing hues and an interpretive sculptural approach," a gallery spokesperson said. "Although Ruane spends countless hours studying a subject before he begins carving, he always allows himself flexibility in the creation process. His works are faithful to the subject, yet they always carry his signature style of gracefulness and beauty of form."

"My current works represent a new collection of pieces created from local hardwoods, and most of my current works depict wildlife of the area or explore rich and varied historical themes," Ruane said.

Persons may call the gallery at 746-4083 for more information.

GHS Class Of '36 Reunites

Members of the 1936 class of Grantsville High School held their 60-year reunion Saturday evening at the Hill Top Lounge in Grantsville. Eight classmates, spouses, and other guests were in attendance.

The invocation was given by Nellie Yommer, president. Other officers, who will serve another term, are Wilmer Hummel, vice president, and Ethel Buckel, secretary.

Salem Founder Visits Garrett Co. To Celebrate Success Of Grantsville Home

Gottfried Mueller, the founder of "Salem" homes and communities that for nearly four decades have provided a sense of belonging and hope to children who have known only abuse, abandonment, and rejection, was in Garrett County recently to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of one of those homes.

The Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Inc., currently located on a 380-acre farm near Grantsville, and founded in the United States by Louise (Sutermeister) Richards in 1976, opened its first home in January 1978, in Huntingtown, in southern Maryland, and moved to Garrett County in 1979. It has provided a Christian home, family, therapy, and educational services to abused, neglected, and emotionally disturbed children since then. And those involved in the home, along with Mueller and others committed to seeing it continue, gathered for a Founders' Day luncheon at the Grantsville Holiday Inn to share memories and refresh people's memories of the importance of the Salem concept.

Born in southern Germany in 1921, the son of a Protestant evangelist, Mueller has committed his life to providing shelter and food to forsaken, deserted, and lonely people; and he has seen this commitment go from a failed attempt, to the establishment of homes and villages in various locations throughout the world. These homes are given the name "Salem," a word derived from the Hebrew word "shalom," meaning peace and a sense of total well-being.

The first Salem (pronounced "solenut") home was founded by Mueller and several friends in 1957 in Stuttgart, Germany, and was designed to provide shelter, food, and counseling to adults who had grown up unwanted and reared in agencies and institutions, only to be released later to live on their own. After 10 years, this home failed, according to Mueller, because the people he was trying to help saw no reason to change. This led to the eventual establishment of children's homes that offered not only a physical home, but the foundation for emotional, mental, and physical healing that was built in spiritual wellness.

Since 1968, three Salem communities have been established in Germany; two in the United States (the Grantsville home, and one in Rumney, N.H.); two in Africa (a children's hospital in Uganda and an agricultural project in Namibia); one in Israel; and Salem projects are being developed in India, Columbia, Rumania, Russia, Iraq, Rwanda, and Taiwan. The projects are funded, to a large extent, by charitable contributions from churches, civic organizations, businesses, private foundations, and individuals.

Mueller, now 84, has devoted most of his life working towards the Salem projects. Lately, he admits that there are times when he doesn't want to start another venture. "I am too old," he said. "Let someone else do it." But when someone needs his help, he still strives to honor God, and goes where he is needed to offer assistance to start a new Salem, and begin again the healing process for children in need.

THE MARYLAND SALEM CHILDREN'S TRUST celebrated its 20th year of helping neglected, abused, and emotionally disturbed children with a Founders' Day luncheon at the Grantsville Holiday Inn. Here to help celebrate the event was Gottfried Mueller, a native of Germany, whose decision decades ago to devote his life to helping others, resulted in the founding of a home near Grantsville, as well as others in various parts of the world. Pictured above, from left to right, are Nathan Mueller, Mr. Mueller's youngest son who accompanied his father on his trip to the United States; Simon Hauke, also from Germany, who is volunteering his time as a gardener at the Salem children's home near Grantsville; Louise (Sutermeister) Richards, the founder of the Maryland home; and Mueller. Gaither Receives GRI Designation

Lisa Gaither has been awarded the GRI (Graduate, Realtors' Institute) designation by the Realtors Institute of Maryland, announced Karen Spiker, president of A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, this week. Gaither received the title after successfully completing 90 hours of special education outlined by the National Association of Realtors.

"The Realtors Institute of Maryland, which is conducted by the Maryland Association of Realtors, was developed to satisfy the need for a more comprehensive and effective learned experience in various phases of real estate," a spokesperson said. "By taking the courses offered by the institute, a realtor can become a more competent professional, render broader and more effective service, and elevate the standards of the real estate industry."

Gaither also holds the RMM (Residential Marketing Master) designation and has been listed as a member of the Better Homes and Gardens Who's Who for 1995-96.

Gaither is a full-time real estate agent in both Maryland and West Virginia for A & A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens and has been recognized as the company's top listing and sales producer for West Virginia properties since 1993. Her specialties include West Virginia property, acreage, and Southern Garrett County, including Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park.

Gaither resides with her husband, Marlin, and daughter, April, near Silver Lake, W.Va.

Denny's Restaurant & WKHJ Radio Proudly Announce The

Nancy Learey

Congratulations to Nancy Learey, the KHJ-Denny's M.V.P. for July, 1996. Nancy Learey is known by many in Garrett County -- if not by her love for music, certainly by the smile she never seems to be without. Over the years, Nancy has touched many with her talent and giving spirit. For the past 18 years she has been the director of the Garrett Choral Society, and she directed the choir of St. Mark's Lutheran Church for over 20 years. With over 100 musical productions under her belt, Nancy shows no signs of slowing down. Add all these hours of volunteering to some 20 years in the school system teaching the joys of music and theater, and you can see how Nancy is a valuable person to many. When asked how she keeps motivated, Nancy gives credit to area residents. "This county's greatest asset is its people's talents, genuiness and willingness to achieve whatever is set forth," she says.

KHJ and Denny's Restaurant couldn't agree with Nancy more!

As an M.V.P. Nancy will be awarded
* An official Denny's/KHJ M.V.P. Plaque
* A $100 U.S. Savings Bond
* A $50 Denny's Gift Certificate
* An on-air salute on KHJ 98.9 FM

If you know someone, young or old, who has demonstrated random acts of kindness, shown courage against adversity, or has made a special effort to be a positive role model to others...we'd like to know about it. Send entries to WKHJ, P.O. Box 2337, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550, or FAX to 301-334-2152, or drop it off at Denny's in Oakland. Be sure to include your name and phone number as well as the name and number of your M.V.P. nominee.

Farming In Maryland.....

Farm Queen Contestants To Compete At Garrett Co. Fair

The Garrett County Farm Queen Contest, to be held Sunday, August 11, at the Garrett County Fair, will feature three excellent contestants this year; Laah Jane Broadwater, Jennifer Linn Barnard, and Melissa Paugh. The contest, which will begin at 8 p.m., will be narrated by former Farm Queen and present Fair Board Member Rebecca DeBerry.

The contest is open to girls 16 to 19 years of age, whose parents are members of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. The state contest will be held later this month during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

The contestants are:

Laah Jane Broadwater

This 19-year old is the daughter of Hazel and Willard Broadwater of Swanton. She lives on a 230-acre Hereford beef cattle farm where the family also raises market hogs from feeder to finish, laying hens, and crops such as hay, corn, and oats.

Laah's outdoor responsibilities include mowing the lawn, helping to make hay, load hogs, band and vaccinate calves, herd cattle, care for the flowers, and other farm work when she is needed. Her home responsibilities are baking, cleaning, doing laundry and cooking.

She is currently entering her second year at Garrett Community College in the Ag Management Program with a 3.45 grade point average.

This active young lady is the past Maryland FFA president, a Garrett County Livestock Association Member, Oakland FFA Alumni president, and showman at the Garrett County Fair. She is a member of GCC's Agriculture Club, and a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church in Accident.

Her hobbies include showing livestock, participating in FFA events, public speaking, running, photography, and horticulture. Enjoying nature and learning as much about agriculture as possible are special interests of hers.

Laah would like to pursue an Ag Management degree and may transfer to Potomac State College to finish her degree. Her major would be Ag Business Management and her minor would be Agriculture Education. Her other plans include possible internship at the Wye Mills Research Farm and earning the American FFA Degree.

Jennifer Linn Barnard

Jennifer lives on a 350-acre farm near Swanton with her extended family. One uncle has a dairy operation; another uncle has a sheep, goat and beef cattle operation; and her family, another uncle and her grandmother also live on the farm. Jennifer is the 17-year-old daughter of Debra and William Barnard.

Most of her farm responsibilities are with her 4-H and FFA market animal projects. She has a pig and a steer at the present time. In the past she has raised veal calves and sheep, both for breeding and market. She also helps in the hay fields, in the garden and yard, and frequently cleans the animal pens.

Because her mom works and volunteers a lot, meal preparation is often her responsibility. She does regular household chores such as cleaning and laundry. Since Jennifer is the oldest, she has spent a great deal of time baby-sitting. During canning season, she is involved from the picking of the produce, through the entire process until the food is preserved.

She is entering her senior year at Southern High School, and is an honor roll student in the honors program.

Jennifer has been elected the 1996-97 president of the Oakland FFA Chapter, has served as the 4-H representative to the Garrett County Livestock Association, and is a member of the FFA Meat, Livestock, Floriculture and Ag Production Bowl Teams. She shows market steers, swine and sheep at the Garrett County Fair. In March, she was one of Maryland's representatives to the National Conference, and while attending she visited with her Congressman to discuss agricultural issues.

Currently she serves as secretary of the Country Kids 4-H Club where she has held the offices of reporter, vice-president and president. She has been the club's junior leader for several years. Last year she won the 4-H Danforth (I Dare You) Award, and was a Maryland representative to the National 4-H Congress in Memphis, Tenn. She also represented West Virginia in the National Make-it-with-Wool Contest in Reno, Nevada.

In school this busy girl is the Drum Major of Southern Garrett's Marching Band and a section leader in the concert ensemble. She also serves as the secretary/treasurer of the National Honor Society. She attends the Deer Park United Methodist Church where she serves as the pianist for Sunday service. For nine years she has represented the Western Region at the State Public Speaking Contest.

In her spare time, Jennifer enjoys reading, playing the piano, cooking and sewing. She especially enjoys working with animals and showmanship.

In the future she plans to continue her education and pursue a career in veterinary medicine. She would like to own a private animal practice and has volunteered at the local animal hospital and worked at a petting zoo to assure herself that this is something she would like to do as a career.

Melissa Paugh

This 17-year old from Accident is the daughter of Joyce Paugh and the late Frank Paugh. She lives on a 236-acre farm which is leased to Cove Run Farms. Her father died when she was six years old and the farm was too much to handle, but she carries 4-H projects such as steer and veal.

Her outside activities include feeding the steer, cats, and dogs. She also makes sure they have enough feed, and buys the feed when it is running low. Melissa mows her yard as well as well as her grandmothers. Her inside responsibilities are laundry, cleaning and cooking.

Education is very important to Melissa. She will be a senior at Northern High School this fall, and has maintained a "B" average. In June of 1993, she won "Success in Schools," and has been nominated for "Who's Who" this year.

This is her eighth year as a member of Cove Kids 4-H Club. She usually shows steers or veal calves. Over the past two years she has not had good luck with her animals and decided to take a year off, but will try again next year.

Community involvement is also very important to her, and she helps with Northern FoodShare, which distributes food to others who do community service. She also helps with Brown Bag, which distributes food to the less fortunate. This helped her win the Doctor Scott A. Glotfelty 4-H Humanitarian Award. She was stage manager for the play "Steel Magnolias" in the spring of 1994.

Melissa's interests are educational, and she collects stamps, loves to read mysteries, collects all kinds of bears, does needlepoint, and babysits when she can.

Melissa's future plans are to finish high school in the spring of 1997, then go to Garrett Community College and transfer to Frostburg State University. She is going to major in Elementary Education. She hopes to travel and see the Grand Canyon, Niagara Falls, and the Redwood Forest. Eventually she would like to marry and have two or three children. She hopes to life on a small farm and have some dairy cows or beef cows and some horses.

New Fair Event Scheduled For 4-H/FFA Youth

This year a new contest will be added to the classes at the Garrett County Fair and changes have been made in the Tractor Operator's Contest.

A Lawn & Garden Tractor Contest has been added for 4-H and FFA youth. There will be classes for Juniors, Intermediates, and Seniors to include a written exam, identification, lawn tractor safety, and lawn tractor driving (less than 20 Hp).

Changes in the Annual Tractor Operator's Contest will be the deletion of the junior level competition and the inclusion of the universal hand signals as part of the test.

Both contests will be held on Friday, August 16, with the written exam starting at 9:00 a.m., followed by the remainder of the contest. All youth are asked to pre-register by Wednesday, August 14, at either the Garrett County Extension Office or the 4-H Building at the Fair.

For additional information and a required release form, those interested should contact the Extension Office at (301) 334-1990.

Fewer Farms Reported In Maryland For '96

The number of farms in Maryland in 1996 was estimated at 13,700; down 600 from the 14,300 farms in 1995. Maryland farm numbers have shown a steady decline since 1992. Total land in farms for 1996 was 2,100,000 acres, down 5 percent from 1995. The average farm size was 153 acres in 1996 compared with 154 acres in 1995 and 152 acres in 1994.

Evans Memorial Trophy Added To Fair Horse Show

The 40th Annual Garrett County Fair Horse Show, slated for this Sunday, Aug. 11, will have a new award this year: a rotating memorial trophy in memory of Alison Evans. Ms. Evans, who was fatally injured in a traffic accident early this year, was a volunteer leader for the Saddle Tramps 4-H Club who enjoyed riding and competing in combined training trials. She was a member of the U.S. Combined Training Association and competed in dressage and jumping events.

The new award will be given in a jumping class, in which competitors are required to jump a course of fences. Those who run clean and/or have the fewest number of faults will advance to the jump-off, the winner of which will be awarded the Alison Evans Memorial Trophy for one year.

The new class of competition is being sponsored by the Saddle Tramps Club. All entry fees for this class will be donated to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Maryland FFA President Attends State Presidents' Conference

Jonathan Farmer, president of the Maryland FFA Association was one of the state FFA officers who attended the 29th Annual FFA State Presidents' Conference in the nation's capital.

More than 100 young men and women gathered July 22-27 in Washington, D.C., for a training and learning experience that included Congressional visits, discussions of important agricultural and educational issues with national leaders, and visits to major sights around the area. The state officers came from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and represented 451,649 FFA members nationwide.

Farmer, the 20-year-old son of John and Barbara Farmer of Oakland, was elected president of the Maryland FFA Association at the Maryland State FFA convention on June 19.

Watching the state FFA officers move around the nation's capital was a bit like watching a domestic version of the Olympic parade of nations. While they proudly represented the individual states whose names were embroidered on the backs of their blue corduroy jackets, they were united by a common vision: to strengthen agricultural education and FFA in the next year and beyond.

The goal of the State Presidents' Conference is to prepare state leaders for their responsibilities as delegates and committee chairs for the 69th National FFA Convention, to be held in Kansas City, Mo., November 14-16. The conference exemplifies the FFA's emphasis on student leadership. The team of six national FFA officers plan and conduct the event for state officers, who in turn train local chapter officers. Most officers are 18 to 21 years old.

Sen. Larry Craig (R-Idaho), a former state FFA officer, thanked FFA for providing him a solid base of leadership and personal skills. "Congratulations on your accomplishments," he told the group at the opening banquet. "I challenge you to achieve even greater heights."

Later in the week, the students met with Secretary of Education Richard Riley, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard Rominger and Rep. Charles Stenholm (D-Texas). They attended a Congressional breakfast, visited the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Education, met with their individual congressional leaders and received a briefing from representatives of the Clinton Administration.

The FFA State Presidents' Conference is sponsored by Chevy Trucks as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. FFA Alumni leaders also met this week; their conference was funded in part by Philip Morris USA as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

FFA is a national organization of 452,734 members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. The organization has 7,269 local chapters located throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

Harvest Continues Although Rain Keeps Falling

For the week ending August 4, rain again fell in many parts of the state. Wet conditions are damaging some soybeans and lowering the quality of hay.

Field corn development made only modest gains from the previous week. The crop condition was rated one percent very poor, two percent poor, 12 percent fair, 54 percent good, and 31 percent excellent.

The percent of soybeans in bloom made significant gains over last week but remained slightly behind both last year and the five year average. The crop was one percent very poor, 10 percent poor, 17 percent fair, 57 percent good, and 15 percent excellent.

Heading sorghum gained over 10 percentage points from last week but remained considerably behind the previous year and average. The condition was one percent very poor, five percent poor, 22 percent fair, 59 percent good, and 13 percent excellent.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay made modest progress as rain again hampered harvest. Second cuttings of other hay and alfalfa and third cuttings of alfalfa were behind average. Third cuttings of other hay were ahead of average.

Pastures were one percent poor, nine percent fair, 73 percent good, and 17 percent excellent.

Hay supplies were mostly adequate. Apples were two percent poor, 17 percent fair, 66 percent good, and 15 percent excellent. Peaches were two percent poor, 16 percent fair, 63 percent good, and 19 percent excellent.

Topsoil moisture was 59 percent adequate, and 41 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 79 percent adequate and 21 percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 2.9 days suitable for fieldwork.

Pesticide Resistance - Colorado Potato Beetle

The Colorado Potato Beetle (C.B.) has been a major pest on potatoes for years. If they are left unchecked, they can completely destroy a crop. A few years ago they could be controlled fairly easily with insecticides such as Seven; however, the C.B. has a genetic factor that has provided the beetle with the ability to resist a variety of insecticides. Today most potato producers are having a very difficult time controlling the beetle.

The easiest and probably the most effective method of control is rotation to nonsolanaceous crops (crops other than potato, tomato, eggplant, and pepper). The further you can plant your potato crop from last year's solanaceous crop, the more beneficial it will be to reducing C.B. problems. If you are using a chemical control, make sure you use different chemical compounds to reduce the beetle resistance. Some of the recommended insecticides include Align (use when pests first appear and are in the early larvae stage), Ambush, Asana XL, Guthion, Imidan, Necmix, Pounce, Rotenone, Thiodan, and Vydate. Most commercial growers are using a planting application of Admire in the row which seems to be fairly effective. You may want to consider this product for next year. Make sure you read all the label restrictions for each of the insecticides. If you need more information or assistance give me a call.

Another Sheep Referendum?

As you may be aware, the National Sheep Referendum vote last February was ruled null and void after inconsistencies were found in voting procedures. A second Sheep Referendum will be conducted on October 1, 1996. Again, you may request absentee ballots from my office starting August 26 to September 17. The ballots must be returned to the Extension Office by the close of business September 27. You may vote in person at my office on October 1.

A Few More Dollars in Your Pocket

Most dairymen in the area have an opportunity to receive "bonus" payments for milk during the base period coming up. Have you given any consideration for using BST for increasing milk production? With good management you can put more milk in the bulk tank.

U.S. Farm Numbers And Land In Farms Down Slightly This Year.

The number of farms in the United States in 1996 is estimated at 2.06 million, down less than one percent from 1995. Total land in farms is 968 million acres, also down less than one percent from last year. This decline in farm numbers and land in farms continues to follow historical trends. The average farm size was unchanged from 1995 at 469 acres.

The North Central Region was the only region to drop in farm numbers with a total decrease from 1995 of 11,500 farms, a 1.4 percent decline. The Northeast Region was up 0.2 percent or 300 farms. Farms in the South were up only 0.1 percent or 900 farms. The largest increase was in the West with a gain of 1,790 farms or 0.7 percent higher than 1995.

Texas remained the State with the most farms at 205,000, 3,000 more than a year earlier. Missouri was second with 104,000 farms, down 1,000 from last year, followed by Iowa with 98,000 farms, down 2,000 from 1995;

Eleven States increased in farm numbers while 20 states decreased from a year ago. Texas showed the largest increase with 3,000 farms while California and Mississippi showed increases of 2,000 farms from last year. Five States that showed the largest decreases of 2,000 farms each were Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, and Ohio.

Texas continued to lead the nation in land in farms and ranches with 127.0 million acres, down 2 million acres from 1995. Two States with decreases of 400,000 acres in agricultural land from a year ago were Alabama and Mississippi, while New Mexico was off 300,000 acres. The largest increase in land in farms was in Louisiana with an increase of 200,000 from 1995.

The number of U.S. farms in the economic sales class between $1,000 and $9,999 increased from 1,012,920 in 1995 to 1,019,310 in 1996. Those with sales in the $10,000 - $99,999 group decreased from 725,400 to 705,600. The $100,000 and over sales group increased from 333,200 to 338,100 farms.

Estimates for the number of farms and land in farms refer to June 1. A farm is defined as any establishment from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or would normally be sold during the year.

Maryland Egg Production Reported

Maryland laying flocks produced 90 million eggs during June 1996, of which 83 million were table eggs and 7 million were hatching eggs. The rate of lay was 70.9 percent. The average number of layers on hand during June 1996 was 4,234,000. As of July 1, 1996, none of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 48.5 percent of all layers had been through a molt.

U.S. egg production totaled 6.17 billion during June 1996, up 3 percent from 6.01 billion produced during June 1995. Production included 5.21 billion table eggs and 956 million hatching-type eggs. Hatching eggs included 897 million from broiler-type flocks and 59 million from egg-type flocks. The total number of layers during June 1996 averaged 294 million, up 2 percent from the average for June 1995. June egg production per layer was 21.0 eggs, compared to 20.8 a year earlier. On July 1, 1996, 3.8 percent of the layers in the U.S. were being molted and 23.1 percent had been through a molt.

Egg-type chicks hatched during June totaled 34.0 million, 3 percent below June 1995. Egg-type hatching eggs in incubators on July 1 totaled 29.4 million, up 8 percent from the previous year.

Pullets hatched and intended for future placement in domestic egg-type hatchery supply flocks totaled 282,000 during June 1996, up 21 percent from the 234,000 replacements hatched in June 1995.

The June 1996 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 671 million, was down slightly from June of the previous year.

Dept. Of Ag To Use Internet At State Fair

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the Maryland Department of Agriculture booth in the Exhibition Hall at the 1996 Maryland State Fair will allow visitors to tour the department and the state's agricultural industry using a bank of computers offering World Wide Web pages.

"Agriculture is a very traditional industry. However, we are moving into the 21st century and with the internet we can now bring information to people in a new and exciting way. I know everyone who stops by our booth will enjoy their computer tour," said Riley.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's computer display will provide the public with a view of many of the department's programs designed to promote agriculture, protect the environment and protect the consumer.

"Young people in our society are extremely comfortable with computers. I think this will be a tremendous opportunity to reach a whole new audience," Riley said.

In addition to the internet preview, the Maryland Department of Agriculture will have all of its usual displays and activities that fair visitors have always enjoyed. The Weights and Measures Section will be on hand to guess people's weight and in the Maryland Food Pavilion, a variety of delicious food from some of the state's major agricultural commodity groups, such as beef, pork, poultry, wine and seafood will be available. The Food Pavilion will have daily food demonstrations.

The department will also have a strong presence in the Farm and Garden Building with agency displays on such things as aquaculture, resource conservation, animal health, weights and measures, forest pest management, mosquito control, pesticide regulation and plant protection. The Farm and Garden Building will also feature displays by agricultural commodity groups and food sampling and ag food product sales from a variety of small to medium size Maryland food companies.

The 1996 Maryland State Fair will be held at the State Fair Grounds in Timonium, from August 24 through September 2. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day.

PUBLIC AUCTION

Located in Cranesville, W.Va. on the Reckart Mill Rd. at the home of Don and Barbara Phillips near the West Virginia and Maryland line.

Saturday, August 31, at 10:00 a.m.

Reckart's Mill

Nestled in a valley to the east of Briery Mountain in Preston County lies the tiny community of Orr. Perhaps few visitors drive down the country road that passes through Orr in the northern corner of West Virginia which abuts Pennsylvania on the northern border and Maryland on the eastern border. But to those who are willing to journey well off the beaten path there awaits a nostalgic treat.

"A milling community dating from the latter 19th century made up of a mill, mill house, store and hotel," is the description given to the site by the West Virginia Antiquities Commission. Cited as a good example of a 19th-century milling and community center, Reckart's Mill has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places since 1980. It has been restored by Don and Barbara Phillips, who have owned the property since 1973. The couple has lived in the mill house since purchasing the tract and also ran the small store until it closing it last fall.

The mill was built in 1865 by A.S. Albright and was known as Albright's Mill. Mr. Albright ran the mill until 1900. A Mr. Nicoli then operated the mill for the Albright family until it was sold to John Reckart in 1914. The property then became known as the Reckart Tract, and the mill functioned until 1943 when operations ceased for good. It produced mostly buckwheat flour and cornmeal. In addition, it provided power to drive planes that were used to finish rough lumber in an adjoining building.

The mill is powered by a twenty-foot overshot Fitzwater wheel mounted on a rubblestone pylon. A complex system of pulleys and belts transfers the energy to the grinding wheels. Approximately 500 yards upstream, a dam once raised the water level by 21 feet. Water was diverted down a spillway until it reached within 25 yards, or so, of the mill. It then entered a flume and raced down to and over the wheel. The water dropped only a foot over the 500-yard course. The dam has since deteriorated and the wheel is now powered by water pumped from the stream.

The mill has three floors and was constructed using hand-hewn pine erected in a mortise and tenon manner. The basement contains the main drive shaft and wooden pulleys that power the mill. On the first floor can be found grinding stones, a movable wooden crane for lifting the stones, grain elevators, and a corn sheller. The second floor is used mostly for storage. According to Don the mill was simply boarded up when it was closed and virtually all the original equipment is still on hand.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA96S002/1 - Mettiki Coal Corporation, 293 Table Rock Road, Oakland, MD 21550 has requested to appropriate and use an annual average of 500,000 gallons of surface water per day (gpd) and a maximum of 700,000 gallons in one day for treatment of acid runoff from coal refuse piles. The weater is to be taken by a diversion of runoff from the refuse area into two ponds, with the water then withdrawn from the ponds and injected into the Mettiki Deep Coal Mine for subsequent treatment. The points of withdrawal are located about 1.0 mile west of Md Route 345 (Table Rock Road), 0.5 mile northeast of Red Oak Road, 2.0 miles west of Wilson, Garrett County, Maryland.

It is estimated that the ponds can capture up to about 8-17% of the baseflow within the watershed (Dutch Run) that they are located. The water collected in the ponds is contains high amounts of acid, iron, manganese, and sulfate. Flow-bys normally assigned In cases such as this will not be required, since release of water from the ponds would be environmentally unsound and defeat the purpose of the acid runoff collection and treatment process.

GARRETT COUNTY

GA77S032/3 - Mettiki Coal Corporation, 293 Table Rock Road, Oakland, MD 21550 has requested to increase an existing appropriation from an annual average of 680,000 gallons of surface water per day (gpd) and a maximum of 1,200,000 gallons in one day to an annual average of 1,500,000 gpd and a maximum of 2,800,000 in one day for dust suppression, process water, make-up water for coal prep plant evapotative losses. and sanitary facilities. The water is to be taken from a pond on the South Fork of Sand Run, located on the north side of Old Wilson Road, 0.4 mile east of the junction of Old Wilson Road and MD Route 345 (Table Rock Road), 1.3 miles west of Wilson, Garrett County, Maryland.

The withdrawal is taken from the Mettiki AMD (Acid Mine Discharge) Plant retention pond. The applicant presently discharges about 7-8 million gpd into the pond from the AMD Plant, most of which is derived from dewatering of the Mettiki Deep Coal Mine. The applicant has an appropriation of 10 million gpd for dewatering of the coal mine. The requested use consists of recycling about 15-20% of the water pumped from the mine; consequently, there will be no depletion of the natural flow in the South Fork of Sand Run, due to the proposed withdrawal.

Hospice To Hold "Jail & Bail" At Garrett Co. Fair

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will have its annual "Jail & Bail" at the Garrett County Fair, beginning Monday, August 12. Twenty-two locally well-known "prisoners" will be "jailed" throughout the week from 6 to 9 p.m. They will be accepting donations for Hospice to insure their releases.

The prisoners are: John "Dog Face" Braskey, Garrett County Commissioner; Lynn "Sourdough" Patton, owner, Aceident's Old Flour Shoppe Bakery; George "Lucky" Edwards, Maryland House of Delegates; Shirley "Ma Barkers" Lee, former DJ WMSG/WXII:; Hannah & Alan Alias "Bonnie and Clyde, the Barbarian Broadcasters," WFRB; Tim "Moose" Miller, youth pastor at Crellin Assembly of God, and clerk's office supervisor; Greg "Soul Digger" Cummings, pastor, The Apostolics of Oakland; Colleen "Dimples" Mouyard, Arnold Brothers Equipment; Stephen "Backhand" Herman, President, Garrett Community College; David "The Professor" Beard, Southern High civics teacher; Les "Lil Doolittle" Bittinger, Western Maryland Communications; Timothy "Time Bomb Tim" Hare, Western Maryland Communications; John "Big Bad John" Miller, Maryland State Highway Dept.; Beatrice "Bebe Baby" Opel, former owner, Long Stretch Market; Mark "The Pinched Preacher" Hickman, Pastor, Bethel United Methodist Church; Marlin "King Lion" Lawson, Yough River Enterprises; Kelly Marie "Belle Starr" Maxwell, sales representative, WKHJ; Ann "Annie Oakley" Collins, The Data Entry Company; Jean "The Old Broad" Fafrak, Naylor's Hardware; Ron "Earth" Beitzel, teacher; and Freda "Ssenippah" Quintero, clown.

"Your donation for the prisoners' releases will help Hospice expand services and continue to serve the terminally ill patients and their families in Garrett County. Hospice provides total care for the terminally ill patients, such as home health care, medications, medical equipment, medical supplies, hospital and nursing home care. We greatly appreciate your donations of bail money to help provide our services and purchase clinical supplies," stated Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

Deputies for the week will be Karen Otto, Sheryl Sines, Rena McGee, Harry Dunkin, Betty Trickett, Denise Gerard, Bethany Smith, Linda Patton, Tonya Glotfelty, Brenda Butscher and Mary Glotfelty. The photographs of this year's prisoners can be found elsewhere in today's issue of The Republican.

One Injured In PWC Crash On Deep Creek

One man was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last week following the collision of two personal watercrafts (PWC) on Deep Creek Lake. Matthew D. Lameve, 31, Allison Park, Pa., was treated for injuries and released. Cited in the accident was the father of the other vehicle's driver, according to a report from the Natural Resources Police of Maryland.

Lameve was operating a PWC in the North Glade Cove area on Friday at noon when he was struck from behind by a PWC operated by a 12-year-old juvenile. The PWC at fault was also carrying an 8-year-old passenger. All three persons were thrown into the water, and Lameve was later transported to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. Neither child was injured, according to the report.

James R. Fleming, Gibsonia, Pa., was charged for allowing his child - a person under the age of 16 - to operate the PWC.

Also responding to the wreck were the Deer Park and Deep Creek fire companies.

CHEEK-TO-CHEEK is a multiple-word adjective that often describes dancing, but could describe just sitting together, as demonstrated in the photo above, although one tiny set of "cheeks" is going the opposite direction from all the others. While the adults in the photo are seated appropriately on the bleachers, this little girl knew exactly from what direction the lens of Craig Phillips camera was pointing and decided that she would much prefer to have her other set of cheeks in the photo - the one that features a pretty smile. This photo was taken at the annual Friendsville Days celebration, held Friday and Saturday. See a photo spread of the event in section C.

New Technology Being Used For Landfill Closure

Garrett County has been awarded a grant to use new technology in the closure of Garrett County's old Round Glade landfill, located on Oakland-Sang Run Road near the new landfill.

The grant, valued at approximately $1 million, will pay for tons of shredded tires which will be used in capping the old landfill, along with monitoring devices and related study costs to provide planners with information on the results of the project.

"It's more than state of the art," stated Rodney Glotfelty, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and recycling. "They want to demonstrate, 'Yes, this is a technology that can work.'"

The closure of the old dump will also help protect the environment, Glotfelty explained. Covering the garbage to keep out rain and installing drains to collect runoff will help prevent leachate (water that has seeped through the trash) from contaminating ground water or flowing into the Youghiogheny River.

At press time today, state and county officials were slated to be on hand at the old landfill site to take part in a ground-breaking ceremony for the closure project.

"The use of shredded tire chips as a drainage layer is a relatively new concept," Glotfelty stated. "It's less expensive, helps to get rid

Commissioners Approve Yough Management Plan

A plan to manage future use of the Youghiogheny River in Garrett County was approved in a unanimous vote by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week, and will now be submitted to the State Scenic and Wild River Review Board for approval.

The plan was drafted over a period of 20 years by the Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board, and was recently approved by that board in a five-to-two vote. The Garrett County Planning Commission has also reviewed the plan, and approved it in a unanimous vote.

If approved by the state review board, the plan will be submitted to John Griffin, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, for final approval.

"The plan is intended to preserve and protect the river resources through a cooperative program between the state, Garrett County, and local citizens," states the introduction to the lengthy plan. "The purpose of the plan is not to limit all development or use of the Youghiogheny River, but to guide and direct activities to river areas which are appropriate for a particular use . . .

"This study provides a holistic approach to river management," the introduction continues. "Future development will be carried out in a planned and orderly fashion and all forms of activity and land use will be compatible with the Scenic and Wild River designation."

A spokesperson for the local advisory board told the commissioners this week that hearings have been held on the plan, and the period for public comment ended in June.

The entire length of the Youghiogheny in Maryland is officially considered "sce-

Schroyer, a Garrett County resident, was awarded one of the highest peacetime military medals, the U.S. Legion of Merit, for his "exceptionally meritorious service" while serving as chief of staff, Headquarters, 29th Infantry Division of the Virginia Army National Guard.

"Colonel Schroyer's exceptional organizational and planning abilities, in addition to his working with and understanding people, contributed greatly to the overall effectiveness of the 29th Infantry Division," the award citation read. During the same ceremony, Schroyer also received the Virginia National Guard bronze star medal for meritorious service.

During the last three years, with Schroyer serving as chief of staff, the 29th Division has had several missions, the most noteworthy including serving as part of a joint service peacetime force for the protection of Iceland and supplying troops for another mission of peacekeepers in the Sinai Desert.

Col. Schroyer and his wife, Joyce, are long-time residents of the Mill Run area of Friendsville. He is the brother of Mrs. Kim Thomas, also of Friendsville, and Mrs. Janice Frazee, Frostburg.

GCSO Logs Early Morning Arrest In Assault Case

An Oakland man was arrested at about 2 a.m. today by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office as a result of an apparent domestic dispute. Robert A. Lewis, 22, has been charged with one count of assault, according to the report.

Sheriff's deputies were summoned to Old Crellin Road at about midnight to investigate an alleged assault. Lewis had apparently attacked his mother, Audrie Lewis, and then took a shotgun and fled into a wooded area behind the residence. A search was initiated and lasted about two hours, at which time Lewis was placed under arrest.

Assisting the sheriff's office was the Maryland State Police Trooper 5 helicopter.

Another local man was arrested by the sheriff's office this week following a domestic altercation. Ronald E. Paugh, 44, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with disturbance of the peace and disorderly conduct. He allegedly went to the home of Gloria Friend, Mtn. Lake Park, on Tuesday at about 1:30 a.m. and began yelling and cursing outside.

In effecting the arrest, the deputies were assisted by the MSP and an Oakland City Police officer.

Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of the following individuals this week: Michael W. Welch, 31, Oakland, failure to appear in court; Milton C. DeWitt, 44, Mtn. Lake Park, failure to appear; Ronald J. Tasker, 25, Oakland, failure to pay fees; and Dannie A. Stemple, 42, Oakland, failure to appear.

Concertmaster Stuckenbruck Talks About 10th Symphony At Deep Creek

DALE STUCKENBRUCK

by Kristina Carr Smith

Celebrating its 10th Anniversary season, the Symphony At Deep Creek will once again be stirring sweet melodies throughout Garrett County as rehearsals begin the week of August 12. Musicians will be traveling in from New York, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, and Pittsburgh for the two-week season of chamber and symphonic music, old and new faces alike. Musicians will perform under the direction of Erick Friedman, soloist and conductor, and Dale Stuckenbruck, concertmaster.

Stuckenbruck studied with Friedman, a world renowned violinist, from 1971 to 1981, from the beginning of his college studies on through to his doctorate.

"He revolutionized my way of thinking and my playing," said Stuckenbruck, "and I have been really grateful ever since. Coming back to Deep Creek these last 10 years has been really great for me. I always have felt that spending time with him is a continuous learning experience and that it still is. He is one of the world's greatest fiddle players, and I like to be inspired . . . I don't always get as inspired, even as I am in New York. It's a pleasure to come down here, spend time listening to what he does, and to his students

"The atmosphere of the area is wonderful. The people here have been very gracious to us, year after year. They have 'burdened' themselves with our presence," said Stuckenbruck. The musicians stay with local families during the two-week season, which is a special experience for both the musicians and the fami-

A different concert is presented each Saturday evening at Penn Alps. Slated for later this month is Jazzou Jones, a Mississippi riverboat ragtime pianist and entertainer, who will perform on August 17. The season finale is set for Aug. 24 with a program of classical music by the Western Maryland Chamber Orchestra.

Fugitive Still Jailed; Earlier Charges Revealed

Additional information was received this week about a Florida man who was jailed recently after it was learned he was a fugitive from justice from that state.

Michael Stanley Kern, 45, a resident of Vero Beach, Fla., who was currently living in Friendsville, was arrested July 29 after Maryland State Police learned from Florida officials that a fugitive from justice warrant had been issued. During his arrest, which was initiated on Rt. 219, Kern was also charged with a DWI (driving while intoxicated).

According to a report filed at the state police barrack in McHenry, Kern had been jailed on July 27 on prescription fraud charges, but was later released on his own recognizance. Those charges stemmed from his apparent attempt to obtain prescription drugs at the Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry by giving the pharmacist a false name and address.

State troopers responded to a call from Gerald A. Herpel, pharmacist, who said Kern had phoned in two prescriptions (one for Tetracycline, and one for Lorcet 10) for "Ronald

"MOVIE MAGIC" TO FEATURE NEARLY 90 PERFORMERS - The stage at Garrett Community College will be alive with dancers and singers this weekend as Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's "Movie Magic" takes place. The show will feature the dancing and singing talents of about 90 local individuals, including stage veterans Karyn Sellhamer, who will sing Colors of the Wind; Kim Grimm Weimer, singing pieces from Fame and Grease; and the Aerobic Diehards and members of The Garrett Girls, who will perform new routines. Director Brenda Brosnihan said the 90-minute show will be "action packed" and entertaining for all ages. Movie theme songs to be presented will include music from Mission Impossible, Star Wars, Sister Act, The Mask, Aladdin, and Pocahontas, and others. Brosnihan, who is a seasoned director of children and teenagers' dance revues, has this time also included the dancing talents of several local women who will be stepping out on stage either for the first time, or for the first time in several years. "I am proud of how well they have learned the choreography and how great they all look," Brosnihan said. Barb Rush has put in numerous hours as production seamstress, the director noted. The show is being presented at GCC on Friday, Aug. 9, and Saturday, Aug. 10, at 8 p.m.; and on Sunday, Aug. 11, at 3 p.m. Tickets are available now at the following pharmacies: Beachy's, Gregg's, Deep Creek, and Englander's. They will also be available at the door unless there is a sell-out. GLAF is expecting large crowds at the shows, so persons are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance. "Movie Magic" is being sponsored by the civic and service clubs of Garrett County. More information may be obtained by contacting the GLAF office at 387-3082. Pictured above, seated left to right, are dancers Andrea Savage and Ann Sebold. Standing in the same order are Julie Geisler, Carrie Carpenter, Maggie Suess, Brianne Meyers, and Samantha Suder. In the photo below are Garrett Girls Maggie Suess, Sara Sincell, and Amanda Mountain.

BURSTING AT THE SEAMS is the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, located along Center Street in Oakland, and because of that problem, the Society is initiating an effort to find a new home for the museum. The building contains numerous local artifacts, plus a genealogical library. One of the first fund-raising events for that goal will be a dinner at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Thursday, Sept. 19. The event will feature guest speaker Al Feldstein, an historian from Cumberland, who will present a slide program on the history of Garrett County. The cost of the dinner is [illegible] per person. Reservations may be made by sending a check made out to the Garrett County Historical Society to Mrs. Dorothy Cathell, 550 Liberty Street, Oakland, MD [illegible] before September 10. The Pleasant Valley Community Center is located south [illegible] off U.S. Rt. 219 along the Joni Miller Road.

Oakland Residents, Businesses To Pay Garbage Fees

To keep up with rising costs in garbage management, the Oakland Town Council voted this week to adopt a refuse ordinance which will impose minimal fees to residents and businesses for trash hauling. The money will compensate for the cost increase at the new landfill.

The town residents, who have not paid for trash removal before, will now be charged the small fee of $2.50 every three months. Families that generate more than five bags per week will pay $5. Business will pay $10 to $20, depending on the amount of garbage generated during the week.

The fees will be included in the quarterly water bills.

Westvaco Among Those Saluted For Forest Managing

Sustaining Maryland's forest resources is a challenge being embraced by the forest industries of the state through a new program: the Sustainable Forestry Initiative (SFI). The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service recently saluted three businesses in the state for developing SFI, and among those business is Westvaco.

The voluntary effort was developed by Westvaco, Chesapeake Corporation, and Glatfelter as partners. It is supported by the DNR, with foresters being part of a state implementation committee.

"Forests and the benefits they provide enhance the quality of life for all of us," said DNR Secretary John R. Griffin. "Working together for the forest resource through the SFI will ensure a continuous supply of forest products as well as a healthy forest ecosystem."

Westvaco has played a leadership role in the development of SFI and was the first company to publicly endorse the initiative when it was announced in 1994. The wood procurement staff from Westvaco's mills, working with the Maryland Forests Association, DNR foresters, and others, is helping loggers to acquire the training necessary to assure SFI compliance. All Westvaco contracts with wood suppliers, forest service contractors, and loggers require the use of "Best Management Practices" and SFI.

Griffin said that in Maryland, environmental and economic objectives are realized through sustained forestry practices that attempt to maintain forests, including non-timber values such as wildlife habitat and water quality. In the past, Griffin said, forest management emphasized a constant flow of timber from the forest to the marketplace.

The forest products industry is the fifth largest employer in Maryland, engaging more than 15,000 people. It is the largest employer in Western Maryland, according to Griffin. Most of the harvesting of wood products and primary processing occurs in the rural areas of the state, while the secondary industry - manufacturing of finished products - occurs in the central area. The forest products industry reportedly generates over $1 billion annually in economic benefits to Maryland. This value includes wages paid to individuals, income to business generated by the sale of goods and services, and the various taxes collected.

"In Maryland, nearly three million acres of land is forested," Griffin said. "The number of forested acres across the country is increasing. More seedlings are being planted than trees cut. The stewardship responsibility is being accepted by forest landowners who recognize the importance of the resource needs of the future."

Drug Task Force Arrests Two For Marijuana Poss.

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force arrested two local individuals this week following a traffic stop on George Washington Highway near Table Rock Road. Arrested were Scott E. Kahl, 23, Deer Park, and Lisa D. DeWitt, 19, Mtn. Lake Park.

The arrest took place on Friday after the Task Force's K-9 unit detected the presence of narcotics in a vehicle. Kahl had been operating the car when the officers pulled him over. A search of the vehicle revealed 80 grams of marijuana along with drug paraphernalia, according to the police report.

Both defendants were charged with one count each of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, and paraphernalia possession.

President Signs Bill For Jennings Randolph Lake

Legislation which will enable Maryland and West Virginia to jointly enforce boating and natural resources laws on Jennings Randolph Lake was signed by President Bill Clinton on Tuesday.

The legislation was introduced by U.S. Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski (Md.) and U.S. Senators Robert Byrd and Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia. House passage was spearheaded by District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (Md.) and Congressman Alan Mollohan of West Virginia.

"The President's signature represents the culmination of over three years of hard work to enact this law," Sarbanes remarked yesterday. "As many vacationers make their way to Jennings Randolph Lake, they can now be confident that there will be adequate protection provided by law enforcement officers on the lake's surface. And most importantly, it will provide benefits for generations of Americans who will be able to enjoy this beautiful resource."

The lake was formed with the construction of a dam across the Potomac River in 1982. However, the creation of the lake, which is located astride Garrett County's southern border with Mineral County, W.Va., removed the natural boundary between the two states, and the meandering nature of the former river combined with the depth of the new lake further obscured jurisdiction issues on the lake surface.

The lake compact will permit Maryland and West Virginia officials to jointly manage use of the lake, which, at 6.6 miles in length, is one of the largest lakes east of the Mississippi River.

The lake was created in an effort to enhance the water quality of the Potomac River, reduce flood damage, improve water supplies, and increase opportunities for recreation.

Seizure Drug Used for Migraine Headaches

According to a recent report, the annual cost of time lost from work in the U.S. due to migraine headaches is between 5 and 7 billion dollars. This does not include medical tests and treatment costs.

The search for better migraine headache medicines continues. In March (1996) the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved a drug for the prevention of migraines. This medicine has several uses. It has been used in the U.S. for treatment of seizures since 1993. In 1995 divalproex was given approval for the treatment of manic episodes of bipolar mental disorders.

Researchers who have studied divalproex believe it helps migraine sufferers through its ability to elevate brain levels of the chemical gamma aminobutyric acid. Interference in the metabolism of this chemical has been found in persons who experience migraine attacks. The manufacturer of divalproex recommends that the drug is ideal for those who do not respond to other medicines once a migraine attack is under way or for persons who have more than two attacks per month. Side effects may include muscle weakness and nausea. There also have been some reports of increased appetite and weight gain with the drug.

lies who have opened their homes. "I came down the first year on my own, and then my wife joined me. She's a pianist. She'll be playing with Erick on the Resphighi Sonata and the Schumann Sonata.

"As the seasons with the symphony have grown, so has my family by two members. We lead an intensely busy life in New York. We all work hard to make these concerts go well. It is rewarding and relaxing at the same time," said Stuckenbruck, who aside from a professional performing career also teaches at Long Island University.

Commuting to the city every day, he is active as a concertmaster for many groups, active in the recording world, and has a full schedule of solo engagements.

"New York is great, because in order to survive, you have to be extremely flexible, in terms of your abilities as a player; in terms of understanding style. I might play something on early baroque violin in the morning, and then go to a show on Broadway with a jingle in between, and then have a symphonic performance at night," he said.

"It furthers your technique to become variable and flexible. I think if you just stay in a symphonic orchestra all the time, you don't gain that versatility. There are some musicians who take out their instrument, play the show, leave it at the hall, and go home." People that play because they love music and are actively engaged as life-long learners are present in their playing in a different way. There is no comparison. "It's got to be in love," said Stuckenbruck. "There can't be any other reasons . . . it is just a wonderful way to express yourself, inspire people, and to be inspired.

"Part of that has gotten me into trouble because, as I've been concertmaster and musical director for numerous groups. I say this because I can't just go into a job and just walk out. I care about what I'm doing, so other responsibilities come along with it, but they are good challenges." Stuckenbruck gave up the Brooklyn Philharmonic in June because it was too consuming for his family and himself, but feels good to give it back to his colleagues and the professionals who will take over.

"We've had wonderful people involved here at Deep Creek over the years, and we've had wonderful musicians coming in. The fiddles for the most part have been Erick Friedman's students, and it's been interesting for me, as I grow older in rank, to see his first students progress and to see how they are doing. All of us come together from different parts, and don't exist as this unit the rest of the year. We come together for a very short time and put a lot of music together.

"Friedman's ideas and ways of practice are his own, and they are very interesting. These are performances that you might not hear in New York, although you can hear everything there. That makes it exciting that we are able to come here and do things very differently than we would in the city. That is inspiring, too. It is definitely a lot of work, but it is also a time of renewal and time to recharge batteries," he said.

"Year to year, we come back, and I can see things that I'm doing differently, and see things that Friedman is doing differently, and it's just been wonderful," said Stuckenbruck. "I think that people who have heard us from year to year will notice what we notice, the growth that's happened from year to year. We are growing in some very unique ways that I don't think that you can find anywhere else. Our audiences have been wonderfully nice. We've been able to hear their comments about what they like and don't like.

"Our audience has been a part of our musical journey, and they are an audience that we know. In New York, you never meet your audience - you are divorced from your audience. Many players never meet their audience, so here is a chance for us to communicate with [illegible] thought and in what we do. It is a great time musically, and also to learn and know this wonderful community."

Is Parris Waffling?...

As Governor Glendening is closing in on the midway point of his first term as our head of state, we must say we are not overly impressed with his leadership. He is a politician through and through, who governs by fulfilling campaign promises rather than with sound logic and basic good sense.

His latest faux pas, however, that could truly put him at the top of the list of one-term governors is what appears to be his flip-flop on the issue of gambling. Voters should recall that Glendening campaigned as one who is adamantly opposed to legalizing gambling in the state, including casino gambling and slot machines at race tracks. But it was learned this past week that, following a private meeting with Baltimore Mayor Kurt Schmoke, the governor is now willing to reconsider his position on allowing slot machines at the state's race tracks if it is shown that slot machines at tracks in neighboring states, such as Delaware, are negatively affecting Maryland's thoroughbred horse racing industry.

A statement issued by the governor says that he is still "philosophically opposed" to slot machines, but he has nonetheless opened a door of reconsideration through which the racing industry is no doubt going to leap. His statement went on to say that the primary focus of his meeting with Mayor Schmoke was the Baltimore City public school system; how to reform it and finance it. Legalized gambling does indeed pump large sums of money into the state coffers, but brings with it many negatives.

The main point of this column today is not to expound on the evils of gambling, although there are many. Instead, our concern is the governor's apparent waffling on the issue after speaking out so strongly in opposition to it during his campaign. There is nothing wrong with changing one's mind, as long as the reasons for change are both honorable and justifiable. In this case, we don't believe these adjectives apply.

Of course, this is wonderful news for the state's Republicans and particularly Ellen Sauerbrey, the Republican candidate for governor who lost by just a handful of votes to Glendening. Unless the governor does some immediate and effective backtracking on this issue, Maryland may have its first female governor in about 27 months.

To the Editor:

A great concern of mine is about the Mud Bog that the Deep Creek Fire Dept. had at the Garrett County Fair.

They are not going to have one this year and it is a shame, because I competed in the Mud Bogs and I have talked to a lot of other "Mud Boggers" who had planned on coming to the Fair.

I have heard that it is because of insurance, but I don't believe it because you have to sign a release form before entering. I know there was a bad wreck last year, but if the firemen would have graded the bump off at the end of the track that would not have happened.

If they are not going to have Mud Bogs at the Fair, there is going to be a lot of disappointed people. I along with many others will not be going to the fair because of this.

To the Editor:

A prior letter reported a 5-4 U.S. Supreme Court decision holding that the Gun-Free School Zones Act of 1990 exceeded the authority of the U.S. Congress to regulate commerce under the Federal Constitution's commerce clause. The Act, which made it a crime for knowing possession of a firearm in a school zone, was not sustained as a regulation of an activity that substantially affects interstate commerce because it was a criminal statute that had nothing to do with commerce or any sort of economic enterprise. United States v. Lopez. The Republican 9-7-95.

On July 29, 1996, U.S. District Judge Jackson L. Kiser in Roanoke dismissed a suit filed by Christy Brzonkata, a Virginia Tech student who said she was raped by two college football players. The suit was based on the 1994 Violence Against Women Act which held the concept that attacks on women affect their job performance and thereafter have an effect on Interstate commerce. Citing the Lopez case, Judge Kiser rejected arguments that violence against women affects interstate commerce because it prompts them to travel across state lines, change their employment to another state or seek medical care outside their home state. Assaults on women do not have a substantial effect on Interstate commerce. "Without a doubt, violence against women is a pervasive and troublesome aspect of American life which needs thoughtful attention. But Congress is not invested with the authority to cure all the ills of mankind. Its authority to act is limited by the Constitution."

Rep. Constance A. Morella (R-Md), a key sponsor of the Act, called the Act "a very critical piece of legislation in combating gender-based crimes when state laws don't work. Its important where there is no justice forthcoming from the state courts. This case should be heard in a higher court." William Cohen, a Stanford University law professor said, "If I had to bet the farm on this, I think it will be affirmed by a (U.S. Supreme Court) vote of 5 to 4."

A school panel suspended one of the alleged rapists for two semesters, but the punishment was later vacated; the other was cleared of all university charges. After a two-month state investigation, a grand jury declined to indict the two men in April, ending the threat of criminal prosecution.

To the Editor:

No matter who the Atlanta Olympic bomber turns out to be, I would vote for the death penalty and even volunteer to pull the switch. However, the media treatment of the security man, Richard Jewell, who alerted the bomb squad to the bomb in Atlanta has been truly outrageous. CBS News reported Mr. Jewell as being a "zero", a "nothing." They then carried an interview with a "profile expert" from Washington who confirmed a typical profile for such a bomber and then confirmed a connection between this man and the profile. He has been derided and humiliated by the press to an unbelievable degree. The fact that he was a security man was included as though it was a less than honorable profession. His weight, his facial appearance, has also been brought in to comment in a degrading way.

During the television show Washington Week in Review yesterday, August 5, the members of the panel offered as a mitigation the fact that each mention of Jewell has dutifully reminded the consumer that Mr. Jewell had not been charged with anything. Meanwhile they have described him in the most unflattering way possible. Get this! At one point one of the panel members commented that if Mr. Jewell is innocent, he might be the richest private cop in America. Then they laughed at the comment. There's a real caring group for you. There wasn't enough integrity on that stage to wad a shotgun.

It is so ironic to me that Mr. Jewell has been scoffed at most with regard to the fact that he was eager to be interviewed. The top end of national media is packed with the lowest form of sycophants. It is enough to make one want to throw up sometimes. If the TV media wants to look for camera hogs, they don't have to go any further than the Washington beltway. No one should be surprised that a private cop in Atlanta who just might have been responsible for saving a few hundred people because he was alert at what is probably the most boring job in the world would be proud of what he had done,and might just want the lime light for thirty seconds.

Along with my personal indignation goes another real concern. Faced with the present gutter journalistic position of the media in this country, I wouldn't run for dog catcher in Podunk. Can you imagine what the press would have done with Colin Powell after the initial honeymoon was over? I have no doubt that General Powell is as clean as they come, but how clean do they come? How perfect can a person be? There is a horse thief in almost every family tree and who wants to go through that?

Well lawyers, move over. TV "journalism" has now reached the top of my list as the least desired profession.

To the Editor:

Like all residents of Garrett County, we recently got our tax bill. I don't recall any public meetings concerning the raising of taxes or anyone asking for our input into how our money should be spent. I could only see one pay raise, the sheriff, from $45,000 to $50,000. $5,000 could have made the visiting area of the jail accessible. I begrudge no one a pay raise. I'm sure we can do it all, if we clean up the waste. The other figures were not broken down to determine how exactly our money will be used. It fit nicely into "general area."

How much did it cost, for instance, to pay for the lawyer who had to defend the county against Robert Tousek? What he did was wrong, but not as wrong as the people or person who was in charge of seeing that he did his job. That person or people should be questioned by the taxpayers. They wasted a lot of our money.

How much money is really necessary to run this small county? The roads department does an excellent job and deserves a lot of praise, as I'm sure most civil servants do. Most teachers and bus drivers are very dedicated. I'm sure there is a lot of waste that could be cleaned up and the money spent wisely, like how much do we make off our recycling efforts? Does it help pay for the people who run the recycling cites?

I'm saddened to see so few computers in our schools, not enough special teachers, and no vo-tech school. I'm saddened to see no community center for our children.

The lake residents provide a great deal of money to our county. They bring money to our community through businesses and tourism. What do we do for them? They certainly do enough for us. We have a great deal of police here. Is our crime rate that high to warrant so many? I personally like being protected, but are we driving the tourists away? Was raising taxes a wise move with the closing of Bausch & Lomb? Is that why they are leaving, because the taxes pushed them out? We only make so much money. I know we have to cut somewhere to come up with $200.00 more in our personal taxes, so businesses here will see less of us or our customers will pay more and you'll see less of them. Maybe we don't account for much, but we do add to the economy.

Will you drive people out of here to West Va.? Why not? West Virginia schools have several computers in every classroom. They have vo-techs. They have specialists for any problem at any age. The teachers run their schools and there are few in administration. They have problems too, but the money is on the children, not the county office. Senior citizens pay no taxes. They may have poor roads, but a 4-wheel drive will get you there. They are looking for ways to attract and keep businesses and doing it.

What does our county have to offer us to keep us here? We can visit the parks. Our commissioners need to look long and hard at what they've done. They've stopped progress in its tracks. It's our money and we need to get someone, somewhere to see they work for us!

THE COMPUTER CORNER

SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED PART ONE

After a brief vacation, I am pleased to continue this column. I would like to thank all those people who have encouraged me in my writing; your support makes this effort worthwhile. I continue to welcome your questions and comments. In this column I will begin an effort to answer some of the many questions that have been asked since I began writing two months ago.

I sent our editor a couple of months' worth of columns on basic computer topics, just to get the ball rolling. However, I really hope that most of my effort in writing will be directed to the issues and questions that Garrett County readers (and others more far afield) would like to see answered here. As expected. I have received a number of specific questions about computers, which I will start answering this week.

On seeing my first column, a friend of mine said I saw your column. but I didn't read it." She added that she didn't see any relevance to her life in a column about computers. She is not alone. The question that I am asked most open is, "why should I care about computers?" There are three possible answers to this query. I will cover the first today and save the others for next week.

You should care about computers because most of the rest of the world cares about them. Now, I know that this is not a particularly compelling argument in Garrett County. Those of us who have chosen to live here did so partly because of this community's innate resistance to the fads and trends of our society, many of which are decidedly not improvements to the way of life here. However, a friend of mine at GCC hits the nail right on the head: computers offer Garrett County a window on the world (or the world-wide web) without our giving up those benefits that lead us to want to live here.

Using computers in our homes and places of business, we can be in contact with banks, stockbrokers, suppliers, doctors, attorneys, news, commentary and just plain folks all over the world. For example, students at our high schools can stay in touch with French or Spanish students who have visited here, long after the exchange is over.

We can share our ideas (conservative, of course) with people who are similarly inclined and with those who are not, without leaving the environment in which those ideas are nurtured.

Now, there is a downside to this, as well. We might actually be exposed to points of view that we may have not considered. Our children may actually come to the realization that our ways are not the ways of all the rest of the world. I fail to see the disadvantage in this: I have heard it said that knowledge is power, and the more our citizens know about what is going on elsewhere, the more we can do to make this community the kind of place where we all want to live. I commend our Board of Education and teachers for making this possible for more and more Garrett County children.

This covers my first answer to the question. I will continue with two more possibilities next time.

View From My Window

GETTING READY TO GO

A few weeks ago I wrote about what -- in computer lingo -- we might call a virtual trip. I visited foreign parts via the local library.

In the same time period that I was visiting the library, at home my wife, two of our children, and I were preparing for a real trip, one to be made in an airplane to England and Scotland.

My first visit to Great Britain was in 1973 as a student. I was fortunate to spend three years in British universities over the course of my academic career. Needless to say, I have a great love for the place and people. I am not, however, an Anglo-phile -- a lover of English things -- so much as a Scoto-phile -- a lover of Scottish things.

The friends I made as a student were mostly from my final two years of study at Oxford University. They are all English, and a number of them have been to visit here, first during my bachelor days but also during these past four years of married life. They were my friends, but now they are our friends. So the four of us are going to stay with them for some happy mooching.

This real trip has kept me in the library a good bit, too. When one goes so far and spends so much, one wants to have a reasonable likelihood of a happy time. During the past few weeks we have all dipped into the library books, volumes on Scotland, on stone circles, on the Anglo-Saxons and the ancient Britons who were there before the Anglo-Saxons. We have read up on castles and gardens and great places to walk, enough I hope that we shall recognize at least some of what we see.

The time spent with friends will be partly under their direction, so it will be easy enough. In any case, we know we have a place to eat, sleep, and take a shower, or a bath, anyway. When we head for Scotland our adventure begins.

We also plan to stay in a monastery in the north of Scotland, something which excites me, and makes the rest of my family a little nervous. I tried to help by suggesting that they think of it as entering a time machine, but that only made them more nervous. We hope to visit Loch Ness and if not see the famed monster at least hear the stories of other people's sightings.

Such a trip means a major commitment. Obviously it takes money. We forwent a family vacation last summer, and we may need to forgo one next summer. We reckon it is worth taking three vacations in one when it is such a vacation. Deborah and I also reckoned we couldn't even make a down payment on a new family-sized car for what the trip is costing us. That tells us the trip is good value or that automobiles aren't, or may be little of both.

The bigger commitment is to try to make everyone else on the trip happy, or, failing that, trying very hard not to make anyone unhappy. I shall give a report later about how we do on that front. Even in the planning, different activities have to be considered with the different interests, attention spans, and needs for food and sleep which each person has.

All in all, to tell the truth, and the short of it is, we are very excited about this trip, excited to see friends in foreign places, excited to be doing something so big together. Finally to do something that one has planned for two years is itself mighty exciting. I can say so now that we have just about everything done that had to get done before we could leave.

Once we are on board that airplane, then whatever we forgot won't matter anyway. They have toothbrushes in England, too. And if I didn't get the windows washed before I left, who cares? I can wash off the new dirt with the old when I get back.

THE U.S.S. GARRETT COUNTY, which sailed under the U.S. flag during World War II and the conflict in Vietnam, is the subject of a newly enlarged exhibit at the Garrett County Historical Society museum in Oakland. The ship is pictured above during sea trials in San Francisco Bay. A Vietnam-era flight uniform, flight logs, and plaque from the vessel were recently donated to the museum by a retired naval officer who served on the ship in the late 1960s. See story.

Memorabilia From U.S.S. Garrett County Donated To Historical Soc.

A collection of artifacts from the U.S.S. Garrett County, a ship used by the U.S. Navy in World War II and Vietnam, were recently donated to the Garrett County Historical Society by retired Navy Captain William P. Franklin, who logged over 300 combat missions from the deck of the vessel during the Vietnam conflict.

The donated items, including a mannequin dressed in a naval flight uniform and Franklin's flight logs, will be displayed at the society's museum on Center Street, Oakland.

Built during WWII, the U.S.S. Garrett County LST 786 was designated a landing ship tank, meaning that the vessel had a very shallow draft and could nose up to a beach to unload tanks into a combat situation, a museum spokesperson said.

When the ship was called back into service on the rivers of Vietnam, the 22-year-old Garrett County was fitted with a flight deck for helicopters.

During the war years of 1969 and 1970, Capt. Franklin was officer-in-charge of Helicopter Light Attack Squadron Detachment 6, which operated from the deck of the Garrett County.

This detachment of helicopters was part of the noted Seawolf Squadron, the mission of which was to support Navy Seal teams, river-line patrol boats, and other allied forces. For over seven years, various detachments of this squadron operated from the deck of the Garrett County, becoming one of the most decorated squadrons in the Navy, the spokesperson said.

In addition to the uniform and logs, Franklin also donated a Seawolf Squadron plaque for display in the museum.

The U.S.S. Garrett County was retired from active service in 1972 and was sold to the Republic of the Philippines.

Franklin, a native of Keyser, W.Va., retired from the Navy in 1991 after 36 years of active duty and recently purchased a home in Oakland. His daughter and son-in-law, Vicki and Tim Schwinabart, reside near Deep Creek Lake with their daughter, Jordan.

"The present display of U.S.S. Garrett County artifacts in the museum is the result of untiring efforts by Mrs. Beth Friend, curator of the museum," the spokesperson said. "Although the display area is becoming crowded with other war memorabilia, space was found for the addition of Capt. Franklin's donations."

The museum will be open weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., throughout August.

Employment, Jobless Rate Higher

Employment in Maryland increased at a record-setting pace in June, reaching an all-time high of more than 2.6 million. However, the seasonal increase in the number of summer job seekers entering the labor force caused the unemployment rate to rise from 4.8 percent in May to 5.1 percent in June.

In Garrett County there was an increase in employment of nearly 400 jobs, however just like the state, the jobless rate also increased, from 8.8 percent in May to 9.6 percent in June. The June 1995 rate was 11.3 percent.

Maryland's unemployment rate continues to be lower than the national level, which rose to 5.5 percent in June. Across the state, unemployment levels include lows of 2.9 percent in Montgomery County and 3.2 percent in both Howard and Frederick counties.

Following seasonal adjustment, employment growth sufficiently accommodated labor force expansion, allowing the unemployment rate to drop from 5.0 percent in May to 4.7 percent in June.

"It is good news that Maryland in June had the highest number of employed people on record," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Also positive and important is the fact that a drop in the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate indicates real economic growth in the state."

Rising unemployment is typical in June, as students and summer job seekers continue to flow into the labor market. This influx into the labor force often exceeds job availability. Nearly 68,400 job seekers entered the labor market in June. However, employment also expanded, with an additional 57,038 Marylanders finding jobs. June's employment gain, while the largest increase ever for a month, fell short of labor force expansion, causing the number of unemployed to rise to 143,547.

During June, hiring activity was reported throughout the private sector.

Neubert Selected As Participant In NASA Program

Eric Neubert, son of John and Cathy Neubert, Grantsville, was recently selected to participate in the 1996 NASA Sharp Plus Research Apprenticeship Program this summer.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the selection of 300 high school students as participants in this year's program. The apprentices in this research-based mentor program, part of NASA's Education Division, were chosen from a pool of 1,000 applicants. The 300 Sharp Plus Apprentices (179 female and 129 male students) come from 29 states, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Washington, D.C.; and a U.S. military base in Germany.

The 1996 apprentices represent the fourth group of students to participate in this Summer Research Program, bringing the four-year total of selected participants to 900. Selected students must meet numerous criteria, including having a significant and demonstrated interest in pursuing a science - or engineering-related career and participating in a formal interview, if chosen as a finalist, as part of the evaluation process.

"The students have opportunities to apply the skills and knowledge obtained from their high school mathematics and science courses and to gain invaluable 'hands-on' research experienced said a program spokesperson. They also get to interact daily with practicing scientists and engineers as well as experience life on a college campus."

Students spend eight weeks in residence at 14 universities that have joined with NASA to implement the program. Apprentices engage in research activities under the guidance of industry or university-based mentors engaged in science or engineering-oriented research. They also participate in a variety of enrichment activities and receive information on MSE (Math/Science/Engineering) careers, college admission requirements, and potential sources of financial support for college.
